

BUILDING TRAIL UP MAUNA LOA IN PREPARATION FOR OUTBREAK

HILO, Sept. 27.—Within the next three or four weeks there will be a first-class trail to the summit of Mauna Loa, work on which has been progressing for the last six months under the direction of the Volcano Station. The work has been going on very slowly on account of the many difficulties to be contended with but is now nearly completed though the hardest part still remains. It has been necessary to haul the water needed by the workmen from the 3000 foot level and in the high and rarified air the laborers cannot do the work which they are able to accomplish when close to the sea level.

Manager Wright states that it is the intention of the company to erect a resthouse about half way up the side of the mountain but that no steps will be taken in this line until the work on the trail is completed and a good opportunity for the selection of a site has been accorded. In speaking of the work there he said:

"We have hurried along this work on account of the fact that the scientists at Kilauea predict that there is likely to be an outbreak of Mauna Loa within the next few months and we wish to be prepared for it. When the last flow took place a great many people suffered extremely and some nearly lost their lives, on account of the fact that they could not find the way. Our trail starts at about the eight thousand foot level and was selected for us by Pele, an old Hawaiian who lives at Kapapala and knows more about the mountain than anyone else. He has acted as guide a number of times always demanding $50.00 and a horse furnished him, sometimes even doubling this price. I understand that this is about the last work that he has done and that at the present time he is dying in Kau."
