

Travelers Turn To South America

THE Ebro—FIRST PASSENGER SHIP TO MAKE SOUTH AMERICAN TOUR SINCE THE WAR.

(By CUSHING STETSON.)

A BUSINESS involving an annual outlay of over a billion dollars, which was suspended during the four years of the war, will start again on January 7 when the pleasure cruiser Ebro leaves New York for South America.

Long before the war Americans had gained the reputation of being the world's greatest travelers. It is not surprising that their pent-up energies, confined during the past five years to their own country, should turn now to other fields. A striking feature of the situation compared with the pre-war period is, however, the tremendously increased interest in the West Indies and South America. Just as these southern neighbors, during the past few years, have flocked in ever-increasing numbers to the United States, whether on business or on pleasure bent, so now the average American feeling the urge to travel turns his eyes toward Buenos Ayres, whose hotels, he hears, are rivalled only by those of New York and whose race-course rivals that of Paris.

While tourist travel itself has been at a standstill during the years of war the efforts of designers and builders to provide ever-increasing comforts to meet the fastidious tastes of American travelers have not halted. The new liner Ebro contains every luxury and is the last word in ship construction. Her cabins have beds instead of berths, and there will be no narrow bunks, no "uppers." All the cabins have outside lights and electric fans and there is a passenger elevator. Between promenade decks are two veranda cafes. There are showers and tub baths; a dark room for the camera fiend; an orchestra for concerts and dances, all the latest safety appliances including wireless and submarine signals, and an up-to-date hospital equipment with a doctor and nurse in attendance. The Ebro at sea will be a modern hotel in every respect.

The whole trip will cover a distance of twelve thousand miles—equal to a voyage almost half-way round the globe. The Ebro will pass through the Panama Canal and down the western South American coast to Valparaiso, a distance of 4,911 miles, and return in sixty days. Included also is a trip across the Andes to Buenos Ayres of 2,200 miles.

Three days out from New York on the southern course, and just over the Gulf Stream, rises the solitary island of San Salvador, called by sailors Watling Island, with its single lighthouse, and alas! its wrecks; the first land the tourist sees on his way to Jamaica and southern ports after leaving port; and every one must feel anew the thrill of Columbus, that Easter morning, in 1492, when he first saw this isolated bit of the new world. "Bird Rock" and Fortune Island, in quick succession, Cape Mayari on Cuba's eastern tip, the slowly diminishing Cuban coast with its green mountains, and the traveler is at Jamaica.

The next leg of the journey will carry the travelers to Cristobal, the Canal and Panama City. The great ditch built with $378,000,000 of American money is itself one of the world's great sights. Beyond is the coast of Colombia, Ecuador and Peru, and the snow-topped Andes.

BLUEBIRD FLIES WITH JOURNAL GIRL

By G. I. B.

Oh, it's thrilling. You've heard a lot about it. The boys have described it in detail, how it sort of takes away your breath, when you go up and how funny and dizzy you feel when you look down and see all the little toy ships and buildings and monuments, and how much worse than the elevator drop in the Woolworth building "Zumping" is.

Well, it isn't. The "Bluebird" floats like a wisp of eiderdown, except that it sings a peachy little song that keeps you from talking to the pilot. Why actually, if the passenger didn't see things falling out from under him he'd never know that he was in a sure enough new fangled air ship that would make Uncle Jake's breath come in gasps. He'd never believe the speedometer unless he let the wind wrench his arm from the socket in making an experiment.

And then the pilot lets him down and he gives a little gasp and feels a delightful little shiver; the plane's sticks up its nose and again he's sailing in wonderland with the clouds for companions and the sunset for neighbors. The world is all gold and sweet cloud air. Then the "Bluebird," like all proper birds, comes home to roost and the world is a mixture of salt spray and soft hums. It's gloriously tame and thrilling and swifty. Try it and see.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at once when Backache or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

TELEPHONE SERVICE FOR P. & A. DIVISION

The Louisville & Nashville railroad company will substitute telephone for telegraph on its P. & A. division, for the operation of trains.

This company has already placed this method of train operation into use on most of its northern divisions, as well as on the Mobile and New Orleans division, the company believing this method superior to operation by telegraph. Railroad men say that the telephone system is not only as accurate and dependable, but that it is much more economical. Conductors and engineers can stop the train at telephone stations, which are to be located at intervals along the line, ring up the train master and get their orders direct, thus cutting out the telegraph operators.
