COLLEGE CLUB'S APRIL MEETING IS A MUSICAL

The April meeting of the College Club took the form of a musical held at the Christmas church on the afternoon of Tuesday, April 17.

All the numbers of the program were of great interest, rendered by some of Honolulu's best-liked artists.

The second number, "Folk Songs from Kentucky Mountains," sung by Miss Ruth Tubbs, possessed a quaintness all its own. As explained by Miss Ruth Huntington, these songs and others like them have been recently found among the Kentucky mountaineers where they have been passed down by word of mouth for three or four generations.

They are old English ballads taken to that part of the country by the Colonial ancestors of the present-day mountaineers.

The entire program of the musical follows:

1. Andantino, for two violins and piano (Edwin H. Lemare), Miss Margaret Stevens, Mrs. Ernest Ross and Mrs. Bernice Steven.
2. Folk Songs from Kentucky Mountains (collected by Lorraine Wyman), "Barbara Allen," "Fratzy Polly," "The Mary Golden Tree," "Sweet William and Lady Margery," Miss Ruth Tubbs.
3. Waltz from "Caraval" (Schumann), Octave Study (Williams), Miss Ruth Muzzy.
4. "Her Rose" (Coombs), "Sylvan" (Roland), "Nur wer die Sehnsucht kennt" (Tschalkowsky), Miss Bernice Kahanao.
5. Comic Songs—"Old Doctor Ma-Olan" (Lohr), "I've Got the Mumps" (Franklin & Green), Exhortation, a Negro sermon (Cook), Mr. G. Bergmann.
6. "The Spirit of Spring," Miss Leonard Anderson.
7. "Sunlight Waltz" (Harriet Ware), "My Dearie" (Mary Helen Brown), Mrs. Alexander Robertson.
8. "Gavotte" (Rameau), prelude and Allegro (Fugate-Creider), Mrs. Th. Collins.

LITTLE DANGER ANTHRAX SPREAD, SAYS NORGAARD

Territorial Veterinarian Feels Assured Epidemic Will Be Quickly Checked

There is no danger of the anthrax outbreak on Kauai spreading through that island or being communicated to other islands in the territory. This is the opinion today of Dr. Victor A. Norgaard, territorial veterinarian, who was asked by the Star-Bulletin for a report on the epidemic in the Garden Island.

"There is no likelihood of the outbreak spreading," said Dr. Norgaard this morning. "The infected herds are pastured in a well surrounded valley opening out on the sea; all preventive measures, including quarantine, have been taken, the dead cattle are being cremated and enough vaccine to inoculate all cattle infected or exposed to the disease should arrive very shortly and I will at once take it to Kauai and vaccinate all the cattle suffering from or endangered by the disease."

The only ranch to suffer from the epidemic is the Princeville plantation, at Hanalei, Dr. Norgaard says. There are no cattle ranches adjoining the infected pastures. Deaths of cattle from the disease to date have been about 70 head. The disease is such that no cattle ill from it can be shipped. They would die before reaching their destination.

Will Vaccinate by Wholesale
"I will vaccinate about 1000 head of cattle in the quarantined district," said Dr. Norgaard this morning. "I ordered enough vaccine Monday by cable to San Francisco, to inoculate from 1000 to 2000 head and it should arrive soon."

Dr. A. R. Glaskyer, deputy territorial veterinarian for Kauai, is at the Princeville ranch in the Hanalei district, taking every precaution and enforcing the quarantine absolutely. He will remain on duty there until the epidemic has been checked and all danger is past.

Bone Meal is Blamed
As to the cause of the epidemic, the territorial veterinarian believes it due largely to bone meal imported from California, where there has been some trouble from anthrax recently. "In my annual report I warned stock growers not to feed anything but Hawaiian-made bone meal," he said. The meal is fed with salt at the salt licks in cases where pastures are deficient in iron salts. The veterinarian warned cattle men of the territory to insist on getting only bone meal manufactured in the islands.

The entire Hanalei district is under quarantine today and one of the important things to be done after the epidemic is checked will be to do away with infection of the soil which has resulted from skinning the cattle dead from the disease.

Before Dr. Norgaard reached Kauai the cattle men had been skinning the dead cattle and burying their carcasses, where the proper method to have followed should have been complete cremation of the cattle, by pouring oil on the bodies and burning them to ashes. "That is the only safe way to prevent further infection, because if the soil once gets infected the infection continues to stay in the ground and grow," says Dr. Norgaard.

The territorial veterinarian desires to assure stockmen of the territory that there is no possibility of the disease being brought here now and that with all possible precautions being taken the epidemic should be stamped out soon after the vaccine arrives from the mainland and inoculation is given sick cattle and those exposed to infection.

A membership in the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, was sold for $5000, an advance of $200 over the last previous sale.

A bill to amend the revised statutes to prevent the sale of cigarettes or cigarette papers was introduced in the Maine legislature.
