

TROPIC OILS.

By the "Iolan" over a hundred barrels of this well-known oil, and now afloat over 200 more barrels; so we don't think we will run short of oil during the coming sugar season. Tropic Oils for engine, cylinder, dynamo, car box, roller and all other lubricating purposes have not got their equal in this market. Our sales prove this, for from a small beginning we have worked up to an oil business that shows that the article used is all right. Get your season's supply from us.

Production of Gold and Silver for the Year 1898.

Report from the United States Mint Just Out—Production Lmits Not Yet Approached—A Table.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Mr. Roberts, the Director of the Mint, has made the following report upon the production of gold and silver during the calendar year 1898. He says:

The production of gold in the United States in the calendar year 1898 was 3,118,398 ounces fine, of the value of $64,463,000. The amount of gold produced from quartz mines in 1898 was, in round numbers, 2,800,000 fine ounces and from placer mines 318,000 fine ounces.

The South African Republic produced 3,831,975 ounces fine, of the value of $79,213,953. Australasia produced 3,137,644 ounces fine, of the value of $64,860,800.

These three countries are the great producers of the world, their output aggregating 10,888,017 ounces fine, of the value of $208,537,753, or 73 per cent of the product of the world.

Next comes Russia with $25,462,400; Canada, $12,775,400; Mexico, $8,500,000; India, $7,781,000, and China, $6,978,700. These five aggregate 92,886 kilograms, valued at $61,539,000, or over 21 per cent of the whole, leaving 6 per cent to the remainder of the world.

The United States still occupies the second place as a silver producer, which it was relegated by Mexico in 1897. In 1898 it produced 54,438,000 fine ounces of silver, with a commercial value of $32,118,400, against the Mexican production of 56,738,000 fine ounces, with a commercial value of $33,475,400. Together they produce 57 per cent of the world's product. No other country approaches them, the nearest being Australasia, Bolivia and Peru. The product of the last two is somewhat uncertain, but none of the three exceeds 12,930,000 ounces fine.

The amount of silver produced in the United States during the year from quartz mines was, in round numbers, 13,500,000 fine ounces and from lead ores 31,000,000 fine ounces and from copper ores 10,000,000 fine ounces.

The world's production in 1898 was 12,994,363 ounces fine, of the value of $287,428,600, an increase over the product of 1897 of 2,351,831 ounces, valued at $48,616,600. Since 1887, when about $196,000,000 was produced, each year has shown an increase over the preceding one.

There is no reason to expect any cessation of this steady annual increase for some years to come. The Transvaal has not nearly reached its limit; Australia, particularly West Australia, is not yet half developed; Alaska and the Yukon have only fairly begun to produce, while the recent steady increases in Colorado and other Western States show no signs of abating.

The world's production of silver in 1898 was 165,295,572 ounces fine, showing an increase over 1897 of 1,222,400 ounces fine.

The world's consumption of the precious metals in the arts and manufactures during the year was: In new gold 97,804 kilograms, of a value of $65,000,000, and in new silver 1,065,289 kilograms, of a value of $44,273,000 and a commercial value of $29,200,000.

The following table shows the production of gold and silver in the principal producing countries of the world during the year 1898.

Countries—	Gold, Ounces.	Silver, Fine Ounces.
United States	3,118,398	54,438,000
Africa	30,425,000	—
Australasia	3,137,644	12,021,682
Canada and Newfoundland	13,838,700	4,452,333
Mexico	2,800,000	56,738,000
Russia	25,462,400	278,492
British India	7,781,700	—
China	6,978,700	—
Germany	73,400	2,571,510
Bolivia	343,500	8,204,560
Chile	340,700	2,591,990
Spain	37,900	5,507,960
British Guiana	2,048,700	—
Colombia	2,262,200	5,483,710

CHRISTIANITY IN BUSINESS

As Principles Applied to Commercial Affairs Should Work a Revolution.

"There is not the least question that as the commercial world is organized and run today it is run at a fearful loss along the side of money," writes Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," in the November Ladies' Home Journal. "Even the rules of success that business men lay down do not insure success. Perhaps no age has equaled this for disturbance and unrest and warring interests in the business world. If the principles of Christianity were applied to the whole business world it would cause a shock that for the time being would result in what might indeed prove to be the greatest financial panic of the ages. But out of that result would emerge a new order of buying and selling that would result ultimately in more financial success on the part of more people than the world has ever witnessed. Ultimately love will pay in dollars and cents better than selfishness. On selfish principles the business world today does not succeed even in the matter of making money—that is, not for any length of time nor the masses of the people. Love in business would lose less money, and actually distribute the real earnings of toil among a far greater number of human beings, than is possible now under the present system."

BATTLESHIP BALLOONS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The new battleships will be equipped probably with balloons. The Naval Board of Bureau Chiefs is considering the subject, and, while no final vote has been taken, the sentiment in favor of the innovation is preponderant and an official deliverance on the subject is daily expected. The idea comes from Europe, where it has been tested sufficiently to justify the belief that the balloon on shipboard will prove valuable.

GRANT ALLEN DEAD.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Grant Allen, the author, is dead. He had been ailing for about seven months, but his illness took a serious turn the last week or two and a fatal termination was expected.

Grant Allen won international fame as a popular scientific writer and problem novelist. He was to a certain extent a socialist, and had views of his own on all the great issues which interest men of learning. He was Canadian born, 51 years old, and for nearly thirty years he had been a prolific contributor to the magazines and reviews. He developed evolution in a striking way and wrote on a variety of scientific subjects. Among his best known books are "The Evolutionist at Large," "The Color Sense," "Charles Darwin" and "Collin Clout's Calendar." In 1883 he began writing fiction, and he produced a large number of short stories, many with ingenious plots, and a half-dozen novels. Among his best novels are "Phyllis" and "The Tents of Shem." A novel that called down on him much severe comment was "The Woman Who Did," an elaborate attempt to discredit marriage. This novel was widely denounced and in parts of Great Britain was declared sale on the news stands. Allen's defense was that he wrote the story to express his mature ideas on the subject he dealt with and was willing to be judged as an artist and reformer by the work.

RHODES IS CONFIDENT.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Daily Telegraph in a dispatch from its correspondent at Kimberley dated Monday says: "Cecil Rhodes is strongly of the opinion that the Boers' campaign will utterly collapse. Locally the enemy continues to show a nervous and unenterprising disposition, but the greatest precautions are taken against a surprise."
