considerable sum from the sale of his book "From a Sportsman's Diary," and intends to spend it in holiday-making for a hundred poor boys of the Berlin elementary schools.

Harvard Publications

The Harvard University Press is preparing to publish a group of interesting volumes, among which are an account of the Harvard expedition to Samaria by Professor Reisner, director of the Palestinian expedition; a collection of essays on Chaucer by Professor Kittredge, and Professor E. F. Gay's "Essays on English Agrarian History in the Sixteenth Century."

Relative Popularity of Books.

The just published catalogue of the books brought out in England last year shows a marked increase over the number published in any previous year, the total being 12,067. During the month of October there were sixty-four volumes issued every weekday. The largest section was that of fiction, with 2464 volumes—250 more than in 1911. Religious works come next, to the number of 708, and sociology follows, with 705. In the list of new editions fiction again leads, with 1,055—a number larger than any other noted in this department.

Questions of Pronunciation.

Those who are dubious as to the pronunciation of certain words will not find much comfort in these "Cracked Quatrains" from "Punch" ("the title to be said rapidly nine times before proceeding"):

For me, my faith is always pinned
To simple folk who call it wind.
It shows a high-falutin mind
To go and gas about the wind.
When we and John combine in chorus,
We make a sound we call sonorous.
You cannot really care for John or us,
If you insist on saying sonorous.
It is a boon to busy men
To say that simple word again.
If you have time to strive and strain,
You may prefer to say again.
He's not attractive as a rule,
The grisly Oriental ghoul;
But, if you'd like him doubly foul,
You've only got to call him ghoul.
I do not care a crooked pin
About the British Philistine;
And yet he is not such a swine
That we must call him Philistine.
I asked the maid in dulcet tone
To order me a toasted scone.
The silly maid has been and gone
And ordered me a toasted scone.

Charles Sumner.

The last of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge's "Early Memories" will appear in the June "Scribner." It deals with Charles Sumner, whom he describes as a dreamer and a man of books, one who played a great part in a scene of intense action and fierce struggle, but who remained at bottom dreamer and man of books.

Why Idealism Has Declined.

Mr. J. E. C. Bodley's recent address before the Institute of France concerned the decline of idealism in that country—a decline, it may be said, which is to be observed in other countries also. Traversing various accidental causes, political and literary, Mr. Bodley named as a permanent cause the evolution of "the mechanical age" affecting all peoples and destroying national characteristics. One influence destructive of idealism, he held, is the mania for imported diversions—"bridge and golf being the ruin of the brilliant art of conversation, which, since the idea of the Revolution was first cultivated in the salons of the eighteenth century, has been a powerful vehicle for the conveyance of ideas."

NAVY OFFICER FOUND DEAD

Lieutenant B. R. Hill Believed To Be a Suicide.

Annapolis, May 9.—Lieutenant B. Richard Hill, U. S. N., was found dead in his room at a boarding house here to-day with a bullet in his head. A revolver was lying beside him on the floor.

Lieutenant Hill, who was from Iowa, was taking a post-graduate course at the naval school of engineering. While it appears to be a case of suicide, no motive for the deed has been discovered.

Lieutenant Hill went to Washington Wednesday morning to see his fiancée, Miss Henrietta Erwin, daughter of Colonel James B. Erwin, U. S. A. He returned yesterday morning, went directly to his room and was not seen until his lifeless body was discovered.

FLIES 169 MILES IN AEROBOAT.

Washington, May 9.—Lieutenant J. H. Towers, head of the navy aviation corps, with Ensign G. DeC. Chevalier as a passenger, made a continuous flight in an aeroboat from here to Annapolis to-day over an all-water route. They flew down the Potomac and up Chesapeake Bay, covering the 169 miles in 3 hours and 6 minutes.

SPECIAL ACT FOR MORGAN ART.

Thomas E. Rush, attorney for the State Controller in transfer tax matters, expressed the opinion yesterday that a special act of the Legislature will be necessary to exempt the art collection of J. Pierpont Morgan from the payment of a tax. He said he had information that Governor Sulzer is in favor of such an act and has asked Assemblyman Charles J. Carroll to frame a bill to that end.

THE WEATHER REPORT.

Official Record and Forecast.—Washington, May 9.—An extensive area of high pressure overlies the central and northern portions of the country east of the Rocky Mountains, with its crest over Lake Superior. It was attended by a decided fall in temperature over the lake region and the great central valleys, and low temperatures also continue in the Northwest, with the result that they are now from 10 to 20 degrees below the seasonal average over the district covered by the high pressure.

The weather east of the Rocky Mountains was more or less unsettled, and showers were quite general over a narrow belt of country extending from Colorado and Nebraska eastward through the lower lake region into New England. There were also local thunder showers in the east Gulf and south Atlantic states, but appparently without much rain.

West of the Rocky Mountains the weather was fair, except in the coast states, where there were local rains.

Showers will continue Saturday, and probably Sunday, from the central Rocky Mountain region eastward through the Ohio Valley and the western lower lake region. Local showers are also probable Saturday in the south Atlantic and the southern portion of the middle Atlantic states. Over the remainder of the country the weather will be generally fair Saturday and Sunday, except in the north Pacific States, where there will be showers that will probably extend by Sunday into the extreme Northwest. It will be cooler Saturday from the Ohio Valley eastward and northeastward, and warmer Sunday in the upper lake region and the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys.

The winds along the New England and middle Atlantic coasts will be moderate northwest, becoming north and northeast Sunday; along the south Atlantic coast, moderate and variable, becoming northwest and north; along the east Gulf coast, light to moderate and variable; along the west Gulf coast, moderate southeast and south; on the lower lakes, moderate north and northeast; on the upper lakes, moderate northeast and east.

Steamers departing Saturday for European ports will have moderate northwest winds, with fair weather, to the Grand Banks.

Forecast for Special Localities.—For Eastern New York, fair to-day, cooler in south portions; to-morrow fair; moderate north and northeast winds.

For New England, fair and cooler to-day, to-morrow fair; moderate northwest to north winds.

For Western Virginia, showers and cooler to-day, to-morrow cloudy.

For Western Pennsylvania, fair to-day, to-morrow increasing cloudiness; moderate north and northeast winds.

For Western New York, fair to-day and to-morrow; moderate north and northeast winds.

For District of Columbia and Maryland, cloudy and cooler to-day, probably showers; to-morrow cloudy; light to moderate north and northeast winds.

For Virginia, showers and cooler to-day, to-morrow cloudy; moderate north winds.

For Delaware, cloudy and cooler to-day, probably showers; to-morrow fair; moderate north and northeast winds.

For New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania, fair and cooler to-day, to-morrow fair, moderate north and northeast winds.
