AMERICAN VISITS RED BATTLE FRONT

Stories of Brutalities Are Not Exaggerated According to Letter Made Public.

Warsaw, Oct. 17.—We left good United States under the impression that most of what has been written about bolsheviks was full of lies. Stories of Polish soldiers, describing cases of the most refined cruelties practiced upon captured Polish commissioned and non-commissioned officers and soldiers could not change our point of view.

On August 25 we had an opportunity to be convinced by "seeing and touching" the deeds of red knights. Our Ford truck, loaded with bread, underwear, sweats, cigarettes and soap left Warsaw with decision to reach fighting columns. We passed through Jablonna and Serock and stopped in Pultsk, where a crowd of women surround policeman and spy, disguised as a woman. In the middle of market we found grave of bolshevik chief, who captured Pultsk, but was killed at the end of battle.

Next day we approached battle line in Chorzele. We met the first killed man by the road, red army soldier, lying on his back with eyes looking towards Warsaw. He wore coat of Polish soldier, but was robbed of everything else by his own comrades. A few yards further we found 4 Polish soldiers, captured by red army, undressed and then murdered in the most beastly manner. One thousand Polish infantrymen were fighting for 14 hours, 8,000 Russians. When finally the Polish line was broken, Russians began to yell: "comrades stop fighting, you are surrounded." A group of 46 Polish soldiers were captured, undressed and every one was murdered in the most horrible way with sabres.

In Chorzele we met a group of bolshevik prisoners; fifteen percent of them were barefooted, poorly dressed, many of them in Polish uniforms and sick of fighting. Every one of them claimed that he was forced to fight by communists and there was one among them who brought with him 30 Polish prisoners.

Large groups of Russians, usually commanded by commissaries, fight very well, but small bands and single soldiers throw away their arms and surrender. They were brought into Poland under promise that there will be universal uprising of workers and peasants and easy capture of Warsaw. Bolshevick commanders promised their men seven days of freedom in Warsaw, so that everybody would have chance to rob and plunder "unlimited treasures," stored in Polish capital.

The attack upon Warsaw cost bolsheviks 70,000 men in killed and wounded, 100,000 captured, 80,000 disarmed by Polesians. The war is not over. Siberian army was rushed against the tired, but enthusiastic and victorious Polish legions and another supreme effort of heroic nation will be needed to protect democracy and liberty.

Polish citizens condemned Jewish attitude, but have shown no desire to do them any harm. From our point of view the population and the government are too careless and too lenient with criminals acting against the government and country, which give them shelter and unlimited privileges.

Unless a linoleum is properly finished it is hard to keep clean. But if, when the linoleum is new, it is a hard, smooth finish is obtained that is easily mopped and almost grease proof. This wax treatment will also prevent cracking and the linoleum will last much longer. A good way to apply the wax is to scrub a small section with as hot water as possible and a good soap.

OUTBURSTS of EVERETT TRUE by CONDO

wipe dry, and while still warm rub in as much wax as the floor will absorb.

Liquid wax may be used after washing the floor to replace the wax taken off. It requires only a small quantity to keep the sheen and finish that is so easy to keep clean. A good, initial linoleum will last for years if properly cared for and in the end is much cheaper than a printed one.
