Record Crowd Attends Close Of Horse Show

Champion Classes Judged Before 8 o'Clock and Polo Ponies Occupy Ring for Remainder of Evening

By Harriette Underhill It only we might say that "all roads led to Madison Square Garden yesterday" or that "the horse show closed in a blaze of glory."

The show was a big success—the biggest in years—and it was the first time in many seasons that admission tickets only provided standing room for the holders.

The champion classes were judged before the evening session, and most of the time after 8 o'clock the ring was occupied by the polo ponies.

The first champion ribbon of the day went to the diminutive brown stallion Irvington Autocrat, from Cassilis Farm, Autocrat is by Dillam Prime Minister—Maid of Irvington.

Class 125 was for ponies also, and it called out the blue and red ribbon winners in all the classes for ponies under 14 1/2 hands.

The championship for ponies under 14 1/2 hands was won by Little Corinne, owned by Mrs. J. L. Corinne.

Class 125 (ponies) was held under the same conditions as the other classes. The champion was Little Corinne.

Cyril Scott Gives Recital of His Own Compositions Here

Eva Gauthier Adds Charm to English Writer's Vocal Works, While He Plays Selections for the Piano

With Miss Eva Gauthier as interpreter of his songs, the English composer, Cyril Scott, gave a recital of his works for piano and voice yesterday afternoon at Aeolian Hall.

The first of the songs, "The Pilgrim Came," "Rain," "Tranquility," a song without words, "The Song of Aroa," contained little that was striking or original.

The second group included "Lullaby," with its delightful accompaniment, and also included "An Old Song," "The Little Bell of Seville," which was both ingenious and effective.
