NIPPON MARU WILL TODAY LAND MANY LABORERS FOR HAWAII NEI

One hundred and sixty-one Asiatic steamer passengers are enroute from the Far East to the Territory of Hawaii, and are expected to leave the Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner Nippon Maru on arrival of that vessel at the port this afternoon.

Fifty-nine Filipinos recruited in the Philippine Islands by agents for the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association are included among the number on board the Japanese steamer.

A wireless message received at the agency of Castle & Cooke, the local representatives for the Nippon Maru, is to the effect that the liner from Hongkong by the way of Shanghai and Japan ports will be off the port at or about three o'clock this afternoon.

The liner may take a berth at Richards street wharf, should it be found at the last moment that there is too great a congestion of freight at the Alakea wharf. The berth for the Nippon Maru had not been definitely decided upon by Harbormaster Foster this morning.

It is the present intention to dispatch the vessel for San Francisco at eight o'clock tomorrow morning. The liner is to receive no fuel during the stay here, but there are three hundred tons Oriental cargo for discharge.

From wireless reports, the Nippon is to reach Honolulu with a total of 292 passengers, which would indicate that the vessel is carrying a rather small list of cabin travelers.

Hindoo Like United States. Sixty or more Hindoos, who passed through Honolulu last week as passengers in the Pacific Mail liner Manchuria were with but very few exceptions provided with considerable funds.

These men have in their possession as high as three thousand dollars, declared one Manchuria official. The East India men have been flying on the coast for some years and have paid the major part of the high wages paid them as railroad, mining and lumber camp laborers.

It is now predicted that the probable immigration of a direct service between Calcutta and Vancouver by the British India Steam Navigation Company will lead to a wholesale immigration of Hindoos to the Coast. The Immigration Act states that any person coming under the immigration laws is prohibited from entering the islands otherwise than by continuous journey from the land, where he or she makes a direct steamer connection. If it is decided to make a special set of regulations to permit the admission of Hindoos, unless a special set of regulations is passed.

Tamara's Departure. The Inter-Island Steam Navigation announces the prospective sailing of the steamer Tamara at noon tomorrow, the vessel taking general cargo for Waiakona, Kapaemahu, Kapaemahu and Honolulu. This vessel will be given late sail but will carry no passengers.

The Kilauea is on the berth to depart for Kaula ports at five o'clock tomorrow evening. In addition to regular ports, this vessel is carrying supplies for the island of Nihoa.

The Mikahala for Maui, Molokai and Lanai ports is a third vessel slated for dispatch at five o'clock tomorrow morning taking passengers, mail and an extensive shipment of freight.

Chilcott Here With Fuel Oil. A package of nineteen days from Hawaii, with 18,000 barrels of fuel oil consigned to the local branch of the Associated Oil company, the ship Maudie Chilcott, is an arrival at the port today.

The Chilcott was sent to the railway wharf there to receive a prompt discharge of cargo into the storage tanks. The vessel also brought several hundred drums of distillate, gasoline and other products.

The ship met with fine weather during the greater part of the voyage from the coast to the islands. Captain and officers took a lively interest in the way the late election went on the mainland.

Heavy Shipment of Almonds Beans. One of the largest shipments of almonds beans, utilized in the manufacture of cattle and horse feed, received here in months arrived as part cargo in the Inter-Island steamer Mikahala yesterday.

The Maui and Molokai liners returned with a fair list of passengers and freight including 2175 sacks beans, 100 sacks charcoal, 5 cords wood, 115 head hogs, 3 horses and 128 packages sundries. According to report from the officers the Mikahala met with fine weather on the homeward voyage.

Inter-Island Sailings This Day. Three Inter-Island steamers are on the berth to sail for coasting ports today.

The W. G. Hall, an arrival here on Sunday morning is taking on cargo for Koloa only. This vessel is expected to get away at five o'clock. Taking explosives and freight destined for Kilauea, Kaula, the steamer Nihau has been placed on the berth to depart at five o'clock.

The steamer Nohau is a Kaula steamer also slated for dispatch at five o'clock this evening and destined to call at all ports along the Garden Island. The Nohau will carry explosives as well as general cargo.

Hall for Koloa. Taking cargo for Koloa the Inter-Island steamer W. G. Hall is to be dispatched for the Garden Island at five o'clock this evening. The Hall was a Sunday morning arrival with freight including one auto, 50 cases hogs, 100 sacks rice, crates of chickens and 64 packages sundries.

According to reports from officers the vessel met with fair winds and sea.

The island of Nihoa will receive a call from the Inter-Island steamer Kinou on the trip, leaving here tomorrow evening. Freight for the island is loaded aboard the vessel, which is to sail with a large general cargo.

INTER-ISLAND NEW OFFICES

With its ornate stone facade, one of the most attractive business fronts in Honolulu, the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company is about to make its offices on Queen street among the most metropolitan of interiors. When the alterations now being made are to cost $20,000, are completed there will be few transportation headquarters anywhere to surpass those of the local steamship company.

The wall now separating the passenger department from the cashier's and freight offices is to come down, and the passenger department is to occupy the half of the front to the entrance at the Walkiki end, where a stairway is to be built.

There will be a small lobby giving access to the stairway from this entrance, where there is now an alleyway, and the stairway will also be open to the passenger department. In fact occupying one side of it. Access from the street to the passenger department will be through both the present middle entrance and that to the stairway already mentioned, the former opening into a spacious lobby for the public. Business with the ticket office will be transacted over round-cornered counters, and in the middle of the lobby a pillar will be encircled with a desk the same as in Hackfeld's office.

On the Ewa end the present entrance from the street to the passenger department will be closed up, and the space on that end to be used as a waiting room. The present entrance, which is on the Ewa end, will be closed up, and the space on that end to be used as a waiting room. The present entrance, which is on the Ewa end, will be closed up, and the space on that end to be used as a waiting room.

A small vault now used will come out, and the new one will be of two stories, the upper portion being for the office upstairs. It will be thoroughly fireproof. Besides, there will be a small vault, the freight department and bookkeeper's office. A small elevator will communicate between the two floors for the carriage of books, etc.

The floors, marble counters and paneled ceilings will contribute to elegance of the new offices. A complete telephone system will connect the various departments, and be connected with the city exchange. Possibly a central will be installed in the building to facilitate telephonic communication with the outside.

Plans are being prepared for the largest hotel in New York, to be erected opposite the Pennsylvania railroad terminal. It is to have more than 1500 rooms.

TO DISCUSS PLAN FOR PRISON TODAY

A conference on the plans for the new prison will be held this afternoon at the office of the Governor, at which will be present, besides the Chief Executive, High Sheriff Henry, Architect Ripley, Superintendent H. K. Bishop, of the Department of Public Works, and Attorney General Lindsay.

W. H. Babbitt, who is well acquainted with the plans on which the famous Billid prison at Manila, P. I., were constructed, also will be present in an advisory capacity. The proposed territorial prison will be proposed largely after the Billid structures.

The plans for the new Oahu prison are proceeding slowly, the exterior idea having been quite thoroughly worked out, and a portion of the interior design determined. Further discussion of these will be given at today's conference. The appropriation for the structure is $75,000, but it is thought that the total cost eventually will go considerably beyond that figure, probably over $100,000.

The proceeds from the sale of the present prison site are to be added to the appropriation, but a portion of the new site is owned by private holders and condemnation of this portion of the tract is now pending.

ARMY TEAMSTERS

(Continued from Page 7) his appointment, he will have $18 left at the end of the month to spend as he chooses. "There have been no enlistments here as yet," said Major Cheatham this morning. "The change is bound to be a gradual one, and probably there will be no great shake-up in this department for some time. When the shift is made it will probably affect the men at the posts before those employed in the city, for the principal object in making the quartermaster force an enlisted one is to do away with civilian labor at army posts, thereby making discipline more effective. This has always been the case at West Point, where all the work of the post has been done by regularly enlisted men. Enlisted men of the quartermaster corps will wear a distinctive uniform, and will not be expected to perform military duty." Map Better Cared For.

Advocates of the change assert that an economy will be effected for the army by the change, and at the same time the men who enlist will find that they are better off. It is not expected that the change will be made until the end of the year. The aim of the plan is to make the army a non-civilian organization throughout. Enlisted men working under orders of superiors are said to be a more efficient force, than an equal number of men working under civil service.

Teamsters under forty-five years of age who do not want to enlist will find themselves between an upper and nether stone. There are many enlisted men who would rather drive a team than to hike over the roads carrying a rifle and knapsack. Applications for transfer to the quartermaster's division are expected to stream in after a few weeks unless the teamsters fill the available 1600 places of the enlisted army themselves.

Older Men Kept On. Of men above forty-five years of age in the unclassified service there are about 500. These will be continued in their jobs. The new order is effective in the Philippines. Teamsters who can meet the requirements of a recruit, however, will there have the same privileges as those in Continental United States and Hawaii.

BREAKERS AHEAD FOR DANCE HALLS

There is trouble in store for some one who applies for a license to conduct a public dance hall in the downtown district of Honolulu following the affair that occurred at the Filipino Ball that took place in the upper room over the Canton Cafe on Hotel street on Saturday night.

Domingo, a Filipino who was a participant in the encounter, and who was placed under arrest by police officers upon a charge of going about offensively armed, was found guilty at District court this morning, and was sentenced to fifteen days at the city and county jail.

The opening of such dances as that inaugurated on Saturday night is believed by the authorities to be a menace to public morals as well as safety. Domingo is alleged to have kept too close communion with the Green Eyed goddess, and prompted by jealousy over a rather attractive Filipino senorita, got into an altercation with a Portuguese youth, upon whom he afterward is said to have flashed a knife.

Officer Wright gave testimony this morning that proved that the Filipino had chased the rival from the street to the newly opened dance hall.

Moaalua, a part demented Hawaiian, and a well known character about town was placed under arrest on Saturday night charged with making a loud and disturbing noise. Moaalua was assessed a fine of three dollars and the costs this morning. In passing sentence, Judge Monserat took occasion to remark that the offense might not be considered so great in coming from a person of the mental caliber of the defendant.

George Ruah, apparently did not bear out his name according to police records, for he is charged for two weeks past with having been a vagrant and having no visible means of support. Ruah failed to hustle a job and was sentenced to spend five days at the Hotel plant.

Six holdover law breakers rounded up by the police on Saturday and Sunday evening received minimum fines. Five Hawaiians, alleged to be gamblers, were found guilty and paid fines of five dollars each.

Nine more candidates for Territorial office filed their campaign expense accounts in the office of the Territorial Secretary this morning. One of these is Byron O. Clark, the Socialist candidate for Delegate, whose expense was probably the smallest of any recorded following the last election. He explains that the Socialist party does not permit its candidates to spend their own money in a campaign, and therefore his sole expenditure was $5, for announcing his candidacy in the newspapers. His nomination fee was paid by the party.

George P. Cooke, candidate for representative from the Third District, gives just one item in his account. That is $625, which he says he contributed to the Republican campaign fund on Maui. Other accounts filed this morning are: Henry Puni, for Representative from the Fifth District, $41; James K. Leta, for Representative from the Sixth, $25; Samuel K.
