

"Are we downhearted?—No!" So say the undaunted smiles of Sir Thomas Lipton and Skipper Burton on the occasion of the fourth race of the series, when Resolute sailed off with the honors. America will wait long to find two better sportsmen than these hardy sons of England.

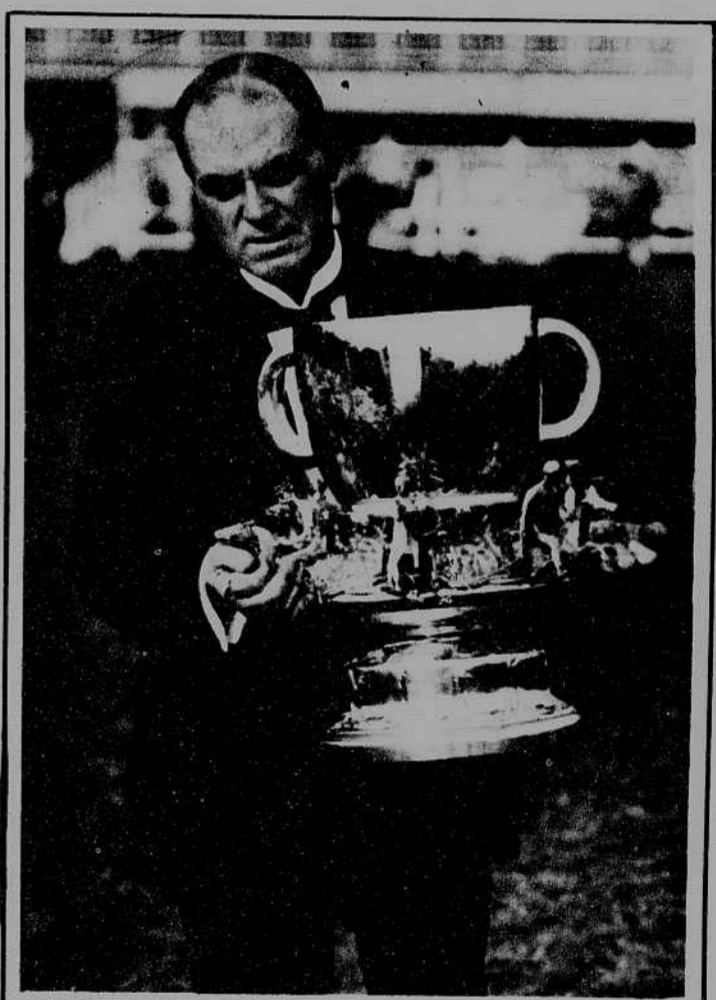

This picture may be a trifle premature, but it shows Governor James M. Cox and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominees for President and Vice-President, at the White House.

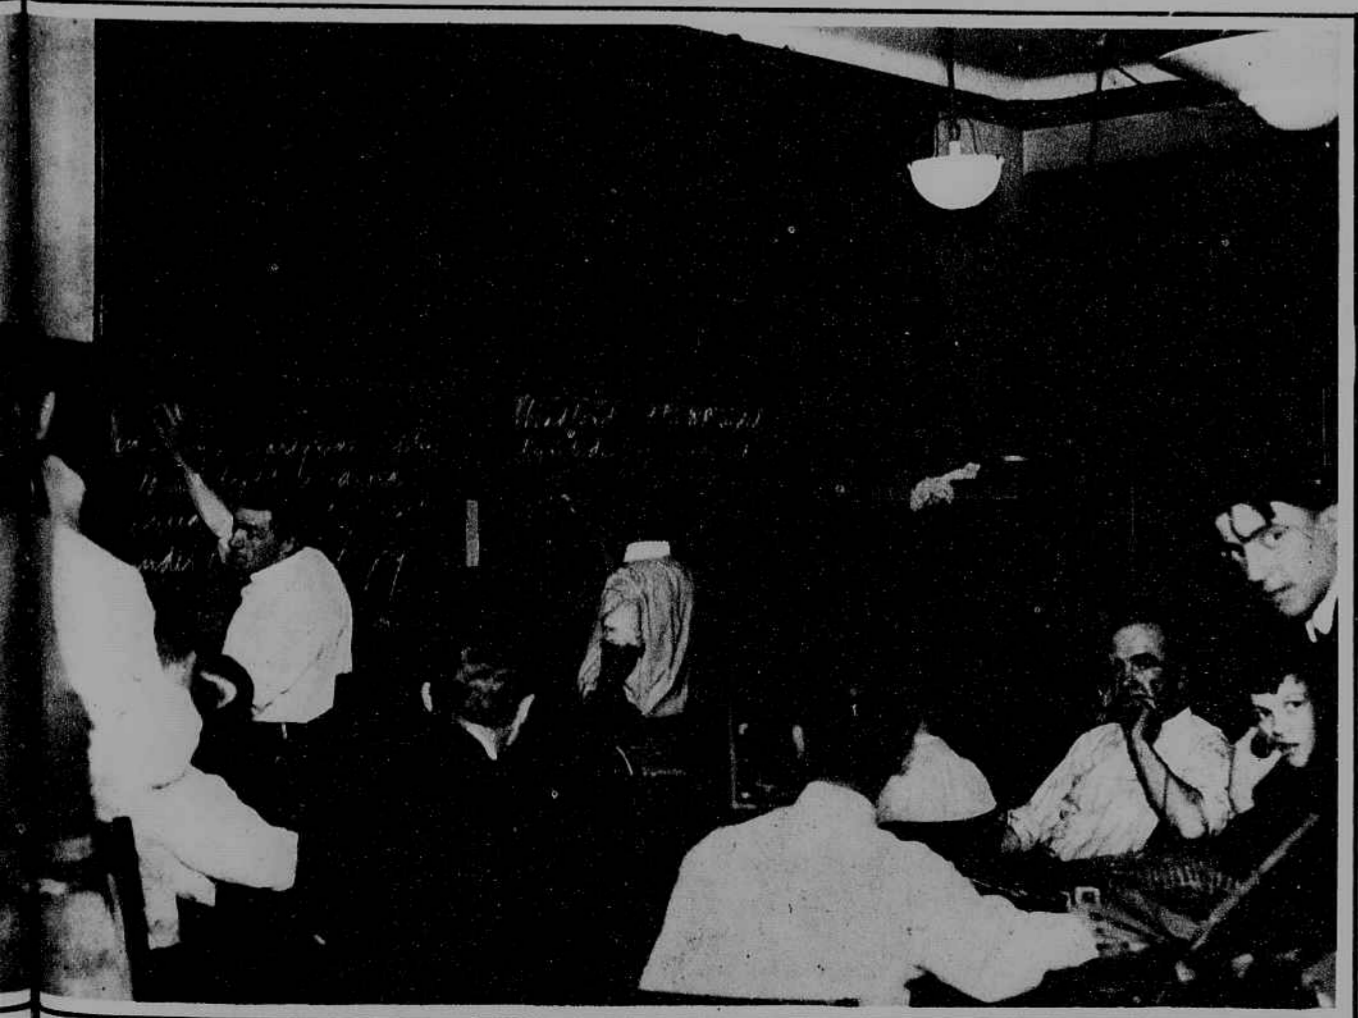

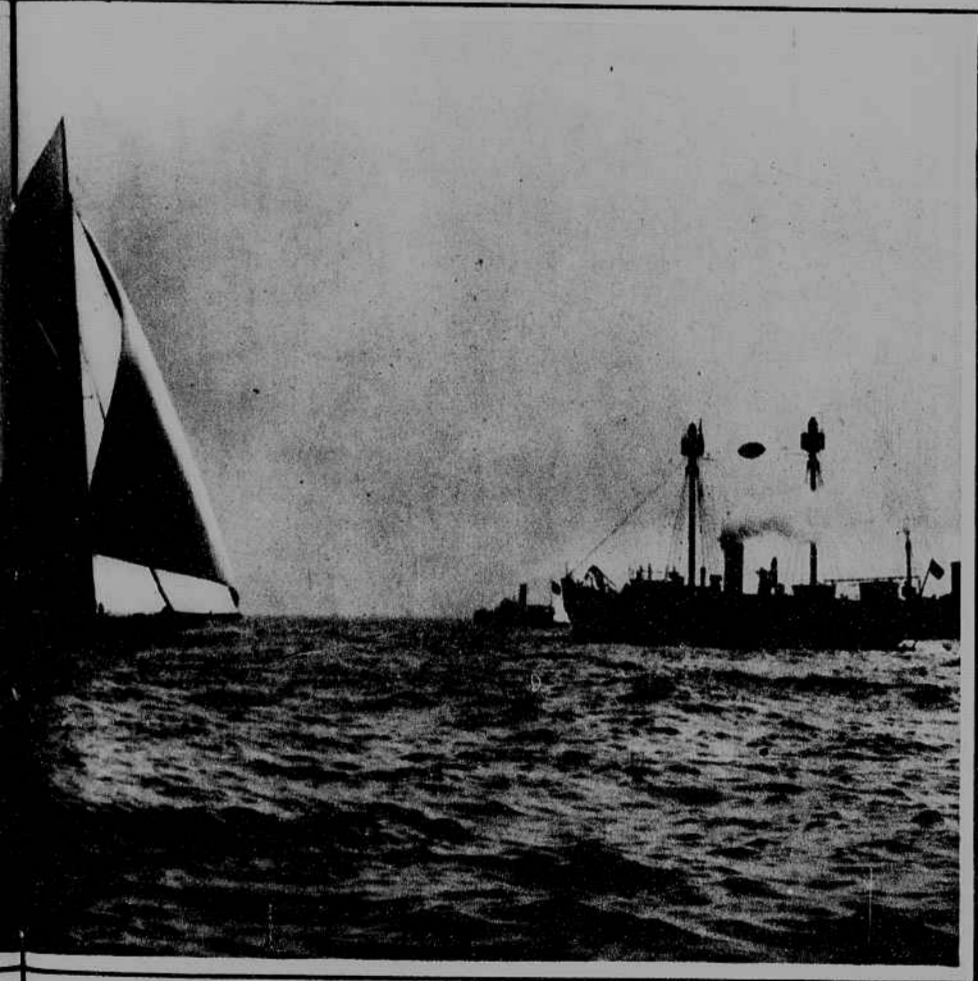

Little nine-year-old Katherine Sunquist, with hands and feet securely tied, prepares to take a swim in the Culebra Cut at Panama. A dangerous pastime in unusually attractive surroundings.

Ruffs are the latest fad in London society. When this English family turned out for the cricket match between Eton and Harrow, mother—on the left—wasn't to be outdone by either son or daughter. In her extreme style—long-waisted gown, voluminous ermine scarf and ruff that just misses tickling her nose—she could give pointers to many a Paris modiste.

The International Polo Cup will remain at Hurlingham, England. In the royal polo match recently played in England King Alfonso of Spain and Admiral Lord Beatty were on the teams respectively representing Madrid and Roehampton.

Left—The busy office of the Associated Press during the international yacht races, where news of the contest was relayed to New York newspapers within twenty seconds after the events. By wireless from naval destroyers, airplanes and dirigibles, the results were sent in and immediately recorded on the A.P.'s sending machines, which simultaneously tick off the news in the offices of the newspapers.

While the sporting world held its breath over the outcome of the race between Resolute and Shamrock, few people knew that week-end model yacht races are held over in Prospect Park. The course is five-eighths of a mile long; the skippers follow along in rowboats and all yachting rules are observed. The miniature yachts are here starting a race in which F. L. Meinerts, with his A melia, was winner.
