

TROUBLE IN THE ORIENT

Russia and Japan Both Making Warlike Preparations.

The Carr Controls Korea by Diplomacy and by a Show of Naval Force—The Mikado With Patience Waits the First Blow and Is Making Additions to His Fleet.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 5.—According to advices brought by the C. P. R. Express, just arrived from the Orient, there is no longer any attempt in Japan to conceal the regretted imminence of war with Russia. Preparations for the struggle on both sides advance. Russia has practically assumed control in Korea by methods peculiarly Russian. She is now hurrying her troops and munitions to the scene of military action, and when the long-threatening cloud does burst it will find her well prepared. Japan's statement, while well prepared, she will find her well prepared with reluctance the inevitable. They say, and the conservative press of Japan echoes the sentiment, that there seems no recourse but war, although Japan must not strike the first blow.

Meanwhile capital has taken alarm and the money market is more disturbed by far than when the nation was on the eve of hostilities with the more mighty China. Fluctuations demand higher and higher interest and loans are more difficult. From the treaty ports, and even Hongkong, foreigners are leaving by scores and by hundreds, determined not to be caught in the midst of the horrors of war, while Japan, as one of her statesmen expresses it, is compelled to wait with magnificence and patience the working out of the plot and intricacies of her enemies.

Recently Russian energy has been concentrated in two directions. The diplomats of the Carr have cautiously but surely insinuated themselves into the control of Korean affairs, a visit to the Korean Emperor by A. Alexiev, Russian Governor-General of Liao-Yang Peninsula, being immediately followed by the announcement of a three-million-yen Russian loan and the appointment of a Russian diplomat as special adviser in affairs of Korean state. Coincidentally, Russian engineers are busy to complete the Trans-Siberian Railway, working day and night. They are negotiating with the Chinese for the purchase of the interior Chinese railway and the construction of New-Cheng as a Russian possession this spring.

An average of 500 soldiers a month have been sent to the Orient from the September last and warlike preparations are making at every vantage point. Five Russian warships are now at Chemulpo, the transports Petersburg and Vladivostok having just arrived with 2,500 men, while the Admiral Kuroki is expected to arrive with his fleet of three cruisers, six destroyers and three torpedo boats, moving toward the Korean coast.

On the other hand, Japan has commenced to mobilize her torpedo boats and is moving forward all naval contracts, to place large orders for outside work, and to set all her own military supply depots going. Speculation as to when Russia will strike the first blow is the absorbing topic of conversation.

It was rumored on March 24 that a Russian warship, while steaming near Hokkaido, had been captured by a Japanese warship, the letter of capture, and returning the fire. The extreme tension of feeling in the Orient is shown by the fact that an occurrence did not appear to anyone for a time, and it was only after thorough investigation that the people of Japan could be assured that the vessel had not been captured.

The Korean Government holds itself at present in a peculiar position through its consent having been given to furnish 200,000 men to the Russian Government, and the Japanese Government being forced to order a company of soldiers from the Tsing Yang Garrison to protect the concession district.

FROSTBURG, Md., April 5.—The situation in the George's Creek coal region is rapidly reaching a climax. Men who were conservative on the question of wages are now working over the suspension of fellow-miners for attending the miners' meeting at Lonsdale last Saturday. More men have been suspended. A large meeting was held in Frostburg last night. At this meeting a delegation was appointed to wait upon Superintendent W. S. Randolph to request that he suspended and discharged men be reinstated. A delegation of twelve miners, headed by William Warner, District Organizer of the United Mine Workers, President Allen Barber, and Secretary W. H. Cochran, called upon Mr. Randolph early in the afternoon.

Mr. Randolph in the request Mr. Randolph said he had taken no action that he would reconsider. He also stated that as there was so much doubt as to the result of the present strike, it would be well to have the air cleared at once, and if there is to be a strike let it come early and carry it on during the coming good weather, so that things would be in working order for next winter.

BRITISH MOVE EASTWARD

A Cavalry Advance From Bloemfontein Unopposed.

General Colville Returns to the Free State Capital—Twenty Thousand Boers in the Vicinity—The Burglers Re-Armed After Submitting to Roberts—Plumer Near Zeerust.

LONDON, April 5.—A despatch from Bloemfontein, dated April 5, 2 p. m., says: "The British cavalry encamped on Bosman's Kop today, after having ridden from Waterfall Drift without getting into action. Bosman's Kop is now the easternmost British position. The British horses are again in bad shape after their hard work in the neighborhood of Kares Siding. They were brought from the south in a hurry and sent eastward. Many of them are now useless. One company of the carabineers has only five horses in fit condition. "General Colville's Ninth Division has returned and gone into camp near Bloemfontein. There is little doubt that many of the Orange Free State burghers who recently turned in their arms to Lord Roberts have been re-armed. There are now over 20,000 Boers within a radius of twenty miles of Bloemfontein. Commandants Lerner and Hertzog, who led the fighting last Saturday, are still receiving re-enforcements. "The town of Bloemfontein is quiet. The fact that the Boers have accepted the offer has had no appreciable effect so far. The railway is still in working order. Boer patrols have been seen within ten miles of the town. The British troops are cheerful and anxious to get into action. The drought continues."

A despatch from a correspondent, dated Bloemfontein, April 5, says: "The Boer force, which was sent from the Boer laager at Mookosi, dated April 1, says: 'There was sharp fighting yesterday. There was a simultaneous attack on the Boers by Colonel Plumer's cavalry and a sortie by the Mafeking garrison in the vicinity of Ramathabana. Both attacks were repulsed. Twenty of Colonel Plumer's men were found dead on the field and six were taken prisoners. The sortie by the town garrison was easily repulsed. The Federal force is small. Mafeking is still closely invested.' "A Lourenco Marques despatch, dated April 4, says: 'A Gabarone despatch of March 28, says that Colonel Plumer made a forced march into the Transvaal with the object of threatening the Boer lines of communication with Mafeking. He has arrived within twenty miles of Zeerust.'"

STORY OF THEIR ESCAPE.

How Captain Hildane and Lieutenant Maclear Flew From Pretoria.

LONDON, April 5.—In a despatch to an afternoon paper, Captain Hildane, who got away from the Boer capture at Pretoria, continues the account of how he and Lieutenant Maclear escaped. He says they left the Antebellum Hotel, where they had concealed themselves, and continued their journey during the night. At daybreak they hid in a swamp. Their food had given out but the army rations lasted for two days and was excellent and nourishing. They decided to make for Waterfall Drift, a hundred miles distant. Until they reached their goal the officers got sufficient food from the Kaffirs to keep body and soul together.

Eventually after having been nearly eaten up by the mosquitoes, they reached Waterfall Drift and concealed themselves in an open railway truck, covering their bodies with a tarpaulin. The train moved off and was stopped on a siding. A number of Boers fastened the tarpaulin and peered in, but by a miracle failed to discover the officers.

The following morning the truck was hooked on to a goods train and passed the boundary line between the Transvaal and Portuguese East Africa. The train crossed the Orange River and reached the town of Hildane's. When it reached that point the officers jumped up and shouted: "We are free!" The officers showed unmistakable signs of relief. They were assured when they arrived at Lourenco Marques. Their hair was long and disheveled and their faces were covered with a thick growth of beard. They were scarcely recognized and looked like Boers.

TO TRY COLONIAL REBELS.

A Special Tribunal to Be Created by Parliament.

CAPE TOWN, April 5.—A correspondent has had a long interview with Hon. J. Rose-Innes, the leader of the British side in the Cape Parliament, on the subject of the treatment of the rebel Dutch. Mr. Innes said that a special tribunal for the trial of the rebels was certainly necessary. Besides the technical difficulties, arising from the number of cases, he said, it is not desirable under the present circumstances to impose the task of deciding the cases upon colonial juries.

A tribunal, presided over by an eminent English judge, would be much more satisfactory to all concerned. It should have the same power in regard to imposing punishment as the Supreme Court of the Cape and should also have the power of disfranchising the rebels, either with or without any other penalty.

Mr. Rose-Innes continued: "Under the present law a conviction for treason disfranchises a person permanently but does not distinguish the degree of culpability. The tribunal that I refer to should have the power of fixing the period of disfranchisement according to the degree of guilt. A special statute is necessary for the creation of this tribunal. It is not advisable at the present time to summon the Cape Parliament to pass this necessary act. Therefore, the Cape Parliament is the only body that has the necessary power."

"The difficulty of legislating over the head of the Cape Parliament would be partly removed if the Cape Government was invited to initiate legislation. Thus it is more than likely that if the Dutch legislators should reply that it was inadvisable to summon Parliament the objection to the Imperial Parliament legislation for this colony would be greatly lessened. In all events, immediate action is necessary."

"The funeral will take place Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the residence in Suffolk. The body will be laid away in an old family cemetery, besides the quiet waters of Lake Kilby, a mile from Suffolk. "Captain Hill entered the service of the Old Bay Line in 1860, commanding the steamer Georganna. George Leary, Adelaide, Louisiana, Florida, Carolina, and Virginia. He was appointed general superintendent of the Old Bay Line in 1880. He was killed in high personal regard and appreciation by the then president of the company, John M. Robinson, who entrusted him with matters of great importance connected with the line. The captain did good service for the company at Washington in connection with the new wharf at Old Point, Va., and the widening of Union Dock, Baltimore. At the time of the big fire at the Old Bay Line pier, June 14, 1892, Captain Hill came near losing his life. He was the last one to leave his office and escaped by means of a small tug boat."

It was stated at the City Hall yesterday that W. L. Renick, who filed the charges, is in Paris, was the principal witness for the Government and for this reason it is apprehended that there may still be some delay in bringing the case to trial. ARGUMENTS IN DEBENCE

The Clark Case Resumed Before the Senate Committee Today.

A. A. Birney Closes for the Prosecution and Roger Foster Begins a Strong Plea—The Latter Scores Many of the Witnesses in Strong Language—Hearing in Progress.

The Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections met at 10 o'clock this morning to continue the hearing of the arguments in the matter of bribery and corruption charged against Senator Clark of Montana. Mr. A. A. Birney, one of the anti-Clark counsel, resumed his address, begun last Tuesday. He reviewed in some detail the evidence, pro and con, attacking the credibility of witnesses for the defense and defending that of witnesses for the prosecution. He denounced what he called "the iniquitous conduct" of Charles W. Clark, Senator Clark's son, and said that although his denials were relied upon, he was "a man utterly unworthy of belief." Mr. Birney closed at 11:15, and Roger Foster, associate counsel for Senator Clark, resumed the argument at 11:30. This had been an ordinary case, he said, counsel for defense would have offered no evidence, but would have relied on the fact that the defendant was innocent. He maintained the charge against Senator Clark. He referred to the principal witnesses on that side, speaking of their "hang-dog" looks, and saying that "their own actions would have proved them to be unworthy of belief."

As to the stories about Binkford and Charles W. Clark, and their attempts to bribe the members of the Legislature, Mr. Foster contended that even if these stories were all true, they could not be used against Senator Clark unless it was shown that he had authorized them, and that the election was affected by them. He claimed that that proposition was within the rules of common law, as adopted in election cases. He contended that Senator Clark had had a majority of fourteen; that the election could not be set aside except on evidence that seven of these votes had been procured by bribery.

Mr. Foster went over the ground that unless it were proved that Senator Clark had directly participated in the bribery of his friends who had introduced the bill to change the result Senator Clark could not be unseated. The attorney mentioned that these points had not been established, according to the rules of evidence. He read a "march" from law books in support of his contention.

HENDERSON HELD IN BOND.

Numerous Charges Against Him to Be Presented to the Grand Jury.

Robert Henderson, the colored man arrested early Sunday morning, and who, it is said, confessed that he was the assassin of May Sing, May Sam, Lee Ting, and Lee Wing, and that he forced entrance into various laundries, and waived a preliminary examination when arraigned before Judge Kimball, and was held in $1,000 bond for the action of the grand jury in two cases of housebreaking at night, and one case of assault to kill. His plea in each case was not guilty. "Complaints appeared as May Sam in the case of assault, to kill, and Lee Ting and Oscar L. Berger in the case of housebreaking. Eight other charges have been filed against Henderson, and it is expected to charge the result Senator Clark could not be unseated. The attorney mentioned that these points had not been established, according to the rules of evidence. He read a "march" from law books in support of his contention.
