CRESCENTS ARE CHAMPIONS.

THEY DEFEAT ORANGE AT FOOTBALL.

THE NEW-JERSEY TEAM'S COACH UPSET AT THE ENTRANCE TO THE GROUNDS—DETAILS OF THE GAME.

The final game for the championship of the American Football Union between the Crescent and Orange Athletic Club teams was played at Washington Park, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. The Crescent men won after a well-played game and hold the championship, as the games are played under college rules. The actual season's record is the same, each team winning four and losing one game. The Crescents were champions last year, and consequently still hold the honor.

The Orange team was late in arriving, and when their coach or stage drove through the Fourth-ave. entrance to the grounds a cheer of welcome went up from the spectators. The cheer was instantly changed to a cry of horror when the coach was seen to tumble down the steep embankment. The vehicle and horses struck the level ground with a great crash, and with such force as almost completely to demolish the coach. The top was shattered and broken glass was strewn everywhere.

Willing hands helped to extricate the players, none of whom were severely injured. Half a dozen of the men had jumped from the rear door and the windows when they saw that the coach was going down the embankment. Spier, McKenzie and Mowry were cut about the hands and wrist and Bovaird's back was bruised. All were thoroughly shaken up. One of the horses shied just after entering the gate, and dragged the other animal and the vehicle out of the gradually inclined road.

The game was started about five minutes after the accident happened. Six hundred people were present. The field was a sea of mud and a dense fog made it impossible to recognize the players from the grand stand. Orange missed the services of Corbin, Stagg and Spier, and if those men had played, Crescent would hardly have won by the score of 14 to 0.

The two teams lined up in this order:

Crescent A. C.	Positions.	Orange A. C.
J. Lamarche	Left end	Bovaird
H. Lamarche	Left tackle	Coyne
George	Centre	H. Stagg
Geddes	Right guard	C. Stagg
P. Lamarche	Right tackle	Marshall
Sheldon	Right end	Mowry
Edwards	Quarter-back	De Hart
Hewlett	Left half-back	Purdick
Terry	Right half-back	Maynard
Moffatt	Full-back	Spalding

Referee—Eugene Richards, '85, of Yale College. Umpire—Tracy Harris, '85, of Princeton College.

Terry, Edwards, De Hart, Bovaird and Hewlett won the honors, Hewlett's work being especially conspicuous. Orange's tackling was weak, and the latter part of the game was merely a punting. The Crescent men knew their strength and played well as a team and with a good deal of confidence.

The Orange men seemed "rattled" at the start, and this was probably caused by their shaking up in the coach. As soon as play was begun the Crescents by combined rushes bore the ball toward the Orange goal at the lower end of the field. Terry did good work. Moffatt made a touchdown, after a clever run in a remarkably short time. Terry tried for goal and missed by twenty feet, and the Crescents had the lead by the score of 4 to 0. The ball had not been in play over three minutes when Crescent got the ball, and Terry carried it over the Orange line again, but it was off side play and was not allowed. Then the Crescents lined up again and determined to force the ball over the line, depending on the wedge trick. It was successfully accomplished, and Hewlett slipped through the Orange line and made a second touchdown just between the Orange posts. Terry easily kicked a goal, making the score, Crescents, 10; Orange, 0.

Time was called after a half-hour of play. The second half was played with a new ball, the other having become water-soaked. The Orange men tried a wedge, but there was a misunderstanding about the signals, and the Crescents gained five yards. Moffatt and Spalding, the full-backs, did some clever kicking. Bovaird was knocked unconscious in a collision, but quickly recovered and resumed play. Hewlett made another touchdown, but Terry missed goal. The Orange men showed improvement as the game went on, but in spite of their desperate efforts they failed to break Crescent's stone wall. When time was called the ball was in the centre of the field. The score was: Crescent, 14; Orange, 0.

THE ARMY DEFEATS THE NAVY.

AFTER A HARD FIGHT THE LAND FORCES WIN A VICTORY—SCORE, 4 TO 0.

A game of football took place yesterday afternoon at the marine parade grounds in the Navy Yard. The game was a friendly one between the officers of the Navy and Army in and around New-York. The Navy were at home, and mustered a full team, but the Army had to take substitutes from the sons of their officers, and two of these sons, Tompkins and Curtis, were the mainstay of their side, and really won them the game. Despite the wretched weather and the bad condition of the grounds the game was an excellent one. Though neither side had had any recent practice, the old knowledge of college days came back to the players, and there was little loose playing, some brilliant runs, and no "slugging." The game was for two half-hours.

The Army got the ball in the first half, and with a "V" rush gained some ten yards, and on the third touch Tompkins made a run and brought the ball into the Navy's quarter line; gradually, however, by the good play of Kane, McVieau and Long, the ball was forced back, but nearly at the end of the first half-hour the Army forced the ball back, and Curtis got a touchdown. The kick by Curtis was a failure, making four points for the Army.

In the second half the Navy opposed and rushed the ball and after numerous scrimmages Kane made a kick for goal which, however, resulted in a safety touchdown. Shortly afterward McKean made what seemed a good run from centre-field and made a touchdown for his side, but it was declared off-side and the ball was returned. At the end the score stood Army 4, Navy 0. The following were the sides:

Navy.	Position.	Army.
Eugene Haeseler	Centre rush	Lieutenant Meinhold
Cadet M. Kean	Right end	Lieutenant Hagner
Ensign Hill	Right guard	Lieutenant Rafferty
Ensign Hughes	Left guard	Lieutenant Rodney
Lieutenant Melton	Right tackle	Lieutenant Trent
Cadet Hoff	Left tackle	Dr. Haskin
Ensign Robison	Left end	Lieutenant Harts
Cadet Long	Quarter-back	Lieutenant Greer
Cadet Brand	Left half-back	Mr. Tompkins
Lieutenant Kane	Right half-back	Mr. Curtis
Lieutenant Pratt	Full-back	Lieutenant Judson

Among those present were Vice-Admiral Braine, Lieutenant Norton, Paymaster Chapman, Dr. Griffith, Lieutenant Adams, Chief Engineer Windsor, Major Huntington, Captain Robinson, Captain Kelton, Captain Hoxie, Captain Cotton, Lieutenants Kelly, Fisher, Benson, Spicer and Andrews, Ensigns Omar, Field and Bristol, Captain Robinson, United States Marines, and Captain Cochran, 13th Regiment.

STATEN ISLAND GETS THE PRISONER.

Baltimore, Dec. 6.—The adjourned hearing in the Staten Island yacht case before Judge Morris, of the United States District Court, came on this morning. District-Attorney Fitzgerald, of Staten Island, and Attorney-General Whyte, of Maryland, appeared for the New-York authorities, and Ruddle & Taylor appeared for George T. Mason, the prisoner. The objection taken on Saturday last to the papers by defendant's counsel was held to be untenable by Judge Morris, who took occasion to compliment District-Attorney Fitzgerald upon the completeness of his requisition papers and the manner in which they had been made up. The habeas corpus case was then dismissed, and Mason, the prisoner, was handed over to the Staten Island officers. Mr. Fitzgerald had a big fight to get Mason. He was twice before Governor Jackson, and had to maintain in two courts the right of Staten Island to have the body of Mason.

THE NEW-YORK CENSUS CASE.

SUPERINTENDENT PORTER'S STRONG STATEMENT.

HIS REVIEW OF THE CONTROVERSY—THE UNTRUSTWORTHINESS OF ESTIMATES—A RECOUNT NOT LIKELY ON THE STRENGTH OF TAMMANY'S EVIDENCE.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Washington, Dec. 6.—The hearing of the New-York City census case was continued to-day before the House Committee. Mr Bowers devoted himself mainly to the citation and explanation of various precedents to support his contention, which seemed to be that Congress has the power to amend the Census law so as to provide for the re-enumeration of the population of any State—a proposition which no sane or intelligent person will be likely to deny. Mr. Bowers appeared to feel that his presentation of the case as to the second Ward on yesterday was inadequate, and he therefore supplemented it by some statements which did not seem to be in any wise material so far as the demand for a recount of the whole city is concerned. It appeared that many of the affidavits submitted are in the handwriting of the fifteen notaries before whom they were subscribed, and that the municipal enumeration of that ward was made by two police officers. Mr. Bowers was unable to give any satisfactory reason why the police returns were not submitted by him as a part of his case, and he showed a disposition to fight shy when members of the committee pressed him on that point. He finally said, however, that the returns would be produced before the committee if desired.

Mr. Bowers's arguments have been so loose and discursive, and the so-called evidence which he has submitted has been so weak and inconclusive, that it must have made only a slight impression upon the committee. It is altogether probable that unless the Tammany authorities can present better and fuller evidence than they have yet submitted, the Census Committee will not recommend the adoption of Mr. Flower's resolution.

Superintendent Porter did not have time to complete his reply to-day, but as far as it went his answers to the assertions of the city authorities and their attorney were most conclusive, not to say crushing. He did not discuss any of the legal questions to which Mr. Bowers devoted so much time. After calling attention to certain unjust inferences suggested by the preamble to Mr. Flower's resolution, meeting the attitude and action of the Census Bureau in regard to the pending controversy, Mr. Porter devoted himself wholly to rehearsing the official history of the census of New-York City, and of the resulting controversy, and to answering various allegations down to and including his memorandum in reply to the first preamble and resolutions of the New-York Board of Aldermen, which memorandum has already been published in The Tribune—a portion of it September 14, and the remainder November 20.

Mr. Porter showed that, until yesterday, he never had been placed in possession of a single fact by the municipal authorities of New-York in support of the demand for a recount of the population of that great city, despite efforts to obtain such facts by application in the proper official quarters. He recalled the fact that no complaint was brought to his notice officially until September 5, nearly nine weeks after the official enumeration was published; that every newspaper and other complaint prior to that date had been carefully investigated by a special agent of the Census Bureau, with the result of adding 2,372 names to the original returns; that in the period of nine weeks, as well as in the time between June 1 and July 1, neither the Health Department nor any other branch of the municipal government had made any complaint whatever either to Supervisor Durrea, whose office was near, or to the superintendent of the Census. He also called attention to the fact that the allegations contained in the preamble and resolution of the Board of Aldermen were of a general nature and wholly unsupported by evidence, so far as the allegations rested upon the report of the city Bureau of Vital Statistics. He showed that the official enumeration did not indicate a large or abnormal increase in the death rate of the city, as compared with the census of 1880.

Mr. Porter's answer completely refuted the charge that he had refused or neglected to respond to any proper request made by the municipal authorities. When their application for copies of the schedules for the second Ward was received November 12, there were twenty-four other similar applications ahead of it, but it was taken out of its order and advanced, and copies of the schedule were furnished November 14, on the same date he had applied to Mayor Grant for a copy of the municipal schedules, and the Mayor had not been courteous enough even to acknowledge the receipt of the application.

Superintendent Porter regarded as absurd the submission of affidavits of newspaper reporters, or of any other persons, to the accuracy of the footing of columns of figures—which must prove themselves; of course such affidavits are wholly worthless. Special Agent Olcott had accidentally discovered a trifling error of 40,000 in the footings of the police returns, although he was not sent to New-York for the purpose of revising or correcting the figures.

Mr. Porter then explained how investigations had been ordered and corrections made in response to applications based on evidence furnished in regard to many cities and towns, or parts thereof, including Albany, where a recount of three wards showed perfect agreement in two of them and an increase of 200 in the other, St. Louis, Nashville, Charleston and Kansas City. From Kansas City he had received a telegraphic dispatch, in effect as follows, from the supervisor:

"Population of Kansas City 47,000 less than the estimate. What shall I do?"

To this he replied:

"Don't make estimates."

A recount showed a loss of 1,200 in Kansas City, and the people petitioned him to allow the original count to stand, which he could not do, inasmuch as the recount showed that one of the original enumerators had "padded" his return by the addition of 300 fictitious names.

Mr. Bowers had dwelt upon the "hue and cry" raised by the people of New-York for a recount, and as evidence of its huge proportions had produced six-teen letters from different persons. One of these related to the case of John H. Inman, whose house was closed when the census was taken, and a majority of the others were of a like nature. In the case of Austin Corbin, the enumerator was compelled to make no less than six trips downtown to Mr. Corbin's office before he could get the schedule filled. Superintendent Porter thoroughly exposed the worthlessness of estimates of population based upon returns of registration of voters, upon street railway traffic, upon the assessed valuation of property, upon the number of houses built in a stated period and upon "the daily observation of citizens"—all of which, together with the report of the Health Department, formed the basis of the allegation made by the Board of Aldermen on September 2—four weeks before the police enumeration was begun and six weeks before it was ended—that the Federal enumeration made in the first half of June was short by 200,000 of the actual population.

It is rather surprising that the Board of Aldermen were able to make so close a guess on September 2 as to what the police enumeration would show five or six weeks later. The hearing will continue on Monday, when superintendent Porter will complete his statement, and Mr. Bowers will reply. It is expected that Mr. Flower will have some observations to offer at the same time.

At this writing it does not seem to any means probable that the House Committee will recommend a recount of the population of New-York City.

TO BE "THE JOHN V. FARWELL COMPANY."

THE BIG CHICAGO DRYGOODS FIRM TO BECOME A CORPORATION—CAPITAL, $4,500,000.

Chicago, Dec. 6 (special).—The long contemplated change in the great drygoods firm of J. V. Farwell & Co. has been practically accomplished. To-day John V. Farwell, jr., said: "We shall turn over our business to a corporation known as 'the J. V. Farwell Company,' some time in January. The capital will be, as stated in the application for a license, $4,500,000, all subscribed by members of the present firm, who will sell a portion thereof to their employés and a limited amount to others who may apply for it. We believe that large business enterprises can be managed most advantageously in the form of a corporation, and that a limited amount of co-operative interest is beneficial. This capital will be increased from time to time, as the development of the business may require. The corporation will acquire without consideration the extremely valuable good will of the business, which is second to none in the country, and which has been obtained by forty years of application and successful management by the present firm. The business relations of the firm with both customers and manufacturers will be continued by the corporation without any change."

STUFFS AND TAPESTRIES.

CLOSE OF THE EXHIBITION OF THE ASSOCIATED ARTISTS.

Highly honored is the art of embroidery, albeit it is a modest one, and does not claim its place among the Muses. That the ancient Greeks would have given it such a place, and even created a tenth Muse on purpose, we do not doubt, if they could have seen the productions of loom and needle to-day. No better example of beautiful work could be given than the exhibition by the Associated Artists which closed yesterday.

The principal exhibit was an exact reproduction of Raphael's "Miraculous Draught of Fishes" in needle tapestry. Miss Lyman, who has had, under Mrs. Wheeler, the supervision of this very large and wonderfully well-executed piece of work, has reproduced most harmoniously the delicately soft flesh tints and old coloring of the masterpiece.

"Alice Pinetum," a tapestry figure after the design by Dora Wheeler Keith, has also been very successfully rendered. The coloring is not unlike Millet's favorite twilight tint, for ever harmonious blending of yellows and browns. The girl is kneeling with her sickle among the wheat, while a softly shaded yellow sky throws her figure into sombre relief. The combinations of color in plush and silk to be seen at this exhibition were very successful in their treatment. Two interlaced renaissance designs with iridescent scales in many tints of delicately blended peach harmoniously placed against a green and gold background, make an effective portiere for a library. Another with disks on a combination of plush on a silk background, completely covered with arabesques of gold, was especially effective. An unexpected hint of what might be, is a design of waterlilies floating on the top of the water, with their long green floating oil into undefined indications of all the queer life of the under world.

These stuffs are woven for the Associated Artists on the Cheney looms; for these materials the company provide their own cards on which the materials are woven. With fresh designs and blocks for the printing, these many successful designs are "shadow silks" which are a combination of changeable silk and wool fabrics. They are very artistic and in some tints seem fairly alive with color. The heavy brocades are rich enough for the palace of a Queen—and so are the cloth of gold and cloth of silver, found here.

FINE CLOAKS AT LOW PRICES.

The house of James A. Hearn & Son, Nos. 22, 24, 26 and 28 West Fourteenth-st., has just purchased the entire season's stock of S. Rothschild & Brother, whose reputation as makers and importers of fine garments and exclusive styles is too well known to require comment. These garments were purchased at a reduction of 40 per cent, enabling the firm to sell cloaks which are ordinarily sold at $100 at $40 retail, and jackets that are ordinarily $50 at $12. To appreciate the quality and cut of the jackets, cloaks and wraps offered at these remarkable prices, it is only necessary to see them. Fine novelties, such as are usually made only by ladies' tailors are represented in this immense stock of garments. There are London Derby coats, tan cloth, with lapped seams and rolled collars and trimmings of Alaska sable, of fine, dark mink or other stylish furs; long Hyde Park coats in different shades lined throughout with the finest silks and made of the best English cloths, and there are stylish long beau Brummell coats of tan cloth with straight vests and high sleeves covered with an applique pattern in brown velvet. A large number of dressy wraps in black velvet embroidered elaborately and trimmed with fringes is included in this sale.

The Bernhardt coat is a long, stylish coat of soft rough wool, in stripes in gray and brown shades. It is loose, and is confined just below the waist by a girdle of silk passementerie. The sleeves are extremely high and full. Travelling wraps are shown in a variety of serviceable checked cloths in English Newmarket shape, with deep capes and other styles. There are many beautiful carriage wraps of plush, embroidered with a lighter color elaborately, and there are short carriage mantles of black velvet, elaborately wrought with jewels in cashmere colors, and trimmings of ostrich feathers.

The great cloak sale does not interfere with the holiday display, every attention having been devoted to this section of the store. The reputation of the house as a cash buyer enables it to secure a large number of bargains in all departments. It has just purchased the cabinet stock of a dealer in blankets, lap robes, steamer rugs and lounge covers, and is thus enabled to offer exceptional prices in these goods. Customers are specially solicited to come early during this cloak sale, in order to secure proper attention. After 3 o'clock in the afternoon the salesrooms usually become so crowded that it is often impossible to give every one proper attention.

CRITICISING THE MADISON-AVE. PAVEMENT.

W. T. Dodge has sent a letter to H. H. Baxter, commissioner of Street Cleaning, which contains some severe criticisms of the new Madison-square pavement in Madison-ave. Mr. Dodge says: "The pavement has been a great disappointment. It is kept in such a sloppy condition that it is almost impossible to be used. I cannot bring my own horses to my door, but am compelled to use a side street. There is a constant succession of horses falling on four and sometimes on a half-dozen in an hour. The dirt and manure seems to be gathered each day in small parcels and deposited in front of the houses and never carted away. And as the surface of the street is so polished the dust does not adhere and blows into the houses. If you will kindly look into the matter you will greatly oblige many residents on Madison-ave."

Mr. Beattie wrote a long letter yesterday in reply to Mr. Dodge, in which he makes his usual defense that the appropriations are insufficient to enable the Department to keep the streets clean. He advises Mr. Dodge not to submit to a special tax for street sweeping by employing the Sanitary Company in accordance with the advertising circular. It has not cost and promises to have none of the nuisances complained of next d

Let every enfeebled woman know it! There's a medicine that'll cure her, and the proof's positive!

Here's the proof—if it doesn't do you good within reasonable time, report the fact to its makers and get your money back without a word—but you won't do it!

The remedy is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—and it has proved itself the right remedy in nearly every case of female weakness.

It is not a miracle. It won't cure everything—but it has done more to build-up tired, enfeebled and broken-down women than any other medicine known.

Where's the woman who's not ready for it? All that we've to do is to get the news to her. The medicine will do the rest.

OBTAINED A FALSE INVOICE.

Berthold Nathan, the hide merchant at No. 71 Gold-st., who is charged with presenting a false consular invoice to Collector Erhardt, gave himself up to Marshal Jacobus yesterday morning, and was arraigned before Commissioner Shields. He was released on $1,000 bail for examination next Saturday. He imported sixteen bales of goat skins from Marseilles, although he could obtain no consular invoice on account of the existence of fever at that port. He, however, by false representations secured the invoice in London, although the skins had never been at that port. When he presented a London consular invoice and a French bill of lading to the Collector his deception was at once discovered. Considerable interest attaches to this case, as it is the first to come up under the new customs administrative law.
