A NOVEL PERFORMANCE.

Ferry's "Frog Man" makes a Hit at the Orpheum.

Ferry the "Human Frog," to quote his bills, achieved distinction and lived up to his adopted title at a performance given at the Orpheum last evening before a good-sized audience.

The entertainment was a novelty as far as Ferry was concerned and the audience heartily appreciated his work. The curtain rose on a moonlit scene, prettily set with embowering shrubs. There seated upon a stump, apparently meditating, sat an enormous frog. Its wide mouth opened in a yawn, its front leg scratched a mosquito from its throat, one goggle eye winked at the moon while the other surveyed the scene.

Sleepiness gave way to sportiveness and the man-frog proceeded to do all kinds of stunts. It folded arms or legs partially behind or before its body, it resolved itself into an object without apparent joint or backbone and swung from a suspended ring in all attitudes contrary to generally adjusted ideas of the human skeleton.

The contortions were wonderful and so easily done that no effort was to be marked. Miss Hattie Fairbourn contributed some enjoyable singing and dancing, the latter specialty being particularly good. George Kunkel was heartily received in topical songs, the evening concluding with vitascope presentations depicting a prize fight, bull fight and other scenes of a more laughable character. The company will appear again on Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

BAND NOTES.

The Ladies Are Rehearsing Some New Songs.

The band will escort Co. F of the N. G. H., bound for Hilo, to the steamer Kinaiu this morning.

This evening the band is to give a concert at the railway station.

Tomorrow if possible a serenade will be given the steamer Korea on her departure.

Wednesday evening's band concert will be at the Hawaiian hotel.

On Thursday afternoon the band will play at Camp McKinley.

Captain Berger states that the usual singing by the ladies, with the assistance of the whole band, will be omitted this week because they have nothing new or striking to present and several good singers are sick. The ladies are hard at work to give the public something better than a repetition of certain Hawaiian songs. They are practicing something grander than anything heretofore presented for next Sunday's concert, but Hawaiian songs will not be lacking at the same time.
