DAILY THOUGHT.

Let us not be ashamed if our lives seem to perform only sign-post duty. A dead-sure sign-post is a thousand times more useful and helpful than an uncertain guide.—Anon.

OUR SHRINES.

By Major Joseph Bondy.

O. Pilgrim, at this lowly shrine From that far land that once was mine, Here proud we fought, and here we lie, We who are dead, yet did not die.

Here with our Country's Flag unfurled We conquered wrong and saved the world; Here let no tear bedim the eye For in your hearts we will not die.

Take back this message to our kin: "We made no compromise with sin; We held our Country's Standard high, We who, though dead, will never die."

BAY PARTY FOR VISITORS.

About thirty young people enjoyed a delightful bay party given the first of the week in honor of a trio of charming young visiting girls, Misses Sarah McReynolds, of Clarksville, Tenn., who is the guest of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. McReynolds and Margaret Beourgeois and Feleda Belle Etoube, of Baton Rouge, La., who are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lively. Surf bathing was enjoyed in the gulf and a picnic spread was served on the island before the return trip by moonlight.

CHEAPE-TUTWILER WEDDING.

A nuptial event of unusual interest in Greensboro, and in fact to a large circle of friends over the state, was the marriage of Miss Julia Tutwiler and Mr. Dudley Cheape, which occurred at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Paschal Tutwiler, on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, the Rev. H. H. Cobb performing the ceremony according to the Episcopal ritual, says an exchange.

A reception followed the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Cheape departed on the afternoon train for a wedding journey, after which they will reside in Greensboro. Mrs. Cheape comes of aristocratic Virginia and North Carolina ancestry, is a granddaughter of the late Henry Tutwiler, one of the foremost educators of his day, and a niece of the late Miss Julia Tutwiler, whose name in Alabama and West Florida will recall brilliant mentality, education and philanthropy.

Mr. Cheape is a great grandson of the late Sir John Cheape, of England. In the world war he was a member of the Canadian flying corps, and is also a native of Canada.

GALBREATH-CHERRY.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cherry, of 405 North G street, was the scene of a pretty wedding Monday night at 8 o'clock when their daughter, Effie Lee, and Mr. Clarence J. Galbreath were united in marriage. Rev. L. L. Roberts, of the Milton Baptist church, performing the ceremony in the presence of a host of friends. Immediately after the ceremony refreshments were served when best wishes were extended the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Galbreath left for Montgomery, Ala., accompanied by Mrs. J. H. Cherry, whose home is there. Mrs. Cherry came to Pensacola to attend the wedding. When they return to Pensacola, Mr. and Mrs. Galbreath will make their home on North G street.
