are right up to the highest standard of efficiency and durability.

Every part of a Cole Steam Engine is made in our factory—consequently we know what material goes into it. We know it will pull a certain load and we know from the past that it will last as long as any steam engine made.

We repaired steam engines for fifteen years before we started to manufacture the Cole Engine. Consequently we have profited by the mistakes of others and, in the Cole Engine, we have overcome all of the weak points of other engines.

If you want an engine to pull your gin, saw mill, grist mill or do any real work and stay on the job—buy a Cole Engine. Write today for catalog.
