'Young Cuties' Worry Middle-Aged Wife

By DR. PAUL POPEÑO

What chance has a middle-aged woman to hold her husband? Not much, if Mrs. D.'s account is correct—and she wants a little more moral support from me. Read her story:

"It seems that everything possible is being done to wreck the home of middle-aged couples! You say nothing can destroy their love, or words to that effect, Dr. Popenoe—bosh! Why don't you write an article for these middle-aged men and tell them a few facts?"

"I try to spend a quiet evening at home with my husband and television, but every other program displays girls minus their clothes and made up to look like dolls.

"Well, being human, I am jealous; and don't forget that husbands are human, too. I go to the movies—what does my husband, beside me, see but some old geezer making an innocent young thing fall in love with him; and in the next reel my husband is eyeing some beautiful young thing on the screen, in a silk nightie, getting ready for bed.

"Next day I read in the newspapers that it's Father and Daughter Day; that means it's Mother's Day to stay at home, while Dad goes out to admire the young cuties. A wife can't even excite her husband's imagination, when the little females running around the streets are dressed in a way that leaves nothing to his imagination.

"No, indeed, Dr. Popenoe, it's not imagination on the part of a middle-aged wife, when she believes that she's no longer attractive to her husband. In the name of common sense, and to save our health and homes, how about coming to the aid of us poor middle-aged women?"

Let's look at this situation calmly, Mrs. D. If a wife's only chance to hold her husband is by beating the little cuties at their own game, she's bound to fail sooner or later! Fortunately, homes are built on a more solid foundation; and the largest number of divorces in any one year is in the first 12 months after the wedding—not in the middle ages!

Write me (enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope) for a copy of my revised and enlarged memorandum "Sex after Forty"; but build your relationship, in addition, on the advantages which no newcomer can offer—on the shared interests, memories, emotional support, and feeling of security—on the new experiences, the deep understanding, and the mutual trust, which you alone can provide.
