

The Pacific Commercial Advertiser

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, JULY 9.—Last 24 hours' rainfall, .07. Temperature, Max. 84; Min. 74. Weather, variable.

SUGAR—96 Degree Test Centrifugals, 3.734375c.; Per Ton, $74.6875. 88 Analysis Beets, 8s 4¼d; Per Ton, $76.00.

ESTABLISHED JULY 2, 1856.

VOL. XLIV., NO. 7463.

HONOLULU, HAWAII TERRITORY, TUESDAY, JULY 10, 1906.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

CRAWLS DOWN TWO EMINENT STATESMEN HESITATE

Expert Gets Some Inside Information at the Dam.

The pumping out of the accumulated water in the big trench at the Nuuanu dam is not turning out to be the snafu that was looked for. All day yesterday a big steam pump kept a stream of muddy water turned into the streambed below the dam and on the other side of the corewall, where the depth of water seems to be just as much as on the upper side, a two-man hand pump was worked continuously. In spite of this only the upper part of the trench was emptied, the inflow on the lower levels yesterday afternoon seemingly keeping just about even with the pumps. Today another steam pump will be put to work and it is hoped that the bottom of the core wall will be exposed sufficiently for examination by this evening.

The inflow appears to be principally on the lower side of the core wall, at one point two streams of clear water spurting with a considerable force from the rocky side of the cut. This is the point referred to by Patterson as a proof that the accumulated water in the trench is from artesian springs and not seepage water, as claimed by Howland.

Nor is the work of sinking the test opening at the end of the core wall getting ahead very fast. Expert Kellogg has asked that a bigger crew of men be put at work at that point, and today a doubled force will be shoveling. Even with this it is going to take until Friday to reach the suspected ground.

CRAWLED THROUGH THE PIPE.

In the meantime Mr. Kellogg is devoting his time to an examination of what work he can see. Accompanied by C. H. Smith, the engineer on the work, he crawled on hands and knees through the long wooden pipe in the bottom of the gulch, getting inside information as to its construction and

(Continued on Page 4.)

PUNCHBOWL MURDER INQUEST IS HELD

The inquest on the body of Magnus Folkward who was shot to death at Auwailimu on the night of June 30, was held last night at the police station, Coroner Kalakiela conducting proceedings.

Attorney Correa asked for a stay of proceedings until Attorney G. D. Gear appearing for the prisoner under arrest in connection with the shooting, returned from Kauai. The request was denied.

Dr. D. R. Judd testified that the cause of Folkward's death was a bullet wound in the body.

Pelekina (w) testified that A. Carvalho and the deceased had a fight in a house on the night of June 30, Carvalho being worsted. The men were separated and Carvalho left the house. She went to bed and heard two shots fired in the house. That was all she knew of the murder.

Mary Opeka testified along the same lines as the previous witness. Several of the people in the house were drunk and she was in a similar condition. After Carvalho went away witness went to her room and remembered nothing until a police officer woke her up next morning. Folkward had only been to her house twice.

After considering the evidence submitted, the jury returned the following verdict:

"That the deceased, Magnus Folkward, came to his death from a gunshot wound, administered by a person unknown to this jury."

The jury consisted of H. J. Mossman, J. Grace, Ed. Wingham, Poki, Kaehina, Geo. Karratt and J. Chamberlain.

Lane and Achi Cannot Both Go to County Convention.

The wicked Mr. Achi is afraid, and Senator John Lane hasn't. That is about the political situation in the Eighth Precinct of the Fifth District. Both of these gentlemen are very distinguished statesmen. Mr. Lane has said, and has said that Mr. Achi agrees with him, that it is a thankless task to be distinguished, and that he doesn't want to be a bit—nevertheless, the distinction is his, and he has a Sunday school class, and there you are.

Mr. Achi also has distinction. He has been a member of the Territorial Senate, and has managed campaigns, and has the added distinction that a good many better men, perhaps, are afraid of him. So he can not get away from his distinction, either.

Now, it so happens that each of these gentlemen, both of whom are parliamentarians—and that is more distinction—wants to go to the next Republican County convention, and both live in the same precinct. As they represent opposite political factions, of course they can not both go to the convention. Mr. Lane, to add to his troubles, has been repeatedly beaten in that precinct by the bad Mr. Achi. In fact, Mr. Lane never did beat Achi there but once, and that was when the lamented Lorrin Andrews showed him how to do it.

But, while Achi has repeatedly beaten Lane, there are some present cogent reasons why Achi himself should fear to put his own fortunes to the touch in the primaries, aside from the fact that it would never do for a man seeking a nomination for Supervisor-at-Large to be beaten in the primaries. So Achi will not be a candidate for delegate from that precinct, but will venture his fortunes on a ticket to be headed by some man whom he can trust.

BOTH ARE AFRAID.

Lane, on his part, knows perfectly well that he would be a shining mark for the Achi men if he did put himself on his own ticket. Mr. Lane does not like being a shining mark. It is bad enough to be distinguished, and to have the thanklessness of that, without giving the hot polloi a chance to display its ingratitude by voting for the other fellow. The hot polloi always did like to sit on the fence with a handful of bricks and hit every head in sight. Distinguished men all know that.

Wherefore, Mr. Lane will not head his own ticket in the Eighth of the Fifth. As Mr. Achi will not, both are afraid—or one is afraid, and the other dare not. You can take your choice as to which is afraid. But the Lane Sunday school class had a big meeting on Sunday morning, as Senator Lane said that they would.

"Yes, I was there," said Brother Jim Quinn yesterday. "They did not do a thing—not a thing."

Brother Quinn has got so used to the roasting of the wicked Mr. Achi by that Sunday school class that perhaps it does not count for much in his mind, any more. Habit can accustom men to anything. As a matter of fact, the whole meeting was devoted to the roasting of Achi. That is about all the Sunday school class ever does. It is said to be getting quite adept at it—although really it does not seem to cut much ice with Achi.

Politicians about town are getting to be somewhat impatient of the effort being made to lose everything else in the fight for the Shrievalty of Oahu county.

"There are some other things at stake," said this gentleman, himself a prominent Republican. "We can not afford to sink everything in the battle for the control of the police department. Indeed, I venture to think that even the Legislature is more important."

(Continued on Page 4.)

SECRETARY OF WAR TALKS TO REPUBLICANS OF NORTH CAROLINA

(Associated Press Cablegrams.)

GREENSBORO, North Carolina, July 10.—Secretary Taft addressed the North Carolina Republicans here last night on the eve of the State Convention.

SECRETARY OF WAR TAFT.

The Republicans have never quite given up the hope that it is possible to win and hold North Carolina permanently. The State was an old Whig stronghold before the war, and was driven into the Democratic fold because of the race issue.

ONE AMERICAN DIES OF CHOLERA.

MANILA, July 10.—Twenty-one new cases and ten deaths from cholera were reported yesterday. One of the dead was an American.

HEIAUS BY THE SCORE

T. G. Thrum Finds Many Temples on Kauai.

Seventy-five heiaus, or ancient Hawaiian temples, including sites, were located by T. G. Thrum, the statistician, on the Island of Kauai during a visit which ended last Sunday. These, added to those already known on this island, Maui and Hawaii, run the total number of located temples up to about 240.

Mr. Thrum's visit to Kauai was especially in the interest of the location of heiaus, traces of which are disappearing as years go by. All these seventy-five, however, were fairly well defined. In one instance, Mr. Thrum found a heiau where physical evidences indicated recent use. It was the one found at Polihale, and was built for devotion to the goddess Laka, (hulas), and was known to have been used for ceremonial rites even up to the time of Kalakaua. There are little mounds of stones piled up on the edges of two of the four terraces, which appear to have been of recent placing. These terraces run back 104 feet into the cliff.

Mr. Thrum was accompanied over Kauai by J. K. Farley. The heiaus found were scattered from Mana to Haena. A few were in fair condition, but, of course, all were in ruins. Measurements were made of a number of the temples and no two were found alike.

Among the most noted of the temples listed was the one at Hauola at Wailana and close to the new home of A. F. Knudsen. This is a platform heiau of two divisions, measuring 136x179 feet. It is, perhaps, in the best condition of all those seen. The largest

(Continued on page 7.)

RESTORED THE KING

Finding of the Original Proclamation of Rear Admiral Thomas.

RESTORATION ANTHEM.

Hail! to our rightful king!
We joyful honors bring
This day to thee,
Long live your majesty:
Long reign thy dynasty;
And for posterity,
The scepter be.

Hail! to the worthy Name!
Worthy his country's fame,
Thomas the Brave—
Long shall they virtues be,
Shrined in our memory,
Who came to set us free
Quick o'er the wave.

Praise to our Heavenly King!
To Thee our thanks we bring;
Worthy of all;
Loud, we Thine honors raise,
Loud is our song of praise,
Smile on our future days,
Sovereign of all.

Dated at Honolulu, Oahu, July 31, 1843.
Copied by Moses K. Kekualwa.

Oh, but there was great rejoicing in Honolulu on the 31st of July, in the year of our Lord 1843, and for several days thereafter. That was the date upon which Rear Admiral Thomas of the British navy issued his proclamation restoring the sovereignty of these islands to the King, Kamehameha III, and it was made a time of general rejoicing among the whole people, by order of the King. You can read all about it in the histories.

In delving among the archives stored in the loft of the Capitol building, Custodian Lydecker of the Archives Commission has found the original of the proclamation of restoration issued by Admiral Thomas, in command of all the British forces in the Pacific. It

(Continued on page 7.)

ARE INDICTED AS AGRARIANS

Four Hundred and Forty-Six Russian Peasants Are Made to Feel the Weight of the Wrath of the Czar.

(Associated Press Cablegrams.)

NIJNI NOVGOROD, July 10.—Four hundred and forty-six peasants have been indicted for participation in agrarian disorders.

CAVALRY REGIMENTS MUTINY.

TAMBOV, July 10.—The cavalry regiments have mutinied and barricaded themselves in their barracks.

DISPERSED BY COSSACKS.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 9.—Numerous political demonstrations yesterday were dispersed by the Cossack troops.

EMPEROR INSPECTS HOSPITALS.

ORANIENBAUM, July 9.—The Emperor Nicholas and the Empress inspected the hospitals here today.

DEATH SENTENCES COMMUTED.

TIFLIS, July 9.—Fearing uprisings, the government has commuted the death sentence of 27 mutineers to terms of short imprisonment.

GREAT BRITAIN RESUMES RELATIONS WITH SERVIA

LONDON, July 10.—Diplomatic relations have been resumed between Great Britain and Serbia.

When the young King Alexander of Serbia and his wife were brutally murdered in their palace by officers of the Servian army, who were afterwards instrumental in offering the crown to Peter Karageorgovitch, descendant of a rival house, several of the powers at once broke off diplomatic relations with Serbia as an impressive demonstration of their disapproval of the manner in which the new king had secured his throne.

For a long time the Servian monarch seemed to fear to remove the assassins from the public service, and for so long as any of them continued near him neither England nor the United States would accredit a representative to his country. Recently, however, the last of the regicides have been retired. The United States resumed relations with Serbia some little time since. Now England has followed in the same lines.

SECRETARY ROOT HAS REACHED PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, July 10.—The cruiser Charleston, with Secretary Root on board, has arrived here.

The Pan-American conference, at which the Secretary of State will be present, convenes at Rio Janeiro on Thursday of this week, and after attending this he will visit several of the South American republics. For part of the trip the Chilean government has put a man-of-war at Secretary Root's disposal.

VERY CHEAP FARE FROM EUROPE TO AMERICA

HAMBURG, July 10.—Because of the emigrant rate war, the cost of passage to New York has been reduced to $2.50.

This, of course, is for third-class passage, and must be pretty nearly the record for cheap travel.

TO INCLUDE INTERNAL REVENUE.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Civil Service Commission has recommended the inclusion of the employes of the internal revenue department in the classified service.

FALLIERES DINES LONGWORTHS.

PARIS, July 10.—President Fallieres gave a brilliant dinner last night at the Elysee to the Longworths. The officials of the government, and the members of the diplomatic corps attended.

TURKS FIGHT BULGARIAN BANDS.

SALONICA, July 10.—The Turkish troops annihilated three Bulgarian bands, killing ninety-two. The Turks lost twenty.

DEWEY REACHES OLONGAPO.

OLONGAPO, July 10.—The drydock Dewey has arrived here.