MOSQUITOES AND BANANAS ARE DISCUSSED

"The Republican party says it does things!" shouted T. J. Ryan to the crowd of several hundred men, women and children assembled around the Democratic rostrum across the street from the Magoon block last night. "I'll tell you some of the things the Republicans have done."

"They paid an attorney $1,000 a month to help sell the bond issue a year ago; they organized a mosquito campaign, let out a yelp about the yellow fever, slashed down all your bananas and proceeded to divide $75,000 of your tax money among their Republican henchmen; they passed a bill taking away the rights of Honolulu as a city and turning it over to the Territory, and Governor Frear signed this bill."

"When Secretary of the Interior Fisher was here he was told the circumstances surrounding this measure—how the Legislature had deliberately robbed the city and the Governor had acquiesced, and the Secretary said frankly that he was astonished at it—astonished at such action by a supposedly intelligent body of men and at its approval by a man of Frear's education and otherwise high standing."

Ryan further delighted his hearers by a description of the mosquito campaign. He said the authorities had to hang their heads on something tangible, so they finally found a poor, lone, sick man, whom they, after careful examination, proclaimed to be a yellow fever victim. Then they admitted that not all mosquitoes were carriers of this disease germ; that the particular, dangerous breed might be known by "the yellow streak down the inside of the left hind leg," and that, after long and careful search, they claimed to have found an insect of this species. They stuck the curious monstrosity in their book of exhibits and made much of it, he said, but some time later "a Missourian," on inspecting the "bird," discovered that the yellow stripe down the inside of the left hind leg must have been hand-painted, because it had disappeared.

The Kakaako crowd displayed great sympathy for the Democratic speakers and their cause, applauding vociferously at each point.

W. H. McClellan, the only Democratic supervisor during the last four years, urged the voters to show their approval of Joe Fern as mayor by giving him a Democratic board that would sustain him in his administration and help him do the work he plans. Sam Hardesty, Sheriff Jarrett, Waiialua Plemmer, M. C. Pacheco and Lester Petrie spoke briefly. The campaign cry of the Republicans that Sam Parker should have the preference over Joe Fern for mayor because he was better educated, was brought to the audience's attention several times and answered.

Scopbox Barron, in his usual style, referred to this matter and recited: "I was in San Francisco recently at the same time that Sam Parker was there. A barrel of poi was sent to him at the Hotel Stewart. I expected to get some of that poi, but I didn't. The hotel employes thought it was paste and it was all used to hang wall paper in the hotel. Parker didn't get any of it, either. Now, if he had real intelligence that wouldn't have happened."

At another point Barron exclaimed fervently: "I can't do enough, can't say enough against these Republicans." He may not have meant it that way, but the audience caught the idea and laughed uproariously.

At the Democratic meeting at Liliha and Wylie streets, E. H. F. Wolters, candidate for the Board of Supervisors, prophesied that the Republican stronghold at Laie, on the windward side of the island, would be dissipated at the coming election. Of Sam Parker he said that the Republican mayoralty nominee spends too much of his time on the mainland to be conversant with local home problems, and that he gives luau, but not to the proletariat; he feeds only his friends—the rich—declared the speaker. Several hundred persons attended the meeting, listening to and cheering the Jeffersonian orators.

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD MONSTER LAIE RALLY

Windward Oahu, of which Laie is probably the capital city, will on Saturday welcome a monster luau and mass meeting arranged by the Republican campaign managers. Free railroad train, auto and stage transportation will be afforded all who desire to go to the big doings, from Waiialua and all along the line.

A special train will leave Waiialua and will be provided with as many extra cars as are found necessary to accommodate the Waiialua throng bound toward Laie. It has been arranged with the Koolau Railroad to pick up along its line all persons who want to join in the feasting and mass meeting. Efforts are now being made to supply motortrucks and stages to run between Libby McNeill's pineapple cannery and the scene of the celebration. All who avail themselves of the careful provisions made for their transportation and comfort need not worry about getting back to their homes, for they will be conveyed in the manner in which they went.

Complete plans have been laid for a sumptuous repast at Laie, and there will be good music to enliven the evening between the speeches of the popular Republican candidates. With rousing speeches, stirring music and the delicacies that will adorn the luau tables, not to mention the free transportation both ways, there is indeed a treat in store for the windward Oahuans on Saturday night. Besides the pleasant things above referred to, there will be moving pictures to delight the children as well as the grownups, to please the future voters as well as the voters of today.

The Republican candidates who are to address this great throng at Laie on Saturday night will leave Honolulu at 3:30 in the afternoon, reaching Waiialua at 5:40. The mass meeting will open at Laie about 7 o'clock and the free transportation will have folks home about midnight.

For a man who has the experience that Link has had running for delegate he seems to get more out of practice every time.

Kuhio seems to be on the right end of the big argument even if he is sick abed.

Col. Sam Parker is making a noise like a real mayor.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

J. M. DOWSETT
Candidate for senator on the Republican ticket, is today celebrating his fiftieth birthday. He is celebrating it by good hard work for his ticket and every man on it. Mr. Dowsett was born in Honolulu fifty years ago. He has served with credit in the senate during the sessions of 1905 and 1907. He is conspicuous for his business ability and is the kind of man who should be given strong support for the senate during a term that will bring many important public questions to be solved.

REPUBLICAN LUAU

ed was of great good for the country. I ask your heartiest support for the prince, who now is unable to carry on his campaign on account of illness."

Cottrill for Taft.
The last speaker of the evening was Collector of Internal Revenue, Charles A. Cottrill. He poured forth an eloquent flood of oratory of the good old Republican vintage. One point he brought out strongly was that Hawaii would be making a grave mistake to send a Democrat to Congress, repudiating the Republican protection that has made Hawaii a prosperous country. He also declared himself confident that Taft will be elected again. He urged straight-ticket voting. Cottrill made a very strong talk for Taft, and his speech interspersed with witty stories and delivered with all the effect of a trained platform orator, with a fitting culmination to the big love-feast.

Capt. Parker in Charge.
The credit for the perfection of arrangements and general conduct of the luau belongs chiefly to Capt. Robert Parker Waipa, Republican candidate for sheriff. The work for the luau, however, was not part of his campaign. He gave up his time for several days to get the feast ready and had a big and capable corps of young lady assistants to look after the diners. The affair was very well organized and Capt. Parker deserves the thanks of both districts for it.

Jack Lucas was a picturesque sort of a toastmaster. He referred to Joe Cohen as a "contemptible cur" because Cohen is running as an independent for the senate, and paid his respects in a similar vein to Charles Hustace, independent candidate for mayor. He and John Wise branded the independents as "traitors" declaring they should "be relegated out of the party."

In fact, all those who failed to agree with the straight Republican doctrines handed out by the party were scored by the speakers last night.

It was eleven o'clock when the luau finally ended, Kaa's orchestra which furnished the music, putting on the finishing touches with Hawaii Ponol.

G. O. P. MEETINGS

Watertown will be the scene of political activity this evening, when the Republican candidates and their lieutenants will address the electorate there upon the fundamental principles of the Republican party. According to those who have charge of the mass meeting a large number of the voters residing in the surrounding districts will be present to hear the "gospel truth" of the Republican party.

The candidates will leave the headquarters promptly at 6 o'clock, and, accompanied by the co-workers, will auto down to Watertown, where they will be welcomed by the reception committee.

POLITICAL NOTES

Hot shots and destructive bombshells were fired by the Republican leaders from the soap box today into the camp of the Democratic candidates. They were cheered and applauded almost uninterruptedly. The sudden onslaught of Republicans was a surprise to the Democrats.

Mrs. J. M. Dowsett, president of the women's suffrage association, prefers the use of the word "suffragist" rather than "suffragette" to describe the members of the movement here. The word "suffragette," she says, has the militant intimation of the window-smashing, brick-throwing type, so common in England.

NOT CONTROLLED BY THE BIG INTERESTS

Small Slivers:

The LUAU idea is to reach a man's judgment through his STOMACH. The effect of the luau upon the voter is to the way he should vote, is as lasting as the luau itself; from two to twenty-four hours, according to the voter's digestive organs.

The INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE cannot afford to give luau, therefore he can not be accused of causing a one diapaesia.

The luau is a good way to spend the surplus campaign fund and create enthusiasm—IN THE STOMACH.

According to the present Republican standard, a good legislator is one who has no ideas of his own, says things, but when it comes to voting does it honestly (?) and fearlessly dictated by the BIG INTERESTS.

The MERCHANT is held up for liberal Campaign Subscriptions, but has nothing to say as to how it should be spent. That is done by the tools of the BIG INTERESTS. THE SAME APPLIES TO TAXES.

Make the taxes as LOW as possible for the SUGAR INTERESTS.

Make the taxes as HIGH as possible for the middle man and wage earner. Use it all for the benefit of the PLANTATION INTERESTS! These are the orders issued by the BIG INTERESTS to its creatures in the Legislature.

A PLANTATION MAN in the Legislature is a tool in the hands of THE BIG INTERESTS.

A business is no business unless sweetened with SUGAR.

If the doctors had advocated cutting down the CANE FIELDS to prevent the spread of yellow fever, what would have happened, I WONDER!

Even if it is true that the PLANTATION INTERESTS pay 75 per cent of the taxes, is that any reason why they should receive 100 per cent of the Legislation?
