DOG OWNERS UP IN ARMS

Popular Feeling Against the Muzzle Order Runs High.

Citizens Circulating a Petition to Have the Obnoxious Proclamation Rescinded—The Rev. Dr. Mackay-Smith's Plan to Buy Out the Pound, Where the Animals Are Ill-treated.

Popular feeling over the cruelties to dogs confined in the public pound under control of the District Commissioners has reached fever heat, with the result that a mammoth petition of citizens in favor of an early repeal of the obnoxious municipal muzzle order has been circulated. This movement was started at a recent meeting of dog owners of the city, when reports were read representing that the animals in the dog pound are cruelly treated and that the confinement of the animals indiscriminately is not justified by the recent mad-dog scare.

The Rev. Dr. Mackay-Smith, rector of St. John's Church, has offered to buy out the pound and conduct it under his own supervision in the interests of humanity. A special committee of the Humane Society has visited the pound, and reported to the meeting of citizens that the scenes of cruelty were heartrending. The meeting therefore voted unanimously to petition Congress in favor of transferring the control of the dog pound to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. In the meantime, individual dog owners have set to work to bring about a reform. Mrs. Cranmond Kennedy has subscribed a sum of money to build a shed for the purpose of protecting the dogs from the inclemencies of the weather. She will personally supervise the work.

The Rev. Dr. Mackay-Smith visited the pound yesterday. So pitiable was the sight, he says, of dogs crowded together in wire cages, possibly awaiting death, that he gladly offered to buy all the animals at $2 per head if homes could be found for them among residents. Dr. Mackay-Smith's plan will be carried out if the condition can be fulfilled. This will afford only temporary relief, however, as the pound will quickly be filled again by stray dogs picked up on the streets, and the dog owners and the Humane Society look to Congress for permanent relief.

The mad-dog scare in Washington began about three months ago, but it was chiefly confined to Government officials. A young physician claimed he had discovered a case of rabies, and some officials of the Agricultural Department agreed with his diagnosis. The matter was called to the attention of the District Health Office, and the order of the Commissioners, that all dogs be either muzzled or confined, followed. A leading citizen, at a mass meeting of dog owners a few nights ago, asserted that there had been no case of rabies in the District of Columbia. He declared that if Poundmaster Einstein came on his premises to take his dog away he would be met with a double-barreled shotgun. He advised his fellow-citizens to do likewise.

Many causes of complaint have appeared as a result of the Commissioners' order. Dog catchers have scoured every street, and no dog unmuzzled could escape. The Poundmaster's men, it is said, have even invaded the premises of owners. The daughter of Adjutant General Kelton, retired, was leading her dog down the street a few days ago on the way to purchase a muzzle, when, it is said, the dog catchers pounced upon the animal and carried him away, accidentally striking Miss Kelton with their net during the process. Scores of incidents of this kind have thoroughly aroused the dog owners.

H. H. Ridgeway Charges His Wife With Making Life Miserable.

Harry H. Ridgeway yesterday filed suit for divorce against his wife, Carrie A. Ridgeway, who he alleges has made his life miserable by her cruel treatment of him.

He declares that his wife induced certain of her relatives to cruelly beat and maltreat him and threaten his life, and that his business has been broken up. He states that he was robbed of his stock in trade by his wife and members of her immediate family. The parties were married in Baltimore September 18, 1895.

CLERK MEIGS' ANNIVERSARY.

For Thirty-seven Years He Has Been in One Department.

Thirty-seven years ago yesterday Return Jonathan Meigs was appointed an assistant in the office of the clerk of what is now the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. During all those years it is said Mr. Meigs has not been absent a day on account of illness and has missed but few days from any cause.

At the time of entering the office his father was Clerk of the Court, and on the Saturday of his first week of service, Mr. Meigs was told at the closing hour to wind the eight-day clock which stands on the mantel in front of the long desk which stretches all the way across the office. Every Saturday since that day Mr. Meigs has made it part of his duty to wind this clock.

There were five marriage licenses issued yesterday and Mr. Meigs stated that he believed this is the greatest number issued on any Friday since he has been connected with the Office of the Clerk of the Court.

PLANS FOR OBTAINING MONEY.

Salvationists to Make a Thorough Canvass in Towns and Cities.

For one week the Salvationists of the world will practice self-denial, not as a punishment, but for the purpose of raising funds to be used in the development of Christian and humane work.

They propose not only to deny themselves of some necessary article of food or clothing, or walk when perhaps they would prefer to ride, and save that, but they will go further, and canvass every office and every home and store in nearly every city and town in the United States, and request co-operation from everybody.

There is no special tax imposed, and yet each member voluntarily assumes a given responsibility. The total raised they hope to reach $50,000. Last year the same effort produced $38,000 in the United States. But America did not do as well in this regard, however, as some smaller countries. Australia raised $125,000, while England raised $200,000.

NEW GRAND THEATRE SAFE.

An Official Report on Arrangements in Case of Fire.

By request of Senator McMillan the Commissioners of the District have caused to be investigated the appliances of the New Grand Theatre and arrangements for exit in case of fire. Senator McMillan's request was the outcome of a communication addressed to him on March 7 by Charles G. Mortimore.

The Commissioners directed Fire Marshal William O. Drew to examine the condition of affairs at the theatre and to report the same to them. This Mr. Drew did, and his report was as follows:

"I have made a thorough examination of the New Grand Theatre and find the condition to be good, the doors on the south side are kept closed with a swinging bar and on the west side by a simple hook, easily operated by a woman or a child in case of panic. On each side of the stage and also in the fly loft are two lines of hose coupled to a standpipe, the water always turned on and ready for use in case of fire, with a competent man in charge of same. In regard to passageways being used as a storage room, I find that, what was formerly the main entrance on the Fifteenth Street side to be not blocked with rubbish (as claimed by Mr. Mortimore in his communication to Senator McMillan). A table, a printer's easle, and a small step-ladder are in the vestibule, but not in the way of an audience should they wish to retire by that exit.

"I consider the avenues of escape ample and the house as safe as any theatre in the city."

Major Sylvester, Chief of Police, also submitted to the Commissioners a statement that in his opinion the complaint made by Mr. Mortimore was unjustifiable, for he said that as far as he could observe the theatre was quite safe.

The Commissioners today submitted the report of the Fire Marshal, and the opinion of Major Sylvester to Senator McMillan, and stated that they approved them.

RENOVATING THE PARKS

A Corps of Men Put to Work by Colonel Bingham.

Trees and Grass Being Trimmed and Ground Prepared for the Transplanting of Flowers—Benches Receive Their Annual Coating of Paint—Fountains Put in Order.

With the advent of warmer weather the public parks of this city are beginning to develop a scene of unusual activity.

Col. Theo A. Bingham, who has charge of the public grounds, has set to work his corps of engineers, gardeners and laborers.

The gardeners, who are under the immediate supervision of George H. Brown, are busy, pruning flowering shrubs, and removing dead wood from and shortening the lower branches of trees where they interfere with travel over roads and walks. They will also, in the course of about three weeks, begin to replant flowering shrubs to fill out group plantings. Laborers are removing weed growth, sand, and debris from the gutters bordering the gravel and asphalt walks. They are removing the compost which has been spread on the grass surface in the early part of last winter, and are in some instances mowing the grass which has grown under this cover.

Trimming and edging of sod margins along the walks and the replanting of shrubs and trees in sections of the parks where they have died out or have been injured by vandalism are functions which all come within the Public Gardener's sphere of activity. Another feature of preparing the public parks for the use of the public, and giving them a bright and clean appearance is the repairing of all iron fences, park posts, and chain fences which enclose the various reservations, the painting of the park lodges, lamp posts, vases, park posts, and chain fences. The repairing and putting in good order of the fountains and their basins; the cleaning of the statues from bird droppings and removing as far as possible stains and dirt from the pedestals of the same receive also the attention of Colonel Bingham's corps.

The repairing and painting the park settees keeps busy a small army of painters and carpenters at the Public Nursery grounds, which are located between the Washington Monument and the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. All flowers which adorn the artistically and tastefully designed flower beds of all parks are propagated at the Public Nursery under the immediate supervision of Mr. Brown, the Public Gardener. Some very rare plants and flowers have found their origin in this seemingly modest workshop, which have been the admiration of horticulturists from all parts of the world. The collection of crotons is said to be the finest in the world and is the subject of pride of the Public Gardener when they adorn the White House on festal occasions.

A force of about 126 men is busy in the various parks of the city performing this kind of work and it will not be long before they will have transformed the bleak and bare grounds into a scene of beauty and healthful surroundings. To do the above work an appropriation of $12,600 is available, which is only for the months of March till June inclusive.
