AN HAWAIIAN RELIC

A Valuable Idol Recently Discovered in an Ewa Rice Field.

Mr. A. L. Atkinson is now the owner of a valuable Hawaiian relic. In digging in one of the rice fields several days ago in the Ewa district of this Island, an idol was discovered buried in the mud. A picture of it is given above in three phases—the front, the side and the back. It stands a little over five feet high, and is not like any other idol known. The person who found it knew that Mr. Atkinson was a collector of curios, and brought it to him. It was purchased for a sum in three figures. Professor Brigham has examined it and pronounces it to be genuine. Several of the older natives have examined it and call it very ancient. It is said by them to be not a local god, but a heiau god. One person who has examined it says it is Ku Kalli Moku, or, in short, Kalli, or feather god. Mr. Atkinson does not believe it is. It is made of black ohia wood. This valuable find will be critically examined by the natives, and its history obtained, if possible. It is in a fair state of preservation, but some of the carvings are not understood, because they are somewhat obliterated.

LONG WINDED LAWYERS.

Another Good Story of Justice Hawkins.

Sir Henry Hawkins was once presiding over a long, tedious, and uninteresting trial, and was listening apparently with great attention to a very long-winded speech from a learned counsel. After a while he made a pencil memorandum, folded it, and sent it by the usher to the Q. C. in question, who, unfolding the paper, found these words: "Patience competition. Gold medal, Sir Henry Hawkins; honorable mention, Job."—Argonaut.

ANDREE BUOY OPENED.

STOCKHOLM (Sweden), Oct. 2.—The buoy marked "Andree Polar Expedition" which, with an anchor attached, was found September 9th on the north coast of King Charles Island by the master of the Norwegian cutter Martha Larsaak, was opened yesterday in the presence of a number of experts and members of the Cabinet. It was found to be the so-called North Pole buoy which Andree had arranged to drop if he succeeded in passing the Pole.
