DAILY THOUGHT.

Reason is the principle by which our belief and opinion ought to be regulated.—Mayne Reid.

WHAT THE BANJO SAID.

Some folks, I tell you, Miss their time and chance— They can't pick a banjo An' they dunno how to dance.

Swing yer partners! Life'll not be long; Time's up fer leavin' 'Fore you're half through the song.

Some folks, I tell you, Miss the happy road; Dunno how to travel An' they can't tote the load.

Line the procession— Git the grit an' grace! Time's up fer runnin' 'Fore you're half through the race. —Frank L. Stanton.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

July 4th, 1776—July 4th, 1919. One hundred and forty-three years ago, our progress has been meteoric. Walking through Independence Hall, in Philadelphia, looking with reverent eyes upon those relics of the past, who bear the heart thrills with love of country and pride in that country. The splendid spirit of self renunciation, of a vision which viewed humanity from the mountains heights of absolute freedom, freedom to think, to speak, to live as an enlightened, civilized, cultured people, has never been subdued in the soul of the American citizen.

The descendants of the Pilgrims cannot forget, nor would they dare forget, the fierce fires of tribulation through which their forefathers passed. From the fires of fierce tribulation.

Rise the fairest ideals of life. The freedom and life of a nation is born amid anguish and strife.

Success has not spoiled the people of the United States. Though wealth and fame and national glory is theirs, yet amid the storm and stress of the past two years, we have seen the spirit of the people in the quick response which has been made to meet every need.

To bear unaccustomed hardship with brave cheerfulness, to be ready to uphold the ideals for which we stand, even to making the supreme sacrifice. THIS is what the fine young manhood and womanhood of our country have done and stood ready to do. What of such blood?

What of such people? Would you dare to say that the banner which floats above them can ever be conquered, can ever know defeat?

Success is not measured by dollars and cents, not by any material wealth, and though our people are blest with these possessions, let us so ever teach our children that no future time will see the white pages of our history marred by the spirit of injustice, aggression or greed.

The world is looking toward us and our standards must be planted upon the supreme heights of mental and spiritual achievement. Every signature to the Declaration of American Independence would have been the death warrant of the signer had the cause of freedom been lost. DARE we betray so high and holy a trust?

Today, citizens of the United States, we commemorate that brave act. Hats off, and cheer!—Florida Pine.

ENTERTAINS FOR STATE REGENT FLORIDA DAUGHTERS AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

"Honoring Mrs. W. C. McLean, of Orlando, the newly elected state regent of Florida Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Arthur B. Gilkes, past state regent, entertained most informally at tea Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in her lovely home, 1575 Riverside avenue, sa-s an exchange.

Fragrant garden flowers were used in profusion throughout the house.

Mrs. McLean, who recently assumed the duties of her office, is a woman of unusual charm possessing executive ability and force, which combine to make her a most efficient officer. In her capacity as vice-chairman of the Orange county chapter, American Red Cross, she demonstrated her ability to handle difficult situations tactfully, she showed foresight in mapping out the work, and met every emergency successfully.

Members of the Jacksonville and Katherine Livingston chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, enjoyed the opportunity of meeting Mrs. McLean informally, and learning something of the work which is before the D. A. R. for the ensuing year. Americanization is to be the keynote of all work, and the D. A. R. will especially bend their efforts in furthering the work of Americanization in Florida.

During the afternoon dainty refreshments were served. Mrs. Gilkes was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. F. E. B. Taylor, honorary state regent of Florida, and was assisted in serving by her daughter, Miss Lillian Gilkes.

Yesterday morning Mrs. McLean had a conference with Mrs. Gilkes regarding the state work.

With the new governing board of increased personnel recently elected by the Pensacola Country Club and the drive under way for a doubled membership, new life has been infused into the club and it promises to be the most attractive center for social activities and recreation in the city, increasing even more its present popularity.

Elaborate plans have been formulated for general improvements and the constitution has been amended to promote the general welfare of the club and will be strictly adhered to. Plans made by the new board provide for extensive improvements in the club building, on the links and tennis courts, which, when completed will make the club one of the most complete and finest of its kind to be found anywhere in the state of Florida.

Various committees have been appointed as a part of the new program to be carried out by the club. Those serving on the auditing committee are George P. Wentworth, J. F. Taylor, T. W. Saltmarsh. On the new house committee are: John A. Merritt, J. S. Reese, V. B. McMillan, Mrs. J. S. McGaughey, Miss Janie Knowles. Golf committee: Ellis Knowles, J. C. Dunham, Judge Henry Bellinger. Regular meetings will be held by the board on the first Tuesday of every month at the chamber of commerce rooms at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when business will be transacted and matters of importance discussed.

The Pensacola Country Club possesses unusually fine natural advantages, situated on a desirable spot on the Bayshore and commanding a superb view of the bay and gulf. From the wide, surrounding galleries the maneuvers of air craft from the naval air station may be observed. The clubhouse is flanked by a lovely woodland and has extensive and as good grounds as could be found anywhere. The golf links are in splendid condition and are a delight to the heart of any enthusiast. The golf course, situated on the links near the highway, is a most attractive building and well cared for. For the most formal ball, impromptu dances by the college set or an informal tea for one's visiting friend the club rooms lend themselves most admirably and just the right atmosphere is always found there. Cool breezes from the gulf makes the club a delightfully charming place on the most sultry day in August, breezes which equally temper the chill of winter days, a fact which has been the cause of frequent comment from visitors spending the winter in the city.

CHAPMAN-MALONE APPROACHING MARRIAGE OF INTEREST HERE.

Pensacola friends are cordially interested in the approaching marriage of Miss Florrie Malone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Malone, of Dothan, Ala., and niece of Messrs. E. R. and J. W. Malone, of this city, to Doctor Chas. H. Chapman, of Dothan, which takes place in that city on the 16th of this month. Miss Malone has visited in Pensacola with relatives and her charming, gracious manner made her a general favorite in society. Many ante-nuptial courtesies have been given in her honor and of one given her by Mrs. M. K. Ford, of Dothan.

"One of the prettiest of the many courtesies given Miss Florrie Malone was the bridge party at which Mrs. M. K. Ford entertained Tuesday morning at her home on North Bell street.

The home was attractively decorated in quantities of yellow and white daisies, the punch bowl placed on the porch was embedded in yellow daisies, and punch and sandwiches were served by Misses Hattie Marshal Ford and Freddie Pilcher.

After several interesting games of bridge delicious refreshments were served. Miss Malone was most becomingly gowned in blue taffeta, combined with blue georgette crepe. She was presented with a corsage of roses.

The prize, powder, was won by Mrs. E. S. Ford.

THIS PENSACOLA TRAINED NURSE PRAISES DRECO

Declares Her Sixty-Two Year Old Grand-Mother Has Been Greatly Helped by the New Remedy, Dreco, which is Causing so Much Talk.

ACUTE LIVER TROUBLE

Pains in Her Back, Aching Limbs, Nervousness, Headaches and Stomach Trouble at Last Overcome.

"My grandmother, who is 62 years old, has suffered severely for the past five years, and we had been unable to find the right thing to relieve her," are the words of Miss Jennie Johnson, of 2021 North Ninth avenue, Pensacola, Fla. Miss Johnson is a well-known and highly esteemed trained nurse of long experience. "She had stomach trouble, pains in her back and limbs, and her joints were extremely painful; she was so nervous that she did not get much sleep, and frequently had bad headaches. She had an acute attack of inflammation of the liver, and went to New Orleans for treatment by a specialist, but did not seem to get more than temporary relief. She tried everything she heard of that might give her relief, but without much success.

"Since taking two bottles of Dreco, it is surprising how she has improved; she sleeps well; the constipation is relieved; the pains in her back, limbs and joints are most all gone. It is wonderful how she is improving on the treatment.

"Dreco surely must be Nature's own remedy, for it is the first thing in five years of trying that has given such relief, and we are going to have her take several more bottles, to make her strong and well again."

For elderly persons Dreco has proven its powers to restore the strength, increase the appetite, induce sound sleep, overcome constipation, reduce the liver, give strength to weak kidneys and relieve rheumatism and painful joints and muscles.

Mr. Stout, the well known Dreco expert, has headquarters at the Balk-com Drug Co., to meet the local public and explain the merits of this great remedy. See him today.—Adv.
