GARMENT STRIKE MENACES 300,000 IF PARLEY FAILS

Sixty Thousand Workers Ready to Quit To-morrow, Vote Shows.

FACE WEEKLY WAGE LOSS OF $1,000,000

Conciliation Council, in Last Effort To-day, Will Seek to Thwart Clash.

Unless Mayor Mitchel's council of arbitration finds it possible to bring about an understanding between employers and workers some time to-day, 60,000 employes of garment shops will strike to-morrow morning.

The three days of balloting on the desirability of a strike should the manufacturers refuse to accept the tentative settlement of the arbitration council ended last night.

If the strike does come it will mean the tie-up by next Monday of approximately 300,000 workers in all allied trades. It will mean the loss of $1,000,000 a week in wages to the 60,000 workers alone. If it lasts through the busy season of eight weeks, which is about to begin, the employers will lose more than $50,000,000 worth of business.

When the total count was completed it showed 39,337 in favor of the strike and 751 against, with about 20,000 not voting. Almost all the 15,000 women workers in the industry cast their ballot.

Officials of the union declared to a Tribune reporter yesterday that the employers seemed to be taking advantage of the fact that there could be no more inconvenient time than the present for the workers to strike. It is little more than five weeks to Roschhaschonah and about seven weeks to Yom Kippur. The former holiday, being the Jewish New Year, requires extensive preparation and financial outlay for its celebration. After Yom Kippur, or the Jewish day of fast, there are eight days of feasting.

Want Settlement Now.

Benjamin Schlesinger, president of the Garment Workers' Union, said last night that the workers wanted conciliatory action at once, because a large part of the Jewish employes wished to be in a calm state of mind, not only during the holidays, but during the extensive preparations that precede them.

Nevertheless the union reported that it was ready for the strike. Mr. Schlesinger admitted that while the Mayor's council of arbitration had been preparing for peace the union had been preparing for hostilities. In his estimation the biggest strike ever seen in the needle industry may begin to-morrow.

"We have done everything that could have been done in the interests of peace," he said. "The manufacturers will have the last word to-morrow. We control 95 per cent of the city's cloakmakers and can tie up the entire trade at a minute's notice."

All yesterday the council of conciliation was making an eleventh hour effort to avoid the break. Prominent in the minds of Dr. Felix Adler, the chairman of the council, and Mayor Mitchel was the knowledge that a strike meant that 300,000 men, women and children in the East Side, who are dependent on the garment workers' wages, would swamp the charity organizations of New York.

The meeting was called yesterday morning by Mayor Mitchel. Four members of the council were present. These were City Chamberlain Bruere, George W. Kirchwey, Charles L. Bernheimer and the chairman, Dr. Adler.

Counsel for the union and the manufacturers were called before the arbitration committee. Harold Riegelman, appearing on behalf of the manufacturers, said that the workers were wrangling over a misinterpretation of the agreement proposed by the Mayor's council last week.

Demands Puzzle Employers.

"The argument which will have to be settled," said Mr. Riegelman, who is assistant to Julius Henry Cohen, chief counsel for the manufacturers, last night, "will be the interpretation of the method to be employed when a man is discharged. We also want to know what is meant by the demand to keep a full force working throughout the year.

"It would be impossible for a manufacturer to discharge any of his men or lay them off, even during a dull season, if the union's demand should be obeyed. That is foolish and impossible."

Morris Hillquit, counsel for the workers, said that the union could not and would not countenance mysterious actions on the part of the employers.

"The manufacturers want to get in a position where they can strike the union a death blow," declared Mr. Schlesinger. "They have trifled long enough. We acted in good faith when we agreed to the findings of the council of conciliation, and we thought the employers did. We accepted what the council thought was right, but the manufacturers have hemmed and hawed, trying to get a little the best of it."

When asked as to the result of the meeting held by the council yesterday Dr. Adler replied that the situation was too delicate to jeopardize it by giving out a statement.

POOLROOM RAIDERS TRAP COMMUTERS

Thirty-two Westchester Men Scramble to Get Out —Freed in Court.

Detectives on Inspector Morris's staff proved the existence of a poolroom for men from New Rochelle, Fishkill, Peekskill, Yonkers and nearby points who like to put down a bet now and then, by a raid in Third Avenue, near Forty-first Street, yesterday. But Magistrate Corrigan, when thirty-two prisoners were arraigned in Night Court, discharged all for lack of evidence.

For sime time, Lieutenant McNeill and Detectives O'Connor, Butler, Goldman and Drolski have known that a certain First Avenue handbookmaker has sought the higher gambling level by opening a poolroom. On Saturday they managed to get a man into the two rooms in the rear of the dental parlor on the first floor of 646 Third Avenue.

Yesterday afternoon they returned. In the room when they broke down the door were thirty-two men, one, the police say, a coroner's physician. There was the usual wild scramble, but the detectives, reinforced by several patrolmen from the East Thirty-fifth Street station, managed to corral them all.

As they were being loaded into three patrol automobiles there were murmurs of what the commuters were going to tell the folks at home. They spent the remainder of the sultry afternoon in the anything but cool cells.

O'Connor made the complaint in Night Court. He admitted to Magistrate Corrigan that he did not see the men playing, but he had confiscated three racing charts and slips that proved the character of the place.

"The action of the police in this case," the magistrate said, "is illegal. You admit you have no evidence, but you deprived these thirty-two men of their liberty for five hours solely because you have reason to suspect one man of being a gambler."

"But, your honor," broke in O'Connor, "these men were there for the purpose of gambling, of making bets. They knew it was a gambling house when they went in there."

"It does not make any difference," was Magistrate Corrigan's reply. "You did not see them gambling, and you deprived them of the liberty guaranteed them by the Legislature and the Constitution. I discharge you," said the court, turning to the much relieved group of commuter gamblers.

BRIDE AND GUESTS POISONED BY SALAD

Thirty-six Stricken After Wedding Feast—Bridegroom Too Nervous to Eat.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Winsted, Conn., Aug. 2.—Thirty-five of the guests at the wedding of Miss Henrietta Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bentley Pratt, of North Main Street, and Burton Hawley, which took place at the summer home of the bride's parents in Tolland, Mass., Saturday afternoon, are ill with ptomaine poisoning as a result of eating chicken salad. Two of those who escaped were Miss Jennie Wheeler, daughter of Chief of Police S. C. Wheeler, and who had a dislike for the dish, and the bridegroom, who, according to his mother, "was too nervous to eat." Even the bride did not escape.

Among the Winsted people made ill were Miss May Larkin, Miss Ruth Moore, Mrs. Arthur Dutcher, Miss Grace Carter and Miss Florence Sweeny, all of Mrs. Dutcher's Sunday School class; Mr. and Mrs. Levi Hawley, parents of the bridegroom, and Elton Hawley, Mrs. Gobett A. Hawley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Halstead, Mrs. Harriet Pratt and Mrs. John Winn. All are said to be out of danger.

BUFFALO GORES COWBOY

"Buster" Attacked in Circus After Bronco Throws Him.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 2.—Thrown from the back of a bronco he was exercising in a corral of the 101 Ranch circus here to-day, Howard Langdon, twenty years old, "buster" of the show, was nearly killed by a huge buffalo.

Buffeted from one end of the corral to the other by the buffalo, Langdon was unable to rise. Before the animal was driven off it had punctured the cowboy's left side with its horns, smashed two of his ribs, injured his left leg and bruised his body. Circus employes subdued the buffalo with stakes and clubs.

Langdon's condition is dangerous, but surgeons hope to save him.

IN LOVE, DROWNS HERSELF

Jersey Girl, 14, Rebuked by Mother for First Romance.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 2.—Piqued at her mother's refusal to countenance her first love affair, Elizabeth Garrity, fourteen, threw herself into the Passaic River Saturday.

The girl lived with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Grey, of 225 Park Avenue, for the last thirteen years, and on Friday received a postal card signed "Eugene." This card lay on the mantel when the girl's mother visited the house.

Mrs. Garrity upbraided her daughter. Saturday morning Elizabeth, waiting until her aunt had gone, left her home. When she had not returned Saturday her uncle notified the police and a search was made, without result.

This morning Mr. Grey was notified that the girl's body had been found, and he identified it at the Morgue. The funeral will be held to-morrow.

No Hope for General Tracy.

The condition of General Benjamin F. Tracy, ill in his home, 14 East Thirtieth Street, was such last night that his physician said he might die within a few hours, or live for two or three days. Dr. William B. Pritchard, the physician for two years, said there was no hope for his recovery.

NOVEL'S PLOT HER DEATH

Girl So Absorbed She Falls Out Window, Crushing Skull.

Teresa Rabino, fifteen years old, was reading a novel on the windowsill of her home, which is on the fifth floor of 132 East Houston Street, yesterday afternoon. As the light grew dimmer the girl leaned further forward until she lost her balance and fell out into the street.

She landed on Miss Molly Galubin, of 141 Norfolk Street. Teresa's skull was fractured. She will die. Molly got a bruise on the shoulder.

OUST ZEALOUS NEWSBOY

Crew Resent "Panic" Extra Yells at Yonkers.

Arnold Schwartz, a newsboy, was driven from the Yonkers dock on the Hudson River yesterday for shouting about the panic aboard the Grand Republic Sunday night, as passengers were going aboard for Rockaway Beach.

The crew complained to Captain Edward Carmen of the steamer that Schwartz, advertising the panic to sell newspapers, interfered with the company's patronage.

SCUDDER REFUSES GROUT A HEARING

Cropsey Objects, and Justice Agrees to Refer the Case to Another.

Justice Scudder refused to hear argument in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday on an order to show cause why a certificate of reasonable doubt should not be granted Edward M. Grout, under sentence for perjury in connection with the affairs of the Union Bank. The justice's decision followed an objection of District Attorney Cropsey, who stated that he did not want Justice Scudder to hear the motion and asked that the matter be referred to another justice.

Mr. Cropsey's stand in the matter is the result of a controversy between him and members of the bench during the preliminary motions in the recent Grout trial. In a public speech at that time Mr. Cropsey referred to certain justices as "hand-picked" and as "bosom friends" of Mr. Grout. Justice Scudder was among these. When the Grout order was called for argument in Special Term Mr. Cropsey at once arose and said:

"The District Attorney is ready, but respectfully asks that this matter be referred to another justice. This request is based upon certain statements made by your honor concerning the defendant, the District Attorney and the present management of the District Attorney's office."

Justice Scudder interrupted:

"I do not think it necessary to go further into those matters at this time," he said. "Perhaps some arrangement can be made as to going before another justice. If I understand the practice, there is power in this court to send the case to some other department or some other judge."

Stephen C. Baldwin, counsel for Mr. Grout, objected at once to the sending of the matter before another justice and there was some further colloquy. Justice Scudder then declared that he would try to find another justice who would hear the argument.

Grout is in the city prison under a stay of sentence. The stay expires on Friday.

HOLE TORN IN ROOF NEW BOMB MYSTERY

Police Believe Explosion in 147th Street, Sunday, Was Set Off in Flat.

An explosion rocked the apartment houses in the neighborhood of West 147th Street early Sunday morning. Frightened tenants ran to the sidewalk in scanty attire, numerous telephone calls were received at the West 152d Street police station and investigation was begun, but the incident remained a mystery.

Last night four women entered the police station and told the lieutenant on duty that the explosion occurred on the roof of the apartment house at 502 West 147th Street. A patrolman sent to investigate found a large hole in the roof directly over the apartment occupied by Charles Di Bella and his two brothers. The three men said they were out when the explosion occurred.

The opening had been covered with rugs and blankets.

On the door of the Di Bella apartment, in addition to the regulation lock, was a padlock. The hole in the roof, the police said, indicated that the force of the explosion came from below.

No explosives were found in the Di Bella apartment, but Inspector Owen Eagan was summoned early this morning to make an investigation.

WITH GUN, HOLDS FAMILY BESIEGED

O. L. Roehr, Believed Insane, Captured at Rockaway After Fight.

Otto L. Roehr, of East Rockaway, Long Island, who went suddenly insane on Saturday night, supposedly over war conditions, threatening a neighboring family with death and later giving Sheriff Pettit and some deputies a hard fight, is now in the Kings Park Insane Asylum. He was sent there on the recommendation of Dr. Arthur D. Jacques, of Lynbrook, and Dr. A. L. Higgins, of Rockville Centre.

Roehr, who is a son of the late Colonel Henry Edward Roehr, has occupied a bungalow in East Rockaway for about a year. The family also has a house at 487 Prospect Place, Brooklyn. Late Saturday night Roehr crossed the lawn to the home of his next door neighbor, George L. Smith, and accused him of "saying things about him." Mr. Smith tried to quiet the man, believing the heat had affected him, but his overtures toward peace resulted only in sending Roehr away with the muttered threat to return and "fix" the whole bunch.

The Smith family had retreated into the house, with Mrs. Smith on the verge of hysteria, when Roehr returned with a shotgun. He poked the muzzle through a screen and remarked, calmly:

"Now, in three seconds I'm going to begin killing you. Which of you want to go first?"

Alarmed for their lives, some one of the family turned out the light. Roehr continued at the window, Smith says, for some five minutes, during which the family escaped from the room. Then Roehr took up a position on the porch, announcing that he would "get" them when they came out. One of the family escaped from a rear window, hurried off and notified Sheriff Pettit.

The Sheriff arrived and after a council of war, Roehr was tricked into approaching the fence, where the Sheriff stood. While this was going on a deputy got the shotgun. Roehr was handcuffed, but put up a lively fight, his six feet of brawn telling well in the battle, as the marks upon his adversaries attest.

Roehr's family are the principal stockholders in the Roehr Publishing Company, of Brooklyn, which publishes the "Freie Presse," Brooklyn's only German daily.

THE WEATHER REPORT

Forecasts and Records of the Last Twenty-four Hours.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The disturbance over Northern Florida Sunday night has moved to Southern Georgia, attended by heavy local rains, and also by moderate gales on the Georgia and northeast Florida coasts. The depression over the lower Ohio Valley has also assumed more definite formation, and, with the high area to the northward and northeastward, has caused general showers over the northern and central districts east of the Rocky Mountains. There were also local showers in the Gulf states, while in the Southwest and extreme West the weather was fair. It is considerably cooler in the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys and the upper lake region, and generally warmer in the Northwest, especially over Western Idaho and the eastern portions of Oregon and Washington, where the maximum temperatures ranged from 94 to 100 degrees. Temperatures are also slightly lower in the Atlantic states, although generally above 90 degrees from Southeastern Pennsylvania southward. Unsettled, showery weather will continue Tuesday from the upper lake region and the Ohio Valley eastward, and also in the south Atlantic states, and probably on Wednesday in the middle Atlantic states and New England. It will be cooler Tuesday in the Ohio Valley, the lower lake region and the middle Atlantic states, and will continue cool in the upper lake region, followed by rising temperature Wednesday. Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic Coast from Savannah to Fort Monroe.

Winds for Tuesday and Wednesday: North and middle Atlantic, moderate north and northeast; south Atlantic, fresh to strong, mostly south. Tuesday, diminishing Wednesday and becoming variable; east and west Gulf, moderate south; upper lakes, moderate to fresh northeast; lower lakes, moderate northeast.

Forecast for Special Localities.—Eastern New York, the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey, unsettled to-day and to-morrow, with occasional showers.

New England, showers to-day and probably to-morrow.

Western New York, thunder showers and cooler to-day; fair Wednesday.

Local Official Record.—The following official record from the Weather Bureau shows the changes in the temperature for the last twenty-four hours, in comparison with the corresponding date of last year:

ONFFROY CHILDREN BACK WITH FATHER

Judge Not Impressed with Counsel's Statement That Mother Had Sworn Off.

HUSBAND BEAT HER OFTEN, WIFE SAYS

Asserts Nurse, Promising Allegiance, Betrayed Her When She Became Penniless.

Mrs. Kathleen L. Onffroy has again lost the custody of her children. This time they were not spirited away by their father, Roland D. Onffroy. The change of custodians was made by Justice Weeks.

Having lost this most important point in her litigation with her husband because of her addiction to drink, the suffering of the mother who is now deprived of the comfort and companionship of her little ones is to be assuaged by the payment of $25 a week alimony until the court has finally passed on the merits of Onffroy's suit for separation and his wife's counter claim.

It is about two weeks since Mrs. Onffroy, driven to desperation by the absence of her children, Roland T., four years old, and Paul D., a year and a half, took the youngsters from the hiding place selected for them at Cos Cob, Conn. Onffroy, vice-president of the United Five and Ten Cent Stores Company, had taken them away from the Onffroy home, at 725 Riverside Drive. Mrs. Onffroy obtained a writ of habeas corpus to compel her husbank to produce the children in court, but the machinery of the law ground altogether too slowly for the anguished mother, so she took the children away in an auto.

Drinking Cost Her Suit.

While Mrs. Onffroy was in the House of the Good Shepherd, under a commitment made on the request of her husband, he began his suit for separation. The wife was released by Justice Shearn, who held the woman was illegally committed.

Roland and Paul, for whose sake their mother said she had long endured the cruel treatment of their father, are now taken from her. That is, they will be in the custody of Onffroy as soon as the court order is signed. Until then they will remain with their mother on the upper East Side, where Mrs. Onffroy is living at the home of a friend. The mother will be permitted to see them at certain intervals.

Justice Weeks considered seriously the charge made against Mrs. Onffroy that she drank to excess. It was because he believed these allegations that he decided as he did. Early in the day Mrs. Onffroy was in court, ready to pour her woes into the ear of the justice, but the latter did not think it was necessary to amplify the statements of her lawyer. She was not in court later in the day when Justice Weeks ordered that she surrender the children to her husband.

Hugo Wintner, for Mrs. Onffroy, told the court that it was the practice of Onffroy to beat his wife every month, and that at such times she would go to her room and remain under the influence of alcohol for five or six hours. But she was not a confirmed drunkard, the lawyer said, nor had she drank since being released from the House of the Good Shepherd.

Say Maid Betrayed Her.

In reply to the urging of the lawyer that he see and talk with Mrs. Onffroy, to prove that she was not now drinking, Justice Weeks remarked, "I have seen the most delicious looking fruit which was rotten at the core."

The court would not entertain the request of counsel that Mrs. Onffroy be permitted to take her children to the White Mountains. They may not go out of the State except with their father. It was explained that Mrs. Onffroy had the lads at the East Side house, because Onffroy, a man of wealth, had quit supporting his wife.

It developed during the hearing that Anna Robb, a nurse in the Onffroy household, had been taken along when Onffroy took the children away. According to the statements in court Miss Robb promised to advise Mrs. Onffroy of the whereabouts of the boys. She never did, but she wrote, it was alleged, that she "would stick to the boss, as he had the most money."

Mrs. Onffroy applied for $100 a week alimony and $1,000 counsel fee. Justice Weeks awarded her $25 a week and $250 fees.
