SAMOA WAKES UP.

Printed Work from the Gazette Office Surprises a Writer. A correspondent in the Samoa Times of a late date urges his people to make some sort of an exhibition at the World's Fair, in order to advertise the country.

If they cannot have an exhibition, he advises the merchants to form an organization similar to the Honolulu Bureau of Information. He is particularly pleased with the pamphlets issued by the local Bureau here, entitled "Hawaii, the Paradise and Inferno of the Pacific." He closes his letter in this way: "I shall know the cost, and the printer's name very shortly of the Hawaiian pamphlet, although I feel sure it is a United States production; nothing similar is produced out of the United States."

The pamphlets were printed at the Gazette Office, in this city, and more work of the same kind can be turned out now and at all times. Send your orders.

The Waimea Bridge is Partially Carried Away.

Owing to heavy rains in the mountains, the Ewa, Kahuku and Waialua districts were flooded to a considerable extent Tuesday. It was reported that the water was on a level with the floor of Mr. Halstead's mill. Reports from Ewa stated that railway trains could not get beyond Waipio on account of the tracks being covered with water. The rice plantations along the road are completely covered. The greatest damage was done near Kahuku, as a telephone message was received Tuesday to the effect that a portion of the Waimea bridge had been carried away by the storm. The information was brought to Kahuku by the stage-driver, who was unable to cross the bridge.
