LIPTON CANNOT COME TO HAWAII

Sir Thomas Lipton will not come to Hawaii during his present trip to the Pacific Coast. This is positive information, coming from the Irish sportsman himself, in a cable to Commodore Clarence Macfarlane, received yesterday.

Commodore Macfarlane, who might properly be called the father of the trans-Pacific yacht race, is a personal friend of Sir Thomas, and when the news came that the latter was to be the moving spirit in a yachting venture of 1915, which might include a race from San Francisco to Hawaii, he sent a cable inviting Sir Thomas to come to Honolulu and look the situation over. It read as follows:

"Sir Thomas Lipton, San Francisco. Aloha from Hawaii. Cordially invite you as my guest to visit Honolulu, home of trans-Pacific race. Commodore Macfarlane, Yacht La Paloma."

Yesterday the following answer was line: "Commodore Macfarlane, Yacht La Paloma, Honolulu. Kind telegram received. Nothing would have given me greater pleasure, but regret lack of time prevents

PRESIDENT-ELECT MAY KEEP SECRETARY FISHER IN OFFICE

Local Republicans are highly elated by the persistent rumor on the mainland that President-elect Wilson is likely to retain Walter L. Fisher as Secretary of the Interior. Even though Fisher may not be the new Executive's ultimate choice, friends of the local administration argue that the fact he is considered would seem to indicate Wilson's leanings, and to his approval of the policies Mr. Fisher has been establishing in the Department during his two years in office.

They can see in this an indication on the part of the President-elect to favor the Territorial policy of the present administration so that, even if Mr. Fisher is not again chosen for the place his successor will be expected to continue the policies he has advocated. This would mean that the work of Governor Peary be approved and his resignation desired.

"During his brief term Secretary Fisher has won an enviable reputation," said one Republican today, "and it is recognized by the new President-elect that he is a practical official, in whom the national good is primary, and political party is of only secondary importance. He will realize that Mr. Fisher would reflect credit on the Democratic administration. And if the latter accepts the reappointment it undoubtedly will be, not for the salary it offers, but for the policies which he had framed and desired to put into active operation."

To a man of Fisher's ability the salary paid his office is no inducement. But if he accepts it, then the territories and the interior department certainly are to be conserved. He has in mind a policy for Hawaii, and he undoubtedly would like to remain in office to put it into effect with those to whom the office is attached. His policies with regard to Alaska and the Indians are visiting Honolulu this trip.

"To have had Sir Thomas Lipton make the ocean trip from San Francisco to Hawaii, and see for himself what sort of a run it is, would have been one of the best guarantees that he would try and promote a trans-Pacific race in connection with the international races which he is planning for San Francisco," said Commodore Macfarlane this morning. "If he had come here, I'm sure he would have been greatly interested in the idea. As it is, I think that there is a good chance of the race going through in 1915. For Sir Thomas is not the sort of yachtsman who believes in the purely racing machine, of the skimming dish type. He wants to race real yachts, and I think that the sort of boat which he designs and builds for the proposed race at San Francisco, would be well able to make the run across to Honolulu. Especially as his own boat, and those which might be built in Europe, will beat, thoroughly testing out the capacity of every entry. Incidentally, Commodore Macfarlane has ordered a 55 h. p. engine for La Paloma, and will have her as an auxiliary cruiser by next season."

DEPARTS FROM USUAL SHAKESPEARE READING

At the coming dramatic and musical recital to be given December 8 at the Young Hotel, Mr. John Lavery will give scenes from Macbeth as the principal reading in the evening. A resume of the play and a brief analysis of the characters will be given so that the audience may be able to enter into the atmosphere more completely.

Departing from the dry and formal methods of reading Shakespeare, Mr. Lavery's build each scene in detail, making the characters more realistic to his audience. Several selections of a lighter vein will be on the programme. Among them: "Mile. Prudence" by Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

Mrs. Howard is to depart from the ordinary convention of starting with a prelude and figure of speech, and substitute the first movement from Rossini's Italian tom-tom, which is altogether higher and brighter in style than Mrs. Howard's selections are works from Beethoven, Schuman, Chopin, Liszt and others.

DEMOCRATS PLAN TO CUT CITY SALARIES

A sensation in the way of salary slashing is promised by the Democratic supervisors-elect. The six Bourbons who will constitute the majority of the new board, after the first of the year, held a caucus yesterday morning and went at the salary roll for next year. While nothing definite has been given out as to what will be done, it is whispered that some of the heaviest cuts are to fall in the clerk's and auditor's offices and that the present payroll of the road department office force is to be materially reduced.

The supervisors-elect did not discuss the matter of ousting Fire Chief Thurston because no move was made on the part of any member present to bring up the matter of getting rid of the Republican fire chief and putting a Democrat in office. Most of the supervisors favor retaining Thurston, although they are under much outside pressure to make a clean sweep in department heads and to replace all Republican office holders with Democrats.

BOURBON SOLONS PLANNING NOW COMING MOVES

Not to fall behind their friends, the Republican enemy, the Bourbon senators and representatives elected at the last election are already laying their plans for legislation at the coming session of the lawmaking body. Just what these plans will be must be decided in the near future, for the Democratic lawmakers are determined to go into the session with their plans complete as far as circumstances will permit. They also propose to adhere to the "railroad compact" as closely as possible during the session.

It is regarded as practically certain that the Republicans have already made up their minds to introduce a public utilities bill shortly after the session opens, and with this the Bourbons are planning to get a record of the official attitude of the Republican party toward some of the reforms which the Bourbons urged in their platform.

Of course such matters will be left for settlement until after the new members have shaken together in their preliminary meetings. The representatives, it is asserted, have already laid several times plans, but the senators, owing to the absence of a number of them since election, have been unable to meet each other or to talk matters over with the representatives. This state of affairs will be remedied as soon as possible, and a meeting of the solons arranged for, at which a program will be outlined and provisions made for future meetings at stipulated periods until the legislature opens.

DEAR'S NAME WILL BE SENT

It is almost apparent that an extraordinary session is inevitable, as any other course would invite such adverse criticism as to seriously endanger the success of President Wilson's administration. Bryan is busy. William J. Bryan has been here for a week. He favors legislation by which the regular session of Congress shall follow March 4, thus making extraordinary assemblies unnecessary. He urges the passage of pending bills which would make the change effective. He refuses to discuss the Cabinet formation, or the possibility that he will be offered and accept the Secretaryship of State.

The reactionary and Progressive Democrats in the Senate are lining up for a vicious fight for control of that body when the new Congress comes into existence. The Reactionaries have a small majority as the situation stands, but a long and bitter wrangle appears certain. The stem center will rage about the selection of Senator Simmons as Chairman of the Finance Committee. He is charged with being a Protection Democrat and almost as much wedded to the high tariff duties as was Senator Aldrich when he held that position. The Progressives urged the designation of Senator Stone as chairman. Mr. Simmons is entitled to the place by seniority. The controversy threatens to lose much of the benefit gained by the Democrats through gaining possession of the Senate.

HAWAIIAN SUGAR DROPS A POINT

Hawaiian Sugar was the only sugar stock changing hands on the board today, and it sold down a point to 26.50 for two lots of 50 shares each. Pineapple further declined half a point to 45.25 for 20 shares. Five sugars were dealt in pretty freely in recess. In every case holding last previous quotation, viz: Wai-lua, 20 shares at 100; H. C. & S. Co., 20, 15 and 100 at 34; Pioneer, 100 and 20 at 26; Oahu, 80 at 24.50; Honokaa, 20 and 5 at 8.

to cause any raise of price in that product. However, should the war continue for six months or more, the price would probably go up. Germany, Austria and Russia are great sugar-beet producing countries, and should the crops be left to go to waste in the fields through the absence of the laborers who harvest them, there would no doubt be a greater demand for cane sugar, and especially from the Hawaiian Islands.

The best crops in the three countries mentioned, will be harvested during the middle of next month, and another crop will not be planted until next April, and between the time when the crop is taken off and when a new one is planted would give these nations plenty of time for their warfare, which would probably not last that long. Besides, the greater part of the labor in the fields is done by the women and should the men be called away to a war like the one which is rumored, these crops would still be gotten off and a new one planted. It is therefore doubtful as to whether the war would affect the sugar harvest.

The Governor received a letter from the Interior department, conveying the information that the State Department has given recognition to Georg Rodlek, who will serve at this post as Norwegian consul during the lease of absence of the regular consul for that country.
