PEACE LULLABY 'DAMNABLE' SONG

"I Didn't Raise My Boy To Be a Soldier" Arouses S. V. Commander.

DENOUNCES NATION'S DEFENCELESS STATE

C. F. Sherman Urges Washington Encampment to Work for Preparedness.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]

Washington, Sept. 28.—Vigorously pleading for military preparedness, Commander in Chief Charles F. Sherman opened the thirty-fourth annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans here to-day with a scathing attack upon the peace-at-any-price people. He designated them as "soothsayers" who are "singing their siren song of peace while the ship of state draws nearer and nearer the breakers." Mr. Sherman declared that the lullaby "I Didn't Raise My Boy To Be a Soldier" is "damnable," and is just as reasonable as "I Didn't Raise My Girl To Be a Mother." He was loudly applauded.

After outlining the needs of the country the commander in chief called upon every camp of Sons of Veterans in the United States to pass resolutions for national defence, and asked the commandery before it adjourned to make known its attitude on this question. In the course of his address Mr. Sherman said:

"No man's patriotism rises higher than his realization of the need that his country has for him.

"And what shall be said of the preparedness of our country? Fifty years ago we lost much time and many valuable lives because the North did not believe war was imminent. But our defenceless condition did not deter the enemy and we paid dearly four our sins of omission. The price we paid would not have been too dear, however, if we had learned the lesson. But we did not, and to-day we give but a sorry exhibition of what a nation's preparation should be.

Needs Have Grown.

"The fathers of our country, feeling that a large standing army was a menace, ordained that our army in time of peace should not exceed 25,000. But think of what the United States consisted of at that time. In area 882,185 square miles and a population of less than 4,000,000. To-day we have an area of 3,743,200 square miles, with insular possessions almost equal to the original territory, and the population is somewhat in excess of one hundred millions.

"With such enormous increase in territory and people our standing army has been slightly increased from time to time, until we now have a regular army, staff and line of only 93,106. Within continental United States we have 48,428 regulars. Of these 17,948 must be kept in fortifications. Therefore our mobile troops, including engineers, cavalry, infantry and field artillery, consist of 30,481 men. The militia, with paper strength of 127,000, has but 60,000 in readiness for service. Regulars of 48,000 and militia of 60,000 gives us an army of 108,000, but on account of manning the forts we could make an army of but 90,000. General Leonard Wood recently said that it would take at least thirty days to mobilize our puny army of 80,000, to say nothing of the militia, and then we would have no reserve.

"To be reasonably well prepared for defence, we should have an available army of half a million men, which would be but one-tenth the size of Germany's and one-twentieth the size of Russia's and one-half the size of Japan's.

"It is not only men that are lacking; we have neither guns nor ammunition sufficient to assure success for our army, if our nation were threatened with war. If guns are not supplied on the battlefield with the ammunition which they can be reasonably expected to use, they are not sufficient, and when a gun has exhausted the ammunition supplied it becomes as useless as junk; in fact, it is worse than junk, for it must be protected by other troops.

Army of 500,000 Necessary.

"The War Department believes, after extended study, that in case of war with a first class power an army of 500,000 men will be needed to give this country any chance of success against invasion, and that this force will be needed at once. To make it efficient it must be given its proper quota of field artillery. To do this, this artillery must be on hand, for it cannot be supplied after war is started.

"A municipality might as well talk about buying its fire hose after the conflagration has started. A fire department without its proper equipment is worthless, irrespective of the number of men it has, and so would be your armies unless you provide in peace the material which will make them effective in war.

"A city without police protection would be a Mecca for all evildoers and deserve the opprobrium which would be heaped upon it for its mistaken policy; and in a larger sense our nation needs equally to be protected or it may suffer as never before.

"At the present time the soothsayers are singing their siren songs of peace, while the ship of state draws nearer and nearer to the breakers upon which we are in danger of foundering unless our policy of unreadiness is corrected. And the pacifist, or 'peace-at-any-price' people, are humming the lullaby 'I Didn't Raise My Boy To Be a Soldier.' Damnable! There would be just as much justification for a song entitled 'I Didn't Raise My Girl To Be a Mother.'

Public All Powerful.

"Before the President can get funds for national defence he must have the support of Congress. Before he can count on the support of Congress he must have the active, virile sentiment of the American people.

"What can we as Sons of Veterans do to remedy this deplorable condition?

"First—Give to our President in this crisis the benefit of our moral support and withhold all criticism unless fully justified.

"Second—Lend our active support to the organized militia wherever possible.

"Third—Make it clear to our representatives in Congress that they must immediately take steps to correct our weakness by providing for an adequate army and navy and both sufficiently supplied with equipment and munitions to be effective.

"Fourth—Develop our Sons of Veterans reserve and make it a greater factor in our defensive policy than ever before."

LAST HONORS PAID DEAD FROM THE F-4

G. A. R. Ranks Salute Caissons Passing to Arlington.

Washington, Sept. 28.—Full military honors to-day were accorded fourteen unidentified victims who lost their lives when the United States submarine F-4 mysteriously sank at the entrance to Honolulu harbor some months ago. They were buried in the Arlington National Cemetery.

As the flag-draped caissons were drawn along Pennsylvania Avenue from the Washington Navy Yard to Arlington thousands of Civil War veterans and others attending the Grand Army of the Republic encampment lined the street and uncovered their heads.

There were twenty-one men aboard the submarine. Four bodies were identified and buried elsewhere. The names of the seventeen unidentified, including three whose bodies never were recovered, are given by the Navy Department as follows: Officers, Lieutenant Alfred A. Ede, of Reno, Nev., who commanded the F-4, and Ensign Timothy A. Parker, of Kentucky.

Enlisted men: Clark G. Buck, Tacoma, Wash.; Ernest C. Cauvin, New Orleans; Harley Colwell, Seattle; Walter F. F. Covington, Fort Worth, Tex.; George L. Deeth, Portland, Ore.; Allston Grindle, San Francisco; Edwin S. Hill, Etowah, Tenn.; Francis M. Hughson, Los Angeles; Albert F. Jennie, Festus, Mo.; Archie H. Lunger, Erie, Penn.; Horace L. Moore, Germantown, Penn.; W. S. Nelson, New York; Frank G. Pierard, Laverne, Cal.; Henry A. Withers, San Diego, Cal., and Frederick Gillman, St. Louis.

Secretary Daniels, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt and a large delegation of naval officers, including the members of the advisory council, attended the services. Mrs. Ede, widow of Lieutenant Ede, and relatives of several others of the F-4 victims also were present.

LIQUOR MAN SCORES CABARET

Calls it Parasite and Blot on All Clean Saloons.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 28.—The cabaret was condemned as the parasite of the Liquor Dealers' Protective Association of Illinois here to-day by Neil Bonner, of Philadelphia, president of the Liquor Dealers' Association of America.

"Artificial stimulation of the trade should be discouraged," said Mr. Bonner. "We can have clean saloons only by forcing the elimination of all dealers who do not abide by the regulations of the community in which they are licensed."

UNION MEN GRIN AS TRIAL HALTS

Jury Excused Pending Decision on Dismissing Murder Charges.

Seven union cloak makers charged with murder left the court room grinning yesterday afternoon when, at the conclusion of the people's case, the jury was excused until to-morrow to permit the court to hear arguments on a motion to dismiss the indictment.

Ordinarily such motions are made more as a matter of form and promptly denied.

They had been told by their lawyers that the chances were good that four of them would be freed without putting in any defence, and that for the others the outlook was almost as bright.

Former Judge William M. K. Olcott, one of the seven lawyers handling the case for the union leaders, in making the motion said there was no evidence to show that Solomon Metz, Isidor Auspitz, Julius Woolf and Abraham Weidinger had any actual participation in the assault on Morris Liebowitz, the deceased, and that the evidence was so conflicting that it warranted dismissing the men.

"The people have failed to establish any conspiracy by the defendants," counsel continued, "and mere presence at the scene of the crime, in the absence of any proof of a conspiracy, would be insufficient to convict them."

The judge replied that "if there were proof of a conspiracy then there would be reason to hold all of the defendants. To my mind there doesn't seem to be sufficient proof of conspiracy. The witnesses for the people agree about striking the blow, though they disagree on things not so material. May not the jury conclude their testimony is all the more truthful because they do differ on some points and do not too exactly agree? I will reserve decision on the motion. My opinion now is that the motion should be denied as to the three and granted as to the four."

HE DID NOT SAY MUCH

But Magistrate Nolan, After Hearing Lawyer, Said "Sixty Days."

Eugene Pinchbach, aged fifty, a lawyer, of 137 West 133d Street, was arraigned in the night court last night for using abusive language toward John N. Royal, a negro candidate for alderman in the Twenty-first District.

"All that I said against Royal was that he was a pusillanimous, scurrilous, vituperous, poisonous viper," protested Pinchbach.

"Sixty days in the workhouse," said Magistrate Nolan.

14-CAT FAMILY DISPOSSESSED

Bronx Widow Obeys Court Order and Moves Out with Purring Retinue.

BLAMES TROUBLES TO JEALOUS JANITOR

Eleven Kittens Sent to Country, While Parents Go with Mistress to New Home.

"The more you see of men the better you like cats," said Mrs. Adelaide Augusta Davis, the woman with fourteen cats, yesterday, just before packing up her earthly goods to move from her apartment at 1071 Franklin Avenue, The Bronx. A dispossess notice gave her until 5 o'clock to remove her belongings, and at that hour all but three of her pets were off for the country. She was given overnight to take the rest of her things away.

"I've been pettin' and lovin' the little bein's for eight years," said Mrs. Davis in her Southern accent, as she sat on a newly packed trunk and petted Kitten and Jackie, two flourishing members of the family founded by Nin, the proud grandmother of eleven kittens. "No, I never did have forty cats. The family's now as big as it ever was. I'm thinkin' I'll have to give the kittens away to friends who will take care of them."

Two weeks ago a dispossess notice was given Mrs. Davis, because, as she says, the janitor was jealous because she spent all her time and money on the cat instead of the janitor's children. Mrs. Davis lost two baby boys before her husband died. When the first notice was annulled by the courts, the second one was given her, so she decided to move to the West Side.

"I've been very grateful to the little bein's," she said. "I like to think of them as bein's rather than animals. They are almost like children to me. One of the fifty letters that I have received since it was published that I would move was from a man who said that if I could take care of forty cats he wanted me to come and take care of him and his children!

"A theatrical manager gave me an offer, but I wouldn't do that. Besides, my cats don't know any tricks. Cats are just as smart as dogs, but harder to teach tricks. A cat is cleaner and has much more pride than a dog, but a cat is as selfish as a woman. Cats have lots of qualities like women. Now there's the janitor—he has all the bad qualities of a cat but none of the redeeming features."

In her new apartment on the West Side Mrs. Davis is planning to keep only the three old cats. The kittens have already been sent away somewhere in the country.

CUPID'S ELECTROCUTION OCT. 6

High Voltage Home To Be Chief Exhibit at Palace Exposition.

Le the recent discoverer of the "dearest girl in the world" pause, before he announces the fact to her, long enough to attend the Electrical Exposition coming to the Grand Central Palace on October 6, and inspect the wireless home displayed there as an encouragement to tottering bachelors.

The hand that rocks the cradle may still rule the world, but judging by the model apartment to be displayed at the exposition the force made famous by Franklin and Edison is running it a close second. Packed away in a living room and a bath and dressing room are electrical devices for furnishing all of the comforts of home, plus a few not usually found there.

There are washing machines, dish washers, electric irons, garbage incinerators and stoves, an ice cream freezer, a piano, sewing machines and fans, all operated by electricity, as well as a dictagraph, an electric bath cabinet and a massage couch.

Most of these devices perform their work automatically. While the adherent of single bliss is being electrically massaged he may, by the process of touching a few buttons, press his trousers, boil his coffee, wash his clothes, play his piano and dictate letters, and at the same time heat his shaving water, chill his morning grapefruit and cook his breakfast.

Look out, Cupid. The electric chair will get you yet.

OUIMET BEATEN IN GOLF TOURNEY

Former Champion Hits Bad Streak in Short Game at Greenwich.

Carter, Lewis, Marston and Mudge to Clash in the Semi-Final Round.

Francis Ouimet, former holder of the national open and amateur golf titles, was beaten yesterday, and this overshadowed many other interesting happenings in the course of the first and second rounds of the invitation tournament at the Greenwich Country Club. Ouimet was eliminated in the afternoon by Dudley H. Mudge, of Yale, the Minnesota golfer who won the medal in the national amateur championship. The margin was 4 up and 3 to play.

Those who reached the semi-final round were Philip V. G. Carter, of Nassau; Reginald M. Lewis, of Ridgefield; Maxwell R. Marston, of Baltusrol, and Mudge, who will meet as named to-day.

"These college players surely have something on me here," laughed Ouimet after the match. "Last year Grant Peacock, of Princeton, put me out, and now Mudge gives me the same dose."

Approaching and putting of an indifferent order were the cause of Ouimet being bowled over so easily. There can be little question that the former amateur champion has been experimenting somewhat, but, whatever it was, he certainly did not compare with his opponent on the greens. Usually Ouimet had an advantage of some twenty yards off the tee, but on the short holes Mudge was his master.

On the second, for instance, Ouimet's iron shot was wide of the mark and he needed 4 for the hole. Mudge had little difficulty in getting his 3. On the ninth Ouimet's midiron tee shot was pulled into the eighth fairway and he overplayed the cup by about ten feet, leaving himself a curling putt in the bargain, whereas Mudge, from behind the chocolate drop mounds to the right, pitched up dead to the pin.

This was the third hole in succession that Ouimet lost, the eighth going to the Mudge side of the ledger because the Boston man laid himself a stymie after being wide on his approach putt. Thus Mudge was 3 up at the turn, going out in 40 to Ouimet's 43.

Although there was a material improvement after the tenth, Ouimet could not overcome the lead of the other, for Mudge also did some improving on his own account. The match came to an end on the fifteenth green, when Mudge laid his full wooden tee shot to within eight feet of the flag and ran down the putt for a 2.

The cards follow:

Mudge, out	5	4	5	5	5	3	4	4	3	40
Ouimet, out	4	5	6	5	5	6	5	5	4	43
Mudge, in	3	4	4	4	5	3
Ouimet, in	4	4	4	4	6	3

There were two samples of "blow hot and blow cold" golf—one by Lewis against Gardiner W. White, of Flushing, and the other by Henry J. Topping, of the home club, playing in the second division.

Lewis eliminated White only after the contest had been carried to the home green. The Flushing man won four out of the first seven holes, after which Lewis came to life and won the next two. This left White 2 up at the turn, going out in 38, to the other's 40.

Lewis was undeniable after that. Starting with a 3, the Ridgefield lad reeled off seven successive 4s, even on the 600-yard fourteenth, where he holed a mashie shot from fifty yards. He won the seventeenth and eighteenth holes and the match, going round in 74, to White's 76.

Many of Lewis's friends believe he is showing signs of returning to that form which led to the prediction last year that he would quickly find a place among the best amateur golfers in the land. So far this season "Reggie" has been decidedly off his game.

Topping went out in 41 against Morton L. Fearey, of Oakland, but came home flying in 34, two less than par and winning by 4 up and 3 to play.

One surprise was the manner in which John M. Ward, of baseball fame, defeated the intercollegiate champion, Francis R. Blossom. Ward's margin was no less than 7 and 5. Later, Ward faced Max Marston, and carried the match to the seventeenth green ere he gave way. The Garden City man has been troubled off and on with what might be called "golfing charley horse" for the last two years, but there was no evidence of it yesterday. Marston travelled at a 76 pace, while Ward was only a stroke or two worse.

The Greenwich Country Club had the players as guests at dinner last night in the clubhouse. There were about sixty in attendance.

Ouimet will leave to-day for the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, to get ready for the Lesley Cup matches on Friday and Saturday.

The summary follows:

First sixteen (first round)—John T. L. Hubbard, Brookhaven, beat F. S. Haines, Yale, 3 up and 2 to play; Philip V. G. Carter, Nassau, beat Gaines Gwathmey, Apawamis, 2 up and 2 to play; W. MRS. AUCHINCLOSS WINS A GOLF CUP

Beats Mrs. Howard Whitney in Tourney at Piping Rock.

Keeping up the good work started when she captured the medal in the qualifying round, Mrs. C. C. Auchincloss won the chief trophy in the Piping Rock golf tournament yesterday by defeating Mrs. Howard F. Whitney, of Nassau, 4 up and 3 to play in the decisive match.

The winner as well as nearly all the other contestants in this tournament were members of the home club, although in the second eight Mrs. C. F. Ziegler, who took part in a rather unusual match, represented the Great Neck Golf Club.

Mrs. Ziegler and Mrs. W. D. Straight, of Piping Rock, were so evenly matched that the end of the round found the pair all square.

Going to the nineteenth Mrs. Straight drove a ball that some thought was out of bounds. The Piping Rock woman, however, played it as in bounds, with the understanding that the question be left for the committee to decide. The hole was halved, as was the next, but Mrs. Straight won the twenty-first.

If a ruling is made against Mrs. Straight at the nineteenth the match goes to her opponent.

In the eighteenth hole medal play handicap Mrs. Philip Boyer of the home club won with a card of 103—6—97.

The summary and scores follow:

First eight, semi-final round—Mrs. C. C. Auchincloss, Piping Rock, beat Mrs. La Montagne, Piping Rock, 4 up and 3 to play; Mrs. Howard F. Whitney, Nassau, beat Mrs. C. H. Goddard, Great Neck, 7 up and 5 to play.

Final round—Mrs. Auchincloss beat Mrs. Whitney, 4 up and 3 to play.

Second eight, semi-final round—Mrs. W. D. Straight, Piping Rock, beat Mrs. J. R. Swan, Piping Rock, 4 up and 3 to play; Mrs. C. F. Ziegler, Great Neck, beat Mrs. Hodges, Great Neck, by default.

Final round—Undecided.

On the site there was up to a few weeks ago a house, which was once owned, it is said, by "Boss" William M. Tweed. Later it was the residence of the late R. T. Wilson. A sixteen story building is being erected on the plot. It will be called the Guaranty Building, after the Guaranty Trust Company, which has a twenty-one year lease of the store, basement and first floor and which will pay a rental of $75,000 a year.

The purchase was made from the 511 Fifth Avenue Corporation, comprising Harris and Maurice Mandelbaum and associates.

He has bought, through Slawson & Hobbs, who accumulated the site which includes the stable of the late Henry H. Rogers, the private house at 62 East 58th st. from Charles T. Terry, of the law firm of Merrill, Rogers & Terry.

The Oesting Building Company, which recently completed seven 5 story apartment buildings on Andrews av., in the West Bronx section, near the grounds of the New York University, have sold in cash deals five of the houses to four investors. The respective sales are 1905 and 1915 Andrews av. to Kete Ley, 1217 and 1921 Andrews av. to William Dauth, and 1925 Andrews av. to May C. Melich.

The sellers acquired the land over a year ago at the auction held by Joseph P. Day of the Hennessey estate, and are now erecting five similar houses in the rear, fronting on Loring Place.
