OUR NAVY.

Hail to the ships! Our guardians of the sea, The voice of whose guns across the deep, Like mighty breakers from a storm of sound Awake the giant echoes from their sleep.

Swift messengers across the billowy plain, They dash the white spray from each gleaming prow; Plumed warriors with hearts of steel, Whose faith Is pledged to their land with patriot vow.

Controlled and held upon their course by men Unto whose hearts fear is an unknown guest, Loyal and true, who hold as privilege To ever meet their country's least behest.

Columbia! Oh, thou hast naught to fear When these are thy protectors on the sea; Thy sons who hold it as a sacred trust To be the guardians of thy liberty.

Fair ships! Brave men! We thrill with conscious pride, To know our country claims thee as her own; Thy history be traced in words of light, Where Valor's deed to Glory shall be known.

Welcome! And Ah; that saddest word farewell! Tomorrow's sun may see thee far away; Let patriot hearts repeat the patriot prayer, Victory and honor guard their glorious way!

MISS GREENHUT MAKES HER FORMAL BOW TO SOCIETY.

Leaving her school, girlhood days behind her and taking a peep into the broader, more venturesome one of young womanhood Miss Beulah Greenhut made her formal bow to society Sunday evening. A profusion of cut flowers and greenery with Florida palms converted the lower part of the home into a lovely setting for the brilliant gaiety of the evening. Miss Greenhut was charming in a girlishly fashioned gown of georgette with corsage of roses and buds. The affair was also in the form of a reception, celebrating the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Greenhut. As the guests entered the reception hall they were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Forcheimer, and Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Lischkoff. In the music room they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Greenhut, Miss Greenhut and Mr. G. Forcheimer. In the dining room ice and fruit punch were served by Misses Ruth Dannheisser, Sylvia Kahn, and Bertha Lischkoff.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MISS SELLERS.

Complimentary to Miss Lucille Esther Sellers whose marriage to Gordon H. Keller takes place tomorrow night Misses Elmire and Gladys Bell delightfully entertained about fifty friends with a miscellaneous shower at their home on Gadsden street yesterday afternoon.

The color motif chosen, pink and green, and prettily carried out in the effective decorations of the apartments which were opened en suite for the occasion and in the refreshments served.

A charmingly novel idea was introduced in the presentation of the gifts. A large cake, elaborately decorated, centered the beautifully appointed table in the dining room where a dainty ice course was served. Miss Sellers cut the cake which proved to be filled with a number of gifts and contained a verse which told where another gift would be found and so on until the last, the gifts being distributed in various parts of the apartments.

The marriage of Miss Sellers to Mr. Keller will be celebrated at the First Methodist church tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock. After a short honeymoon Mr. Keller takes his bride to San Francisco to make their home. Miss Sellers is a most attractive girl and popular in a wide circle of friends who regret that she goes so far to make her home and hope as a part compensation to have the pleasure of having her as a frequent visitor to her girlhood home.

Sketched above are two winter street costumes, designed to fit every occasion for daytime street apparel. If a fur coat is the acme of comfort and mode, the one sketched in seal will be a constant source of satisfaction. Short enough not to be a drag upon the shoulders, it is clasped closely round the throat in a collar of the same fur. Wide, cape cuffs reach to the three-quarter length, and a seal belt of medium width marks the waist line in the front, passing under the capelike back. Monkey fur tips mark the joining of the back panel with the front.

Beside the fur coat is outlined a suit in Russian blouse style, made up of chifon velvet in one of the new shades of red. High, close-fitting collar, cuffs, edge of jacket, and tips of long, cash belt, are trimmed with gray squirrel. The back of the coat forms a loose panel, from which the belt emerges under each arm, to loop at the front.

FRASIER-SMITH.

The approaching marriage of Miss Evelyn Byrd Smith daughter of Mrs. O. E. Smith, of Selma, to Harmon Hunt Frasier, of Millbrook, Ala., is of cordial interest to many friends in Pensacola and West Florida.

Of the engagement and approaching marriage the Montgomery Advertiser says:

"Mrs. Oscar E. Smith of Selma, Ala., announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Evelyn Byrd, to Harmon Hunt Frasier, of Millbrook, Ala., the wedding to be solemnized on Thanksgiving Day.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Evelyn Byrd Smith to Harmon Hunt Frasier will be of interest throughout the South, as this marriage will unite two of Alabama's most popular families. Miss Smith is the niece of the late Col. Hilary A. Herbert and the youngest sister of the well known writer, Helen Woodruff, the author of "The Lady of the Light-House," "Mr. Doctor Man," "Miss Beauty," "The Imprisoned Free Man," etc. Mrs. Woodruff has been acclaimed by New York artists as one of the most beautiful women in America, and Miss Evelyn Byrd is considered just as beautiful by those who know her.

Alabama has been expecting Evelyn Byrd to follow in the literary footsteps of her famous sister, as she evinced quite a bit of talent at writing when a student at the Judson College. It was prophesied by the English teacher of the institution that Evelyn Byrd would make her mark in the literary world. Since Mrs. Woodruff never wrote for publication until after her marriage to Louis B. Woodruff, of New York, the friends of this mid-winter-bridal will expect her to make her literary debut soon. It is a unique fact that Harmon Hunt Frasier, whose wife, Scottie McKeanie Frasier sold her first story one year after her marriage.

When America entered the war Mr. Harmon Hunt Frasier was one of the first of Alabama's sons to offer his services to his country. Twice he was rejected for service but this young American so thoroughly convinced Uncle Sam that he was determined to fight; if fighting had to be done that in spite of the "Flat-foot" and a slightly defected vision he was allowed to enter Fort Oglethorpe, where he was commissioned First Lieutenant in the Second Reserve Officer's training camp and promoted to the rank of Captain at the port of embarkation and remained in France twelve months; he served in the front line trenches just before the Armislice was signed.

On his return from France Mr. Frasier resumed his position at the Marion Institute. He is one of the most popular young men in the state and has before him a brilliant future. This marriage will be the culmination of a charming romance that began when Miss Evelyn Byrd Smith was a Judson girl and "slipped notes" to the young professor at the Marion Institute.
