

Lord Haldane Again

HIS REAPPEARANCE IN PUBLIC—HIS STATEMENT ABOUT MUNITIONS.—MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S REPLY.—MINISTERS AND LABOR—ARMAMENT SCANDALS—WHAT LORD HALDANE HAS DONE AND SAID—WHAT THE NATION HAS DECIDED.

(Copyright, 1915, by George W. Slaters.)
 London, July 9.
 Not many men are worse served by their friends than Lord Haldane by his. Perhaps never was there a more inopportune celebration of the National Liberal Club on the occasion of the late Lord Chancellor's compulsory retirement to private life. It is a club which has never been distinguished by the tact or good sense of its management.

Lord Lincolnshire presided; a man of many amiable traits and much unwisdom. Mr. Asquith wrote a letter of impassioned panegyric upon his former colleague; most creditable to the Prime Minister's loyalty in matters of friendship, but considering the state of public opinion, untimely and unserviceable. And Lord Haldane made a speech; in the tone of superiority habitual to him. Public opinion has put him in the dock, but he delivered judgment as if from the bench, or as it still on the woolsack.

Mr. Lloyd George's Attack.
 Plainly, this club caucus was meant to prepare the way for Lord Haldane's return to office. Mr. Asquith's letter is evidence enough that he would again welcome his old friend as a coalition colleague if he could. But Mr. Lloyd George has intervened: a man much closer in touch with the English nation than Mr. Asquith has lately shown himself.

Lord Haldane, though responsible in a measure for failing to supply the British forces in Flanders with war munitions, supplies them without trouble to his enemies here at home. He was rash enough to give the account of what occurred at a meeting of the cabinet on arms last October. The Ministry, he says, placed orders with "the great munition manufacturers" which the manufacturers "undertook to carry out, without having been carried out, would have placed this country in a position of tremendous advantage."

A most interesting statement by Mr. Lloyd George, who was a member of this committee, sends a message to the press that Lord Haldane's version of the proceedings is "incomplete and in some material respects inaccurate." He promises to do more fully into the matter at the proper time; how he may get to be driven to do so now; and in a stinging sentence reminds the late Lord Chancellor that:

"The very fact of this conflict of memory having arisen shows the unreasonableness of these partial and unauthorized disclosures of the decisions of highly confidential committees of the cabinet."

What the Nation Decided.
 And he now admits—nay, he asserts in his own defence—that he deceived England. He deceived her from the best motives and with the best intention, but he deceived her. He sent her to sleep. There was time for preparation had he spoken out in 1913, but he thought it right to say smooth things to Germany; and to carry out his plans which included the reduction of the regular forces of the army. He still thinks he is right. He says: "I am certain that with no other system should we have been in a better position."

That is why the Nation, which judges broadly, decreed when the National Government was formed last May that Lord Haldane should cease to be a Minister and retire to private life. In view of the conflict between him and Mr. Lloyd George on a question of truth telling, and in view of the whole position as it affects Lord Haldane himself, he has been asked if he had anything further to say. But he answers, "I have no statement to make." So the record stands.

WARD-WILSON.
 Montclair, N. J., Aug. 14.—The marriage of Miss Ruth Averill Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcellus S. Wilson, of 222 North Mountain Avenue, and Norman Brewer Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barton B. Ward, of 13 Gates Avenue, took place this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus B. Walser, of 133 Lorraine Avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. G. Davey, of Lake Mahopac, N. Y. Mrs. Wilson was her daughter's first choice. The bride, other attendants were Miss Irene Walser and Miss Alta Ward, sister of the bridegroom. Mr. Ward's brother, H. Paul Ward, of Montclair, was best man. Mr. Ward is a mining engineer, of New York, is a graduate of Columbia.

Ministers and Labor.
 Here than that. The late Ministry has been accused before now of trying to ride off from its liabilities and liabilities by blaming labor. That said its critics, was at the bottom of the drink campaign, but it is not General von Donop. The workmen, he said—not all, but some—preferred drink to work and it was their slowness in work which stopped the supply of shells. This charge had to be met. Mr. Lloyd explained away. Lord Haldane now retires it. The late Ministry, he declares, placed orders for munitions last October and the manufacturers did their best to execute them.

"But there arose difficulties between Labor and Capital which confounded all the calculations of the munition manufacturers, and that is the source of the trouble today." It is not General von Donop. The industrial conditions in face of such a demand were such that the great munition manufacturers could not complete them, though they tried their best.

Wherefore we are to understand that since Capital did its best and Labor did not, Labor and not Capital—no, nor Ministers, either—was responsible for the trouble today. It is not General von Donop. The industrial conditions in face of such a demand were such that the great munition manufacturers could not complete them, though they tried their best.

Armament Scandals.
 But that is not all. It is not Lord Haldane's way to say more than suits his book. But it has long been alleged that early in the war a certain number of munition manufacturers were allowed to acquire for themselves a monopoly of the arms supply for the government. Whether their demand, supposing it had been made, was a reasonable one is matter of dispute. Like the demand itself. But Lord Haldane's assertion has a sinister look in the light of this story. If his committee placed their orders with these monopoly manufacturers, and if it is presently clear that the orders could not be executed, the question arises whether all these works, fully manned with willing skilled laborers, could in any case have completed the supply of what was wanted. At any rate, we now know they were not completed, and that some 3,000 other firms were set to work.

We know also that during all this time—during months of last year and this—many private offers of munitions and requests for contracts were made to the War Office and not even rejected, but just neglected and not answered of any kind given to applicants. The need was urgent; the munitions could have been had. But the rule of the War Office has been to treat all proposals with civility with contempt. Routine, tradition, military self-confidence were supreme. General von Donop is an able man, no doubt, as Lord Haldane says, but if he was the embodiment of this military tradition, of what use was his ability? And what could be expected of a War Office organized for the handling of more than two hundred thousand men when it was actually called on to take care of two millions? Or, what could be expected of a War Office in the hands of department heads who in respect of business matters were amateur wretches who disdained the help of competent business men?

What Lord Haldane Has Done and Said.
 These are very serious issues. They present one more in all its nakedness. The gospel of muddle in which for so long the Ministers and their people of England put their faith is now taking the nation one step further toward that other gospel of organization and efficiency by which alone mistakes can be redeemed and it is now clear that to that extent Lord Haldane is entitled to an expression of gratitude.

MISS ANDREWS BELMONT BRIDE

Rocky Hall, at Newport, Scene of Wedding to Morgan Belmont.

VALUABLE PRESENTS ARE NOT DISPLAYED

After Ceremony Young Couple Motor Away on First Stage of Honeymoon.

Newport, Aug. 14.—The marriage of Miss Margaret Francis Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Andrews, to Morgan Belmont, son of August Belmont, took place this afternoon in the large music-room at Rocky Hall, the Andrews summer home here, before a company of more than 150 guests, who filled the room and those adjoining it, the ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. Thomas F. Doran, associate bishop of the diocese of Providence. He was assisted by the Rev. James T. Ward, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Newport.

The wedding march was played the bridal party appeared through an aisle of ornate colored asters and hydrangeas. At the end of the room was an altar, with lighted candelabra. Miss Andrews walked with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was attended by ten bridesmaids—the Misses Dorothea Watts, Rhoda Fullam, Angelica Brown, Hannah Randolph, Marie Taylor, Dorothy Gordon King, Eibel Huhn, Carolyn Herbert, Katharine Porter, and Carey Morgan. The ushers were G. L. Aspinwall, August Belmont, Jr., A. L. Bliss, Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, jr., William H. Chatfield, G. F. Curtis, Jr., C. Oliver Iselin, Jr., S. T. Hopkins, Edgar D. Morgan, and H. Carey Morgan. The best man was Raymond Belmont, a brother of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a gown that was very simple. A white tulle overdress was hung over an underdress of white satin, the three boucous being hooped with bands of rose point lace over at hip and knee. The bodice was of tulle, with a large brooch of diamonds.

The bridesmaids, all attired alike, wore orchid-colored satin, veiled with tulle of the same shade. The bridesmaids were edged with silver trimming. Blue picture hats, trimmed with garlands of flowers, were worn, and the young women carried purple or white with long blue ribbon streamers.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Andrews, wore pale grey trimmed with very old and rare lace. She wore orchids, and carried a string of pearls.

At the end of the ceremony the bride and groom were seated at a table, and the Rev. Mr. Doran delivered an address, augmented by an organ, played another wedding march. The orchestra played during the bridal luncheon, which was served in the library, where the tables were decorated with garlands and lilies-of-the-valley. The bride received many presents, but they were not on exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Belmont departed later by motor on the first stage of their honeymoon trip, the bride being attired in a travelling dress of blue Georgette crepe, with a blue hat to match. Their destination was not made known, but when they return, some weeks hence, they will go to Mr. Belmont's home, at Hempstead, Long Island.

The guests at the ceremony besides Mr. and Mrs. Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Belmont were Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Governor and Mrs. R. Livingston Beekman, Ambassador and Mme. Bakmetz, Edward J. Berwind, Mrs. William W. Sherman, Mrs. Rensselaer Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen, Dr. and Mrs. Richard C. Derby, Miss Mimi Scott, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. William Grosvenor and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin D. Morgan, Mrs. Elisha J. Myer, Mme. De Constantino, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, Miss Maria De Bar-ril, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. J. Francis A. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, Mr. and Mrs. John Fell, Miss Gerry, Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Pope, Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon King, Mrs. LeRoy King, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Legare, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Long, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hayward Ferry, Mrs. Niles, Mrs. Multon, Mrs. Roderick Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Norman, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. F. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. John Sargent.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sedgwick, the Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Shipman, Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley, Mrs. August Belmont, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Winthrop, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, Mrs. Charles P. Curtis, Jr., Mrs. J. Lee Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sampson Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore, Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Winston and Mr. and Mrs. George Wagstaff.

COTTAGERS KEPT BUSY AT NEWPORT

Dog Show, Golf and Many Other Interesting Affairs for Summer Colonists.

Newport, Aug. 14.—To-day will go down in history as a busy Saturday for the members of the summer colony. Besides the wedding of Miss Andrews and Mr. Belmont this afternoon there were many other interesting affairs. One event, however, was called off on account of the heat. This was the final match in a mixed doubles tennis tournament at the Casino. The dog show demanded much attention, as some of the cottagers were exhibiting dogs. Mrs. Hamilton W. Cary, of New York, was one of the popular winners in the afternoon with her Boston terrier Newport Nippon.

The golf match in the afternoon demanded its quota of the colonists, and there seemed to be no end of social entertaining to-day. Governor and Mrs. Beekman gave a luncheon at Land's End. Mrs. Fletcher F. Ryer gave one at the Thaw cottage.

Henry Clews celebrated his birthday with a luncheon at The Rocks, at which he had among other guests five of his grandchildren.

The largest dinner party to-night was that which Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Egan also gave at Wakehurst. This was for fifty guests, and there was dancing later.

Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones gave a dinner at Sherwood; Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth Wickes gave a dinner at Zee Rust; Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly, at Vinland, and Dr. and Mrs. Henry Barton Jacobs, at Whiteholm.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and Miss Elsie Stevens, who have been at the Muenchinger King for some time. Other recent arrivals at the same place include Mr. Richard Stevens, who arrived from the East; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lawson, of Boston.

MISS LELAND TO WED

Niece of Joaquin Miller Engaged to S. A. Orvis.

Mrs. Hattie Leland, of 51 East Fifty-eighth Street and Saratoga Springs, N. Y., has announced the engagement of her niece, Miss Ina Leland, to Schuyler Adams Orvis, of this city. Schuyler Adams Orvis, son of Miss Leland is a granddaughter of the late W. W. Leland, who was on the staff of General Grant during the Civil War, and a niece of the late Joaquin Miller, the poet of the Sierras. Miss Leland is a graduate of the Finch School, of this city, and is an expert horse woman and a clever amateur actress. Mr. Orvis is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Orvis, of 85 West Eighty-ninth Street. He is a member of the senior class at Williams College.

AT NEWPORT'S BRILLIANT FLOWER SHOW.

Miss Inga Sontum dancing on the lawn.

Miss Elizabeth Sands and Miss Caperton, flower girls.

Miss Sontum in another of her characteristic dances.

BEN GREET AT LENOX

Gives Performance of "Taming of the Shrew."

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 14.—An open air performance of "The Taming of the Shrew" was given by the Ben Greet Woodland Players on the lawn at the Hotel Asinwald this afternoon. A large audience made the performance one of the most successful artistic events of the season.

Mrs. William H. Bradford, who is now at Wayside, has given an automobile ambulance to the French Emergency Hospital Corps, and her grandson, Bradford Lindsay Fairfax, has gone to France to drive the car.

The Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes has gone to the Adirondacks to visit his mother, Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, at her camp.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Woodward Haven, who have returned from Manchester, N. H., with their guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sargent Gram, gave a dinner party at Ingleside tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Hooley Crane and Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butler, of Locker Rooms, bedrooms and baths and ladies' dressing room, lounge room, Adirondack Cottage Sanatorium, Mrs. William Osgood Field and their family have gone to Little Caspédia River, in Quebec, for an outing.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Fowler, jr., have arrived in Stockbridge to visit Miss Charlotte L. Cram.

Mrs. Carl A. de Gersdorff and Miss Marion Hague were in charge of the Casino dance in Stockbridge tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Kingsland and Mrs. W. P. Anderson arrive to-morrow at Brookhurst to visit Mr. and Mrs. Newbold Amy.

Miss Amy Kohlsaat was hostess at the Stockbridge Golf Club this afternoon.

Mrs. Frederic Neilson and Mrs. Hollis Hunnewell left this morning for Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Fairfax came to Wayside to-night from New York.

J. W. HARPER DIES IN MAINE; WAS 84

Last of the Brothers Who Built Up a Great Publishing Enterprise.

Biddeford, Me., Aug. 14.—John W. Harper, of New York, last survivor of Harper Brothers, magazine publishers, died to-day at Biddeford Pool. He was eighty-four years old.

John W. Harper, president of Harper Brothers for many years, was the son of John Harper, one of the founders of the publishing company. He retired from the presidency in 1899. Under his supervision the firm developed a comparatively small concern to one of the most flourishing publishing houses in the United States.

The life of John W. Harper is bound up with the history of Harper Brothers. In 1795, thirty-six years before the birth of John W. Harper, the founder of the firm, James Harper, was born. The oldest Harper served an apprenticeship as a printer and began to publish on his own account when he was about twenty years old. He was joined in the enterprise by his brother John, father of John W. Harper.

James Harper was elected Mayor of New York in 1844. In 1869 he died as the result of a carriage accident. Soon after, the firm was reorganized by the addition of several sons of the original partnership in some branch of the business. Among these was John W. Harper, who was subsequently elected president. In 1867, under his presidency, the firm of Harper & Brothers was incorporated, the capital being $2,000,000.

There were only eight stockholders at the time, the second largest number of shares being credited to John W. Harper.

In 1899, soon after he retired, the firm went into a receiver's hands. The business was sold the following year to Colonel George B. M. Harvey, assuming control.

PROF. F. W. PUTNAM, SCIENTIST, DEAD

Was One of Most Eminent Anthropologists in America—Legion of Honor Man.

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 14.—Professor Frederick Ward Putnam, honorary curate of the Peabody Museum at Harvard University, and considered one of the most eminent anthropologists in this country, died to-day in his seventy-seventh year.

Frederick Ward Putnam was born in Salem, Mass., April 18, 1839, and came from one of the oldest families of New England, being a direct descendant of General Israel Putnam of Revolutionary fame.

In 1856 the noted professor, Louis Agassiz, took an interest in young Putnam, who was of profound influence in shaping his future career. Frederick had planned to enter West Point, but on the advice of his new friend he went to Harvard instead, securing his degree in 1862. As a boy he displayed a remarkable aptitude for natural science, and this greatly developed in college.

While yet a student Putnam was appointed an assistant in the Zoological Museum, a little frame building which he was to see grow into the magnificent museum of to-day, over which he had presided since 1874.

The offices, active and honorary, at home and abroad, which Professor Putnam had held were many and prominent. After serving as curator of institutions in Salem and Boston and as an officer of several natural scientific societies he became, in 1894, curator of anthropology in the American Museum of Natural History in this city. In 1903 he was chosen one of the four archaeologists to whom the Drexel Medal of the University of Pennsylvania was awarded. At the St. Louis exposition he was chairman of the division of anthropology of the International Congress of Arts and Sciences, and the next year he was made president of the American Anthropological Association.

Professor Putnam was a member of more than seventy learned societies in America and abroad, serving as an officer in most of them. He was an honorary member of Phi Beta Kappa and was decorated by the French government.

JEAN NORRIS ANCON BRIDE

Wedded W. L. Urquhart August 12, Mother Announces.

The marriage of Miss Jean Norris and William Lester Urquhart at the Episcopal Chapel, Ancon, Panama, on August 12 was announced last night by Mrs. Charlotte Mary Norris, 482 West 122d Street, the mother of the bride. The ceremony was originally planned to be held in Columbia University Chapel.

The bride's father was the late Dr. Henry Lee Norris. Her aunt, the late Miss Ada Louise Norris, of Princeton, N. J., was a Mayflower descendant, a Colonial Dame, a daughter of the Revolution and a member of the Society of the War of 1812.

Mr. Urquhart has extensive business interests in Colombia, where the couple will make their home. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Slack.

CONCERT FOR SARANAC

Adirondack Cottage Sanatorium Will Benefit.

A concert under the direction of Victor Harris will be given in the Saranac Casino, Saranac Lake, N. Y., on Tuesday evening for the benefit of the Adirondack Cottage Sanatorium. Mrs. George P. Robbins, violinist; Miss Mary Gray Runke, soprano, and Wallace E. Cox, baritone, will appear.

On the committee of arrangements are Mrs. Thomas Blagden, Mrs. E. V. Lane, Mrs. James R. Sheffield, Mrs. Francis S. Bangs, Mrs. Edwin I. Bulkeley, Mrs. Isaac N. Seligman, Mrs. Sidney Colgate, Mrs. S. A. Swenson, Mrs. Harry G. Rinkle and Mrs. L. Emmet Holt.

Tickets at 50¢ each may be obtained from Mrs. Holt, Panther Point Camp, Saranac Lake.

SUNSHINE TO SAVE $30,000

Health Board Abandons Fumigation for Renovation.

New York will save $30,000 a year by the abandonment of fumigation in cases of contagious disease. Tests made since last October have led the Board of Health to decide that fresh air, sunshine, and especially complete renovation were preferable and more efficacious.

Prior to the discontinuance of fumigation, renovation was not enforced, except in the case of tuberculosis. To Logan here on Saturday, August 7, Mr. and Mrs. Logan will be at home after September 1 at 98 Bellevue Avenue.

LOGAN—EAGER.

Montclair, N. J., Aug. 14.—Announcement has been made of the wedding of Miss Mary Katherine Eager, of South Fullerton Avenue, and George Harry Logan here on Saturday, August 7, Mr. and Mrs. Logan will be at home after September 1 at 98 Bellevue Avenue.

ernment with the Cross of the Legion of Honor.

He was undoubtedly the most important single investigator of prehistoric man in this country.

Professor Putnam was the author of more than 400 books, pamphlets, brochures, treatises on zoology and anthropology.

CHARLES D. WARNER.

Red Bank, N. J., Aug. 14.—Charles D. Warner, 78, "father" of the Red Bank school system and president of the Board of Education for forty-five years, died last night at his home, 15 Shrewsbury Avenue. Through his efforts the fight for a $10,000 school-house was won. This was the first graded school in Monmouth County. Mr. Warner was born in Williamstown, Mass. He began to teach school at seventeen. He served as township superintendent at Chester, principal of the public schools in Northampton, Mass.; an instructor in the South Williams Academy and in a private school in Cheshire, Mass. Later he went to Holmdel, N. J., from which place he came to Red Bank. He had been for several years. He leaves two daughters. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

MISS EDITH COLFORD.

Miss Edith Colford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Jones Colford and niece of C. O'Donnell Iselin and F. R. Wiesman, died of pneumonia on Friday morning at 334 West Fifty-seventh Street, New York City. She was born in New York and Newport society, but for the last few years had been in ill health. She was well known as a lover of horses, and was a prominent figure in all the American horse shows. She leaves, besides her parents, a brother, Sidney Jones Colford, jr., of New York. The funeral will be held on Monday morning at the Church of Zion and St. Timothy, 334 West Fifty-seventh Street. Interment will be in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery.

WILLIAM HOWARD.

William Howard, eldest Odd Fellow in New York State, died yesterday at the Odd Fellows' Home, Hollis, Long Island, where he had been for almost twenty years. He was eighty-five years old, and was taken to Flushing when a child by his parents. He was for years the hotel business in Flushing. His wife died several years ago. Only a grandson survives him. Several years ago he received a gold medal from the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of New York and New Jersey. Burial will be in Flushing Cemetery.

MRS. JOSEPHINE ZABRISKIE.

Mrs. Josephine Zabriskie, wife of Augustus Zabriskie, died at her home, formerly the Havemeyer estate, at Front Street and Hendrickson Place, Hempstead, yesterday. Mrs. Zabriskie, born in 1841, was the daughter of the late Henry M. Barrows. Mrs. Zabriskie had lived in Hempstead for six years. She leaves a husband and two children, Mrs. William G. Emmett and Mrs. Zabriskie. The funeral services and interment will be private.

MRS. BARBARA M'FALL.

Dover, N. J., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Barbara McFall, seventy-six, died last night at her home, 45 Sanford Street. Mrs. McFall was the widow of Zephaniah McFall, one son, Lieutenant Roscoe McFall, is on the warship San Diego, now at the Mare Island Navy Yard, San Francisco. The other children are Miss Catherine McFall, of New York; Miss Sadie McFall, Arling McFall, Eacons McFall and Charles P. McFall, all of this place.

MRS. CAROLINE E. MERRITT.

Mrs. Caroline E. Merritt, widow of Captain Israel J. Merritt, died on Friday at her home, on the Boulevard, Whitestone, Long Island. Her husband was the founder and for many years president of the Merritt & Chapman Wrecking Company. He died three and one-half years ago. Mrs. Merritt was a graduate of the Flushing High School, and is survived by five grandchildren.

BIRCHALL—Suddenly, on August 13, at Upton, Me., William H. Birchall, of New York City, is 72d year. Funeral services on Tuesday, August 17, 2 o'clock, at his late residence, 331 Bedford Park Boulevard, East 200th Street, Bronx. Philadelphia papers please copy.

FOOT—On Thursday, August 12, at Washington, 1707 E. 1st St., W., Washington, D. C., Rebecca Forster Foot, widow of the late Major Alfred Foot, 14th Infantry, U. S. A., mother of Samuel A. Foot, of New York and of General Foot, of New York. Interment at Harrisburg, Penn.

KNOX—Suddenly, at Fort Hill, Oklahoma, Captain George Hyson Knox, U. S. A. Notice of funeral hereafter.

WARD—At North Brookfield, Mass., Friday, August 13, 1915, Moses Williamson Ward, in the 86th year of his age. Services at his late residence, 150 Sunbury Street, on Sunday, August 15, at 2 p. m. Interment in Cedar Hill Cemetery, Hartford, Conn.

ZABRISKIE—At her residence, in Hempstead, L. I., on Saturday, August 14, Josephine Booram, daughter of the late Henry A. Booram and wife of Augustus Zabriskie, in the 67th year of her age. Funeral private. It is requested that no flowers be sent.

MANHATTAN AND THE BRONX.

GARDEN, Euphemia, 249 West 143d St., August 12. Funeral to-day.

L. GARTY, Edna, 2797 Eighth av., August 12. Funeral to-day.

SHEA, Patrick, 320 East 166th St., August 12. Funeral notice later.

BROOKLYN.

BISHOP, Joanna, 90 Sixth av., August 14. Funeral notice later.

COWEN, Annie, 273 Skillman St., August 12. Funeral to-morrow.

HERWITZ, Lina, 703 Vanderbilt av., August 13. Funeral private.

LAW, George, 1119 Hancock st., August 12. Funeral to-morrow.

M'KENZIE, Thomas, 189 Thirteenth st., August 12. Funeral to-day.

NUGENT, Francis, 97 Reid av., August 12. Funeral to-day.

OAKMAN, Charles, 120 Livingston st., August 12. Funeral private.

VAN SICKLEN, Rebecca, 119 Van Sicken st., August 13. Funeral to-day.

WEISS, Frederick, Middle Village, August 12. Funeral to-day.

CEMETERIES.

THE WOODLAND CEMETERY.
 223d St. by Harlem Train and by Trolleys.
 Lots of small sites 21d St., N. Y.