KILOHANA CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING; PROGRESS IS MARKED

Most Important Event of Year Was Development of Outdoor Circle

The annual meeting of the Kilohana Club was held yesterday afternoon at the club rooms on Beretania street. The meeting was opened by the president, Miss Frances Lawrence. The secretary and treasurer's report was read by Miss Abbie Dow. From the treasurer's report it was made clear that the financial status of the club is fairly good.

Miss Lawrence read a short report of the club work and told of the work that may be done now that the organization is called the Kilohana Club. Miss Lawrence said in part:

"The year just closed finds the Kilohana Art League still alive and with brighter prospects than for several years past. The Board of Directors have found great pleasure in working together for the welfare of the club. Our inspiration has been the belief that Honolulu has need of an organized center for culture and useful purposes, and that the Kilohana Art League could be so developed as to meet this need. The changing of the name of the club from Kilohana Art League to Kilohana Club with subsequent broadening of its object, we believe will mark the turning point of the past year.

"The most important event of the past year was the forming of the Outdoor Circle of which you will hear later from the Chairman, Mrs. F. J. Lowrey. The work of this circle is the best work the league has done, although its real scope will not be fully appreciated for a number of years.

"Another important department of the club is the Art History class. The Board of Directors authorized the purchase of a few important reference books which have been a great stimulus to the study.

"The entertainments of the year opened with a reading from Rip Van Winkle by Miss Tucker with slides made by Pres. Gilmore from Rackham's illustrations.

"The two evenings given by the Literary Circle, Miss Ermine Cross, were a great success. One was an Arnold Bennett evening, and the other an educational program in which playgrounds and the Montessori method of education were discussed.

"Mrs. Sarah Merrill gave us a very delightful talk on Jerusalem, where she lived for sixteen years.

"The Musical Circle, Miss Katherine Reynolds, gave a delightful evening with modern composers at Bishop's hall which was well attended, and pronounced one of the successes of the year.

"A reception was given Mr. E. A. P. Newcomb, the vice-president, before his departure for the east.

"There was a general exhibition last November, and an effort was made to secure as many contributors as possible. The China painting from the College of Hawaii and Mrs. Percy's studio was of unusual interest. The paintings were largely from the brush of Mr. Hitchcock. Besides the general exhibit, there have been five visiting artists who have exhibited in the league rooms. Miss Withrow, Mr. Wm. Adam, Mrs. Pogson, Miss Anna Klumpke, and Mr. Duncan Smith. What ever activities the club may assume in the future there will always be a need for an exhibition room where visiting artists as well as local artists may exhibit their work and be introduced to the public.

"Whether Honolulu is ready for a large club with a suitable building, the coming year will decide. If each member would take a personal interest in the activities of the club, come forward with ideas, and stand ready to help in every way they can, Honolulu would in a short time have an active club center of which we would all be proud."

One of the most interesting accounts of the year's work was that of the Outdoor Circle read by Mrs. Frederick J. Lowrey. This department of the Kilohana Club though still young has done splendid work this past year or rather since January. For it was in that month that it was formed by Mrs. Frederick J. Lowrey, Mrs. Henry Waterhouse, Mrs. C. M. Cooke, Mrs. George Sherman and Mrs. Isaac Cox. Since then members have been added to the list continually, and there are now more than one hundred women who are active in the work.

Mrs. Lowrey told of the steps that the Circle has taken and of the work already accomplished. The first venture was the planting of monkey-pod trees at Aala Park. The women were persistent in their work and in February were accredited to the Oahu Central Improvement Club. Mrs. Lowrey and Mrs. George Sherman attended the meeting of this club.

The Hawaiian women are taking a great interest in the Queen Emma Park. One day each week a number of women from Palama go there, another day the Kalia women and still another day a group from Makiki.

Mrs. C. S. Holloway who is chairman of the Queen Emma Park committee is anxious that the old home be renovated and that a Japanese woman be put there who could serve tea or soda water to picnic parties.

"We would like a great collection of begonias and a great collection of all our ferns," said Mrs. Lowrey. "Tourists are constantly asking for a sight of the wonderful island ferns and there is no collection to show."

"Faults to be Remedied." In her closing remarks Mrs. Lowrey said, "Our gardens are crowded and cluttered.

"Our hedges are too bare and glaring.

"Our sidewalks are notoriously bad or wanting altogether. Get us at once remove all old fences, plant hedges, plant shade trees in the streets, clean our sidewalks, lay concrete walks and curb the sidewalks as far as possible."

At the conclusion of the report the amendments to the by-laws were read and accepted.

It is the plan of the Outdoor Circle to make Honolulu a hibiscus city so that in 1915 the hibiscus will blossom like the rose. Owing to the lack of rain there has been little planting this summer though Mrs. J. A. Gilman has planted a number of poinciana trees along Wilder avenue.

Mrs. Lowrey also spoke of the interest that is being taken in the beautifying of the city by the Japanese. Now Mr. Canavaro is co-operating with the Circle and is trying to interest the Portuguese. The plan is to have meetings with them and show them pictures with a lantern of many of the beautiful streets away from here.

2000 PEOPLE IN HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT PALAMA

King Hilary reigned supreme at Palama Settlement last night when nearly two thousand men, women and children of the neighborhood attended the big Halloween party and street carnival in the spacious gymnasium. Of course, the kiddies formed the largest per cent of the gathering, and it was one of the happiest and most orderly crowds that has assembled in the city for many months.

The time set for the opening of the affair was 7:30 o'clock, but a crowd had begun to gather around the door long before this hour, and when the doors were finally opened, there were at least 700 waiting to enter. Many of the youngsters came in costume; there were witches, ghosts, clowns, tramps, bull-moosers and many other representations.

Around the floor of the gymnasium various booths had been set up at which candy, pies, soda water and peanuts were dispensed. Then there was the fish pond with fishes in the shape of prizes. Perhaps the biggest attraction of the evening was the shoot the chutes. This was a free attraction and there was a continuous stream of youngsters sliding down it from the time the doors were thrown open until it was time to go home. It was here the clown Bowen held forth with a megaphone, keeping a watchful eye on those using the chute and delivering an eloquent line of talk all the while.

Down near the stairway there was a mysterious little room, the door of which was covered with green cloth, and back of which was a most uncanny ghost. It certainly had the children guessing for awhile until some one pulled the curtain down, and the features of a well known citizen were revealed.

While all this was going on, upstairs an initiation was taking place in a room off the swimming tank. The victims were selected at random from the crowd, girls as well as boys, and hustled into the room where they were seized, blindfolded and put in a sack with just their heads out. After they were ducked in a big tub of water they were given a generous coat of grease paint on the front of their heads and were presented with an apparatus that was a cross between a horse fiddle and a siren.

There was a pie-eating contest and an apple-eating contest, and then the confetti commenced to fly. The weighing machine over in the makai corner did a rushing business and the aeroplane trips to Kaunakapili church went off without mishap. At nine o'clock the crowd commenced to go, although it was nearly ten before the last one had made his departure.

Great credit is due to the workers of the settlement, and the outsiders who assisted, in the successful way the affair had been arranged. It was not in any sense a money-making affair, but tickets were sold at the door for the different attractions at the low rate of ten for five cents, one or two tickets being charged for the different features. It was a pronounced success, and was pleasing to those who had charge of the affair to know that everyone present had had a good time.

PRICE-CUTTING SALE AT THE CANTON CO.

The Canton Dry Goods Co. announces that their annual November sale will commence tomorrow morning and will continue two weeks, during which time the stock of this big department store will be placed on sale at ridiculously low prices.

This sale is in keeping with the Canton's policy of clearing their shelves for their Christmas goods, which are now on the way and, according to the management, will cram the store to capacity, which makes it absolutely necessary to dispose of a big lot of the present stock.

A feature of the sale is that the store will give green stamps with every purchase, thereby enabling the purchaser to get something for nothing—advertisement.

SCHOOL SITE TO BE PUBLIC PLAYGROUND

The grounds of the old Fort street school, at Fort and School streets, formerly the institution which served in lieu of a municipal high school, has been set aside as a public park and playground. Governor Frear yesterday issued the executive order approving this step, which has been urged for some time by the members of the Children's Aid and Free Kindergarten Association. The city is to assume the burden of supplying equipment and maintenance of the playground.
