

IN THE WOMAN'S WORLD

WHAT YOUNG GIRLS SHOULD WEAR IN THE FORM OF JEWELS

A few years ago when young girls first began to wear "jewelry" jewelry, mothers, though they allowed it, were shocked at the evidence of such atrocious taste. A long time ago young girls wore no jewelry, and then they were allowed to wear plain gold bandings. Gradually the list of wearables increased and now a girl in her teens may wear any bit of finery she fancies.

Gold rings have been in fashion for a number of years and many girls have more than one finger ring bedecked. Diamonds and other of the precious gems are not in good taste for the school girl, even though they are genuine stones. Large rings, too, are not particularly desirable. A pretty seal or a turquoise in a plain setting is very becoming to the young girl. A ring with two or three small pearls is pretty, too. The long ones that cover a third of one's finger are anything but things of beauty.

Years ago the heavy chain bracelets were very stylish and most every girl owned one. These flopped about and made a deal of noise whenever they happened to strike the back of a chair. The bad row of having a number of silver bracelets that tickled at the movement of the wrist or arm is just about as bad. The old saying "children should be seen and not heard" applies to girls in their teens as well as to the baby and attention attracted through the exhibition of noisy jewelry is just as bad as that called forth by loud talking. Heavy gold bracelets are not becoming to the young girl, for they make her tiny wrist look clumsy. There are so many pretty designs now that are quite suitable for the girl. There are little blocks of gold fastened to a chain with tiny gold chains that are very attractive for one who will not offend them. The silver chain bracelet is far more becoming to the school girl than the gold one.

Many of the little girls of today wear elaborate pins so doubt these belong to mother and are just appropriate for the occasion. Plain gold pins are far more attractive and pretty for a young girl. Sometimes the pair of beauty pins may be set with tiny emeralds or pearls but any of the brilliant stones is very bad taste. The larger the stone with their tiny delicate earlobes the more the girl dislikes.

Every girl likes a pretty necklace. There are many designs that are suitable for the school girl. A chain of pearls is a most precious thing and should be worn only on special occasions. A chain of pearls is a most precious thing and should be worn only on special occasions.

There are many imitation pearls and coral necklaces now that, though they may be pretty, are most inappropriate, and no girl with any thought for the appropriateness of things would wear one.

The ear rings made their re-appearance on the mainland about five years ago but only came to Honolulu during the last year and a half. At first they were looked upon by the young girls with something akin to horror. Later, though, when the women here adopted them, the girls wanted them. Real earrings are very expensive and often the pin money will not purchase a pair, so the girls are wearing the imitation pearl earrings. These are not worn on any one, particularly on a young girl. There are pretty gold earrings of those of turquoise and coral but even they are not becoming to anyone but a grown woman. Then, too, there are only certain types of women who can wear earrings and still appear to have character in their faces. When noticing a young girl who wears earrings, a man said recently: "There is something radically wrong with the seventeen-year-old girl who wears earrings of imitation diamonds and something equally wrong with the mother who will allow it."

Elaborate watches are not for the girl in her teens. There are some pretty enamel ones or those of silver ornamented with pretty designs that are in good taste.

This seems to be the age of imitation jewelry. A number of the wealthy women in Hawaii society wear rings of handsome pearls which are in reality not pearls at all but merely imitations. And so it is with every kind of jewelry. Imitations are so clever that they are often able to make sales and convince people that they have bought the genuine article.

Too many jewels are not becoming to any one, and particularly unbecoming to the school girl. Every girl wants a ring, a necklace and a watch besides a number of little beauty pins and there is no reason why she should not have them but each ornament should be genuine and of a simple design.

ADVICE

This disease is so dangerous and so rapid in its development that every mother of young children should be prepared for it. It is very risky to wait until the attack of cough appears and then send for medicine and let the child suffer until it can be obtained. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a prompt and effective cure and never fails to relieve in any case. For sale by all druggists. Warranted Purely Vegetable.

NEWLYWEDS TAKE RUSH TRIP TO HONOLULU

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—An hour after they were wedded in Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Erickson eluded their rice-baden pursuers yesterday by hurrying aboard the trans-Pacific liner Manchuria as the last farewells were being said at the Pacific Mail dock.

Erickson and his bride, who was Miss Vivian Armstrong, daughter of Mrs. Anna Armstrong of Oakland, were married at noon in St. John's Episcopal Church, Oakland, by the Rev. F. E. Dea. The couple, at the reception which followed the wedding breakfast announced that they would remain in California for their honeymoon. They started away in the midst of the reception and were rushed to the steamer in a taxicab. They will spend their honeymoon in Honolulu.

Mrs. Erickson was graduated from the Oakland High School. She met her husband in the mountains of Placer county while on a vacation.

Erickson is a well-known railroad contractor and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Erickson of San Francisco.

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ill are invited to communicate privately with the women's physician, Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. This letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; that has been established a confidential correspondence which has enabled our many years and which has never been broken. Never have they violated a trust and never a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never a letter to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed by your case. Nothing is more to prevent except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (Incorporated) Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.
