

Judge Hylan Steps On Hearst's Toes, Then Sends Salve

Favors Extension of 86th Street Car Line Editor So Strongly Opposes

Sorry Publisher Is Ill

Mayorally Candidate Wires Backer He Is Fighting for Reform

Hearst Objects to Plan

But it happens that William Randolph Hearst, whose generous support of Hylan was promised in the statement of his withdrawal from the Democratic primary published yesterday, is one of the principal objectors to the extension of the Eighty-sixth Street surface line.

Hylan's Telegram to Hearst

In the meantime Mr. Hearst will have as a salve for his irritation the following telegram sent him yesterday by Mr. Hylan, in answer to the following Hearst statement of withdrawal in Hylan's favor:

5-Year-Old Gives Life For Baby Brother

Shows Child to Safety From Wheels of Motor Truck That Crush Him

Professors Get Bonus

Married Men in Chicago University Faculty Raised

Plans for Last Suffragist State Vote Campaign Laid at Saratoga

Intense Desire of Million Women to Win Expressed at Convention—"We Can't Lose," They Say. "but, Confidentially, What Do You Think?"

By Sarah Addison

A thin, little old woman sitting on her stool on the railroad line from Albany to Saratoga strained her eyes through the rain to catch the first glimpse of the suffrage special speeding through to Saratoga and the New York State convention last Wednesday. Her "Rooms to Let" sign rocked with the wind and the brave yellow banner dropped heavy with rain, but the frail figure in the patched apron sat erect and waiting.

Then far down the line a plume of steam rose through the mist, a distant jumping to her feet, the white-haired woman seized the banner and called, "Hey! Hey!" in her vibrant old voice as the suffragists waved and cheered her from the window of their train.

Other women in the cars looked at each other with brimming eyes. "We don't dare lose with pathetic old things like that depending on us," they told each other.

Must Win for Girls, Too

The train pulled in at the convention city, and a shabby, big-eyed young girl rose quickly from her seat to join the stream of suffragists.

Will of a Million to Win

Foreclosure Delays Irritate Dealers

Loss of Interest and Rent Is a Hardship on Both Parties

Foreclosure Delays Irritate Dealers

Director Polacco Quits the Opera

Parker Attacks War Risk Bill

James McCrosson

Sherrill Takes Office

Sherrill Takes Office

New Building Rules For Fireproof Work

Board of Standards Announces Requirements for Materials to Retard Flames

New rules for fire-retarding construction are to be adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals. The board has decided that any material or form of construction shall be deemed fire-retarding that resists the action of flame and heat when subjected to a continuous fire for one hour at an average temperature of 1,700 degrees Fahrenheit without the passage of flame and with a maximum temperature rise to 400 degrees Fahrenheit on the side away from the fire.

Wood jointed floor construction is to be accepted as fire-retarding construction in non-fireproof buildings used for garages, motor vehicles, repair shops or oil-stilling stations when the beams are protected on the upper and under sides with the fire-retarding materials specified in the rules for floor and ceiling coverings.

Socialists to Open Workers' University In 'People's House'

Old Y. W. C. A. Building To Be Headquarters for Radical Organizations

The old Y. W. C. A. Building at 7 East Fifteenth Street, which has been bought by the New York Socialists, will be called the People's House, it was announced yesterday.

Saratoga Likes Suffragists

Contracts for the changes will be let at once. The structure has five stories, a mezzanine floor, a gymnasium and an artists' studio.

Teach All Radical Doctrines

Fraternal Societies Urged to Aid Loan

Every Organized Body, Foreign or Native, Will Be Brought Into Line

Director Polacco Quits the Opera

Parker Attacks War Risk Bill

James McCrosson

Sherrill Takes Office

Sherrill Takes Office

"Slay Utterly!" Text That Led to Murder of Eight

Clergyman Repudiates Confession Explaining the Slaughter of Family

Trial Set for Tuesday

Rev. Lynn Kelly Faces Charge of Killing Man, Woman and Six Children

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Sept. 1.—"Slay Utterly" was the text which the Rev. Lynn G. J. Kelly followed, when he killed with an axe Joe Moore, Mrs. Moore and their four children and the two little Stillinger girls, as they lay in bed in Villisca, June 9, 1912, according to the confession he is alleged to have made.

Obeyed Voice in Night

Blood Sacrifices Demanded

Realty Men Urge Cut in State Tax

Content City's Share in Direct Assessment Is Too Large

Realty Men Urge Cut in State Tax

Content City's Share in Direct Assessment Is Too Large

Realty Men Urge Cut in State Tax

Content City's Share in Direct Assessment Is Too Large

Realty Men Urge Cut in State Tax

Content City's Share in Direct Assessment Is Too Large

Realty Men Urge Cut in State Tax

Content City's Share in Direct Assessment Is Too Large

Realty Men Urge Cut in State Tax

Naval Reservist Sues For $5,200 Annuity

Says Last Company Guaranteed Him Income When He Enlisted as Seaman

John S. Woodruff, a manufacturer and treasurer of the New York Last Company, who enlisted as a seaman in the Naval Reserve, brought suit in the Federal Court yesterday to prevent an alleged attempt on the part of his company to oust him as an officer.

Woodruff has been serving with the navy since May of this year. In his suit he says that he owns $30,000 worth of stock in the company, which is capitalized at $100,000, and that he holds a contract guaranteeing the payment of his annual salary, $5,200, as treasurer so long as he remained in the service of the navy.

He alleges that the stockholders and officers of the company, at a meeting called for September 4, have agreed to displace him as a director and officer of the corporation and cancel the agreement regarding his salary.

He asked that the New York Last Company be enjoined from abrogating its contract with him, and to continue to pay his annuity as long as he is in military service at home or abroad.

Steamers Crash; 500 Saved

The Natal Sinks Five Miles From Marseilles

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Five hundred passengers were rescued from the French steamer Natal, which was sunk in a collision with another steamer five miles from Marseilles Thursday evening.

The Natal, of 4,012 tons, and owned by the Messageries Maritimes, had just left Marseilles when the accident occurred. Tugs and steamers responded quickly to calls for help, and the passengers and crew were brought to Marseilles in the course of the night.

Steamers Crash; 500 Saved

The Natal Sinks Five Miles From Marseilles

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Five hundred passengers were rescued from the French steamer Natal, which was sunk in a collision with another steamer five miles from Marseilles Thursday evening.

The Natal, of 4,012 tons, and owned by the Messageries Maritimes, had just left Marseilles when the accident occurred. Tugs and steamers responded quickly to calls for help, and the passengers and crew were brought to Marseilles in the course of the night.

Steamers Crash; 500 Saved

The Natal Sinks Five Miles From Marseilles

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Five hundred passengers were rescued from the French steamer Natal, which was sunk in a collision with another steamer five miles from Marseilles Thursday evening.

The Natal, of 4,012 tons, and owned by the Messageries Maritimes, had just left Marseilles when the accident occurred. Tugs and steamers responded quickly to calls for help, and the passengers and crew were brought to Marseilles in the course of the night.

Police and Courts Rush Drug Cases

Handled 1,242 Cases of Users and Sellers in the Last Six Months

For six months the police of the city and the magistrates have been conducting a vigorous campaign against drug users and drug sellers. Chief Magistrate McAdoo issued a statement yesterday, prepared by Chief Statistician Charles W. Strong, showing that in the first half of the year 1,242 cases for violations of various sections of the law governing narcotics had come before the magistrates.

By far the greatest number of drug cases was for illegal distribution, no less than 471 being arraigned on that charge. The majority of these cases came from Manhattan. The Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens supplied but twenty-two cases, and Richmond none.

An interesting feature of the statistician's report is the preponderance of men who came into the police hands, either as drug users or sellers. The ratio to women was about six to one.

No less than 103 drug addicts were committed on their own application to Warwick Farms by the chief magistrate's court, in order that they might be cured.

Aside from those who voluntarily placed themselves in the hands of the authorities, there were three specific violations on which the police acted. Drug users, over whom the police have jurisdiction, provided 175 cases for the magistrates. Drug distributors, who were charged with a misdemeanor, totaled 471, and dealers, charged with

Police and Courts Rush Drug Cases

Handled 1,242 Cases of Users and Sellers in the Last Six Months

For six months the police of the city and the magistrates have been conducting a vigorous campaign against drug users and drug sellers. Chief Magistrate McAdoo issued a statement yesterday, prepared by Chief Statistician Charles W. Strong, showing that in the first half of the year 1,242 cases for violations of various sections of the law governing narcotics had come before the magistrates.

By far the greatest number of drug cases was for illegal distribution, no less than 471 being arraigned on that charge. The majority of these cases came from Manhattan. The Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens supplied but twenty-two cases, and Richmond none.

An interesting feature of the statistician's report is the preponderance of men who came into the police hands, either as drug users or sellers. The ratio to women was about six to one.

No less than 103 drug addicts were committed on their own application to Warwick Farms by the chief magistrate's court, in order that they might be cured.

Aside from those who voluntarily placed themselves in the hands of the authorities, there were three specific violations on which the police acted. Drug users, over whom the police have jurisdiction, provided 175 cases for the magistrates. Drug distributors, who were charged with a misdemeanor, totaled 471, and dealers, charged with

Police and Courts Rush Drug Cases

Handled 1,242 Cases of Users and Sellers in the Last Six Months

For six months the police of the city and the magistrates have been conducting a vigorous campaign against drug users and drug sellers. Chief Magistrate McAdoo issued a statement yesterday, prepared by Chief Statistician Charles W. Strong, showing that in the first half of the year 1,242 cases for violations of various sections of the law governing narcotics had come before the magistrates.

By far the greatest number of drug cases was for illegal distribution, no less than 471 being arraigned on that charge. The majority of these cases came from Manhattan. The Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens supplied but twenty-two cases, and Richmond none.

Suspected Murderer Turns Gun on Himself

Murder in Harlem's black belt is declining as a fine art and is becoming simply a matter of routine, the police are beginning to believe.

Chief Magistrate McAdoo has already announced that there will be no cessation in the active campaign against the drug evil. In keeping with that announcement is the record of July and August, which, when finally tallied, will show even greater results than in any two of the first six months of the year.

Murder in Harlem's black belt is declining as a fine art and is becoming simply a matter of routine, the police are beginning to believe. James Johnson, a negro porter, of West 124th Street, who was shot dead last night in front of 57 West 134th Street, was the second murder victim in twenty-four hours.

After the shooting Raymond Campbell, another negro, ran to the roof of 108 West 134th Street, pursued by Patrolman William J. Clark. Taking shelter behind a water tank, the negro sent a bullet zipping past the patrolman's ear which caused him to seek cover.

Another shot sounded, and Campbell toppled from his hiding place, shot through the head by his own hand. He was taken to Harlem Hospital, and probably will lose the sight of his right eye. A charge of homicide, for shooting Johnson, was made against him.

The preceding fatal episode occurred a block to the south on Friday night, when Frank Reynolds, a barber, was stabbed to death in a dispute over a dollar. Sergeant William L. Scott, of the negro National Guard regiment, is under arrest as his assailant.

Lieutenant Oulahan to Wed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The engagement is announced by Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Bacon, of Washington and Garrett Park, Md., of their daughter, Mildred, to First Lieutenant Richard Oulahan, Officers' Reserve Corps, the son of Richard V. Oulahan, Washington correspondent of "The New York Times." Lieutenant Oulahan has been assigned to the 319th Infantry, 8th Central Postal Directory, at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.

Lieutenant Oulahan to Wed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The engagement is announced by Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Bacon, of Washington and Garrett Park, Md., of their daughter, Mildred, to First Lieutenant Richard Oulahan, Officers' Reserve Corps, the son of Richard V. Oulahan, Washington correspondent of "The New York Times." Lieutenant Oulahan has been assigned to the 319th Infantry, 8th Central Postal Directory, at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.

Lieutenant Oulahan to Wed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The engagement is announced by Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Bacon, of Washington and Garrett Park, Md., of their daughter, Mildred, to First Lieutenant Richard Oulahan, Officers' Reserve Corps, the son of Richard V. Oulahan, Washington correspondent of "The New York Times." Lieutenant Oulahan has been assigned to the 319th Infantry, 8th Central Postal Directory, at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.

Lieutenant Oulahan to Wed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The engagement is announced by Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Bacon, of Washington and Garrett Park, Md., of their daughter, Mildred, to First Lieutenant Richard Oulahan, Officers' Reserve Corps, the son of Richard V. Oulahan, Washington correspondent of "The New York Times." Lieutenant Oulahan has been assigned to the 319th Infantry, 8th Central Postal Directory, at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.

Lieutenant Oulahan to Wed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The engagement is announced by Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Bacon, of Washington and Garrett Park, Md., of their daughter, Mildred, to First Lieutenant Richard Oulahan, Officers' Reserve Corps, the son of Richard V. Oulahan, Washington correspondent of "The New York Times." Lieutenant Oulahan has been assigned to the 319th Infantry, 8th Central Postal Directory, at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.

Lieutenant Oulahan to Wed

Lord & Taylor advertisement featuring women's tailored suits, autumn coats, and fashionable footwear. Includes text: 'Founded 1826 Greeley 1900', 'Featuring a Collection of Women's Tailored Suits', 'Autumn Coats Very Special Value', and 'Autumn's New Styles in Women's Fashionable Footwear'.