

Burglar Gets Loot Of $2,000, but Says Victim Is a "Piker"

A burglar who combines a sense of humor with his safe-breaking proclivities jimmied his way into the office of Henry Brady, real estate and insurance broker, at 129 West Thirty-third Street, Thursday night or early Friday. In return for $2,000 cash, some securities and two gold watches, he left Mr. Brady a note calling him a "piker" for leaving such a small sum in his office and advising him to get a "decent" safe.

The burglary was discovered about 5:30 o'clock Friday morning by a woman who was cleaning the office. She found the broken safe door ajar and notified the police. Mr. Brady gave an account of the robbery to The Tribune yesterday.

Entering the three-story remodeled house by the roof door, which was locked and had to be pried open, the burglar made his way to the office on the ground floor. Using a brace and bit and "can opener," he opened the safe and took the contents to a vacant room on the top floor. Numerous discarded cigarette stubs indicated that he went about his task in a leisurely manner.

"Why don't you pay an extra dollar and get a decent safe?" the note to Mr. Brady asked. "If you are going to repair one, or buy one like it, I would advise you to leave it open and save me about ten minutes time and also save you money. I think a real estate man of your standing to have only about $2,000 in the safe is a piker and I will not bother you again unless I am sure you have more."

"If I have any success the next couple I blow I may send you back part of what I took, as I need the money at present."

"If you find out the brand of cigarettes you probably will know who I am."

The note carried no signature. The cigarette butts the burglar had strewn about him indicated that he smoked several different brands.

Mr. Brady said the thief showed familiarity with the real estate business in taking certain papers and leaving others. He thinks the man makes a specialty of robbing real estate offices. The police have some finger print clues.

Two Girls Report Being Locked in Room a Week

Detectives Arrest Two Men on Charges of Abducting Pair from Coney Island

After two girls had told a Coney Island policeman Friday night that they had just escaped from a house in Fifteenth Street after being held prisoners there for a week by two young men, detectives arrested Salvatore Gano, twenty-two years old, and Frank Pitta, twenty, both of Park Avenue, Brooklyn, on charges of abduction.

The girls, Zita Virginia Zimbo, seventeen, of 42 Suydam Street, and Sarah Lerner, sixteen, of 231 Suydam Street. They asserted that the young men were to escort them to their homes after a party. Instead, they alleged, they were taken to the Fifteenth Street address and placed in a room with no windows.

The prisoners were held in $2,000 bail each by Magistrate Geismar in Gates Avenue Court for examination Tuesday.

Paris Hats Interpret the Fall Mode

FROM the foremost modistes of Paris comes the inspiration for the many beautiful hats now assembled in our French Room.

The display of Fall models is more complete and more alluring today than it has been at any time this season.

Velvet is the favorite material and for three very good reasons. It is extremely smart, infinitely adaptable and invariably becoming to women of all ages, because it is soft and caressing in texture.

VELVET of a gorgeous burnt orange hue fashions the dashingly original model pictured at the left—a Paris-inspired hat created by skillful fingers in our own ateliers.

The tall Venetian comb of Cellophane that sweeps so effectively across the back finds a graceful complement in the flowing veil of Havana brown.

It is a hat that will be particularly good with the dark rich fur shades, to which it will lend a touch of life and light.

Autumn Modes in Tailored Suits

Autumn Modes in Tailored Dresses

TAILORED Tricotine Dresses resume their importance for another season, but with such a sparkling difference and variety of novel styles and combinations that every latest model in our collection is a distinct piece of fashion news! Strictly tailored coat dresses, Redingote effects, tunic frocks, chemise dresses and one-piece composes of Tricotine and Satin—all included.

Beaded Tricotine Dresses are particularly smart, some severe tailored models with no more than an accent of jet on a swinging panel; others, like the model illustrated here, decorated with elaborate motifs of iridescent beads that give color and charm to a simple frock. This especially good style Afternoon Gown is an unusual value at $85.00

Cire Braided Dresses of Tricotine divide interest with plain tailored gowns whose distinctive note is the binding of fine silk braid; other braided effects are stitched with color.

Chemisettes and Gilets of lingerie embroidery, net and laces, give a chic touch to many models in this collection ranging from $40.00 to $175.00
