"HYPHENS" OPPOSE WILSON'S RE-ELECTION

Bay State German-Americans Take No Stand on Governorship.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 24.—A convention, described as representing forty-six organizations of German-Americans in this state, with a membership of 20,000, adopted to-day a resolution "firmly opposing" the re-election of President Wilson.

The meeting was called by John Albrecht, Worcester, German American League, and was presided over by the state chairman of the National German Alliance. The purpose was said to be largely to induce Americans of German descent to take a more active interest in political affairs, and no permanent organization was attempted.

Resolved, That we, American citizens, assembled at Worcester, do not desire, as an endorsement of any candidates for Governor, but we believe in the desirability of unitedly discussing the question of the gubernatorial candidates. We are, however, firmly opposed to such direct action.

GERMANS FAIL AGAIN IN ARTOIS

French Beat Back Eight Attacks in Five Days at Souchez.

BRING DOWN BRITISH DOUBLE-DECK AERO

Aviators Shell Verdun, Ostend and Noyon—Joffre's Guns Level Trenches.

London, Oct. 24.—For the eighth time in five days the French have beaten back a German attack in the Souchez sector, in Artois. The Kaiser's troops are attacking here in an attempt to loosen the enemy's hold on Hill 140.

While artillery fighting has not ceased at many points in the western theatre of war, the only infantry activity is recorded in that part of the front north of Arras, of which Souchez is the centre. Paris tells how German attacks in the Givency wood and on advanced posts near Hill 140 were checked almost before the foe had left his trenches, while Berlin says that French advances northeast of Souchez were driven back.

The French claim to have done considerable damage to the German positions with the heavy fire of their guns. In Champagne, southeast of Tahure, where the Germans hold a salient, Joffre's artillery levelled trenches and works. In Lorraine and between the Meuse and the Moselle artillery success for the French army also asserted.

The aviators apparently have been unusually active. The Germans claim to have brought down a British double-deck machine in an air battle south of St. Quentin. The pilot and observer were killed. German air force also reported that they had shot down a British double-deck machine in an air battle south of St. Quentin. The pilot and observer were killed.

Mr. Calverley said Arabia was a battlefield as well as a mission field, the British having succeeded in reaching Naasira, on the Euphrates River, from Baghdad. Some of the mission buildings have been turned into Red Cross hospitals and there is much direct work being done.

The statement issued by the War Office in Berlin says:

Northeast of Souchez enemy advances were repulsed. Detachments which penetrated our positions were immediately driven back.

Enemy aviators bombed Ostend and the Noyon railroad station, but without result.

An aerial battle south of St. Quentin an English double-decked machine was brought down and the pilot and observer officers were killed.

On the 22d four of our airmen had engagements in the air, and in each case the enemy's machines were either forced to descend or were driven away.

During the last three days there has been considerable artillery activity south of La Bassée Canal, but no infantry action other than grenade fighting in the trenches.

According to to-day's official report from Paris, the French have been engaged with the Bulgarians near Rahrvo, which is about nine miles south of Strumitza.

Had weather has considerably retarded operations by the Austro-Germans, according to information reaching Berlin, although ground has been gained along the entire front.

The Serbs have been unable to withstand the fearful effects of the German and Austrian artillery bombardment.

The official report, as issued to-night in Berlin, is as follows:

East of Lusanna the army of General von Keesse, of Field Marshal von Mackensen's group, drove the Serbians back in a westerly direction.

The Danube has been crossed near Orsova, and Slava Beufia hill won. Three floors and seventy men were taken prisoner.

The French edition of The Delineator (Le Miroir des Modes) at $2 a year, surpasses in circulation any similar publication at a comparable price in France.

This success at the very temple of fashion is a tremendous fact. It means that whereas Paris is the source of fashion, it remains for The Delineator to best express and interpret it.

Picture for yourself the smart Parisienne with the world of fashion before her eyes, hurrying to the Butterick shop for a Delineator. And then consider how much more eager for it are the American women whose first-hand fashion news comes from The Delineator.

In the women's publications the fashion departments are those of chief importance. We are proud of the general recognition that in this most important department, Butterick leads.

Girl Who Dodged Zeppelins Describes Raid on London

When the time came it was not fainting ladies that this had had to do with, but it was first aid to the injured.

As the Zeppelin passed over us and the crash of the bombs sounded more distant the head waiter tried to be more assuring.

I smiled. His "only anti-aircraft gun" was amusing. They did seem pretty harmless, considering the number of raids London has undergone lately.

The first one fell about thirty yards from the hotel. In a wide, wide side of which were lined with buildings. It hit a tram car, and did its havoc there.

There it was, a big, warm piece of shell under a mass of glass near the door. I handed it to Kearney, who put it in his pocket, still smiling.

Man Blown to Bits

"What's the use?" said Kearney. "The censor won't let it pass."

"Will try," said Bruce. "I'll make several samples."

In the meantime Lyman J. Seely, of the Curtis Aeroplane Company, rang up a wire to Bruce in his car, coming down to see who had been killed.

The following two bombs were thrown in close succession, and fell in the open square in front of The Tribune office, crashing upon a bus and a taxicab and causing a deep hole in the street.
