LANE'S DEFEAT BY FERN IS LAID TO 'KNIFING' IN HIS OWN PARTY

cinets, where it was hoped Hopkins would have a show, turned in big majorities for the sheriff. And the fourth district, which was relied upon by the Republican leaders to keep Hopkins in the running, altogether failed to do so. He carried very few precincts.

As to the auditorship, there was nothing to it but Bicknell. Yet the Rose-Fern run pulled Blom, Democratic candidate for auditor, up into unexpected prominence in some precincts.

The two defeated Republican candidates for supervisor, Daniel Logan and W. C. Achl, each made a good run but the independent vote for McClellan and Petrie, together with their Democratic support, landed the brace of Democrats within the charmed circle of seven.

Counting of the ballots was simple and in most cases rapid. Waimanalo again scored first honors with a finished count, the telephone message from this precinct—eleventh of fourth—reaching the Star-Bulletin office at 4:40 o'clock. The polls do not close until 5 o'clock ordinarily, but in Waimanalo the entire registered vote was cast early, after which the judges were allowed to close the balloting and count the votes.

The last precinct to get in its returns was the fourteenth of the fifth—Vinsyard street—which ran until about midnight.

A heavy vote was cast, but the day was generally quiet. Fern's election was the surprise of the occasion—and an unwelcome surprise to the many Republicans who had understood on information from their leaders that Lane was safe.

Though a good deal was said during the day about the "race issue" being raised in the fifth district, the result shows that this was exaggerated. Petrie and McClellan both ran above Ululhi, Kanase and other Hawaiians in the fifth. The leading "haole" Republicans were close up.

Confident that Mayor John C. Lane would be elected and hopeful of an entire board the G. O. P. leaders and workers met last night at their headquarters in the Campbell block to hear the returns after a hard day's work at the polls.

In the Collins building the Democrats also gathered, sure that Rose would defeat Hopkins, but fearful for their supervisor candidates and deep in their hearts holding little hope for the election of Fern as mayor.

As the returns began to come in, first at first from the smaller precincts but slower as time went on and the larger precincts finished their count, the feelings of the Republicans turned from good natured tolerance to surprise and then to utter unbelief as they saw the usually strong Republican precincts breaking even or forging only slightly ahead on the mayor's vote, while in the Democratic strongholds the Fern votes were steadily mounting.

Although at Republican headquarters the hope that a break would occur and some Democratic precincts split calculations and go strong for Lane kept interest at fever heat, but as the hours dragged by and Fern's strength increased and the big avalanche of votes predicted for Lane failed to materialize the word went out that the Bourbon leader had again defeated his old rival and by 10 o'clock the Republicans themselves admitted that Honolulu for the next two years would have a Democratic mayor.

Meanwhile in the Collins building the Democrats awoke from casual interest to frenzied excitement and as it became surer and surer that Fern was beating Lane, the old building shook with the cheers of the Bourbon supporters and immediately a big luncheon was planned.

The causes of Lane's defeat was the point late last night of much speculation especially on the part of the Republicans, for the Democrats were too happy to care how it happened. That the Republican Cohen leaders were to a great extent responsible was admitted by all.

Democrats Better Organized

It was pointed out that in many hipposidly strong Republican precincts Fern also received a much larger vote than in former years. That the Democrats were also better organized throughout was apparent, for at every booth the Bourbon automobiles were in the majority and their workers were hustling hard from early morning until the booths closed at 5 o'clock.

How City Officials For Next Two Years Line Up By Parties

- ++++ Honolulu's city administration for the next two years will be as follows:
 - Mayor—Joseph J. Fern, Democrat.
 - Supervisors—William Ahia, Charles N. Arnold, C. H. Bellini, Ben Hollinger and Ernest A. Mott-Smith, Republicans; William H. McClellan and Lester Petrie, Democrats.
 - City Attorney—Arthur M. Brown, Republican.
 - City Treasurer—D. L. Conkling, Republican.
 - City Clerk—D. Kalauokalani, Republican.
 - Auditor—James Bicknell, Republican.
 - Sheriff—Charles H. Rose, Democrat.
- Of these, City Attorney Brown, City Clerk Kalauokalani and City Treasurer Conkling were elected at the primaries.

board of supervisors, there was considerable pessimism as to how the split board would work together and strife between the two parties was freely predicted. Senator Manuel Pacheco, the well known Democrat, said that for the good of the city he preferred to see a one-party board, but hoped things would work out satisfactorily.

Interviews with the old members of the board who were re-elected showed that they intended to resist any attempts on the part of the Bourbon members to throw out any appointive head of a department.

Race in Doubt Until Last

Up to 10 o'clock, however, the race for mayor was neck and neck and the result in doubt as reports showed first Lane in the lead, then Fern. And the crowd of spectators in front of the Star-Bulletin's returns headquarters gave vent to groans of despair and then yells of delight as the vote fluctuated first for and against their favorite candidate, until Kakaako, reporting at 10:30, brought in a 200 majority for Fern and clinched the election for him.

Bourbon Officers-Elect And Popular Supervisor

SOME POST-ELECTION STATEMENTS

BY SUPERVISOR-ELECT LESTER PETRIE, DEMOCRAT

While the election is still so new that I have hardly fully realized that I am to be a supervisor, I want to say that I intend to do the square thing and give a square deal to everybody as a public officer. I shall do my best to carry out promises made to the people in the campaign that I would stand for economy in city administration and efficiency in office.

Stories that we are out to get the scalp of any efficient office-holder who should be retained are untrue. The fact is that those of our party who have been elected have not discussed the matter of patronage nor mapped out our policies. We hope to gain and to deserve the confidence of Honolulu.

BY MAYOR JOHN C. LANE

I desire through the Star-Bulletin to thank most heartily those who have supported me and who stood by me yesterday.

To this I would add congratulations to my successor in the mayor's office. I feel that the best interests of the city and county of Honolulu will be maintained through the five Republican members of the board of supervisors. They will give efficient and experienced service.

I wish to add a word of thanks to all who supported not only me but the Republican ticket and who worked for its success. Their efforts are deeply appreciated.

BY EDWARD P. FOGARTY

Republican County Chairman and Campaign Manager.

The majority of voters in Honolulu have elected Joseph J. Fern as mayor, Charles H. Rose as sheriff and five Republicans and two Democrats on the board of supervisors.

While we Republicans had worked for and hoped for a Republican success through and through, we accept the verdict of the majority. I am a good loser and have no bitterness over the not a majority on the board of supervisors, we will continue to work for an honest and economical administration.

"Yesterday's election was a good one. The selection of Fern was no surprise. We had expected it all along. We would have elected more supervisors if some of the voters had not favored a split ticket.

"Had it not been for the large number of workers the Republicans had in the various precincts, we would have won all."

McCandless was asked regarding the entire police force working for the election of Rose.

"Police were present to no great extent," he answered. "Some police were on guard. We were afraid there might be some crooked work on and, in some precincts, we asked for police protection."

Regarding the delay of the Bourbons in making public the finding of a block of 32 unused ballots outside their headquarters on the night of the primary election, McCandless asserted it was not an eleventh hour political move, but that the Democrats were waiting for someone else to act, and that person did not act.

National Committeeman Wilson declares he is not surprised at the outcome of the election, but says he is disappointed because more Democratic supervisors were not elected.

"If our Hawaiians had been given better support in the fourth," he said, "we would have secured control of the board. This would have been much more beneficial to the city and county than the present state of affairs."

AD MEN PLAY SOLDIERS; DINE IN ARMY STYLE

Members of the Honolulu Ad Club turned out in large numbers today to partake of the war ration luncheon which was served at the Alexander Young Hotel. It consisted of real war rations, with real army implements and was carried out with attention to detail.

Immediately upon assembling in the lunch room, President Wallace R. Farrington gave the command for the bugle call, and the members marched into the Gold Room, where they were handed army bowls and knives and forks far removed from silverware in a mode.

Upon receiving the implements the members marched into the kitchen where two large kettles held the steaming "mulligan." "Potatoes and bread were placed on the tin trays, and hot coffee was served in regulation tin cups. The members were curious as to the bomblike dishes, but finally discovered that they contained salt and pepper.

James Dougherty sang a song which was featured by Pearl Farrington of the Ingersoll Company some weeks ago. It was entitled, "Some Times You Pick a Good One." The last verse, which was localized, told of the election held yesterday.

President Farrington in a short talk urged the members of the club to get back on any movement of the city officials which would be for the benefit of the city. He also urged that all keep their weather eye on the situation, and protest against any program which would not benefit the good road situation, regardless of politics.

BY L. L. McCANDLESS

Democratic Party Leader and One of Campaign Managers.

Taking everything into consideration, I think the Democratic candidates made an excellent showing at the election yesterday.

BY PROF. W. A. BRYAN

One of Democratic Campaign Managers.

In the campaign preceding yesterday's election the Democrats worked hard for every candidate and at all times advocated the straight ticket. I feel that if every Bourbon had voted the straight ticket we would have won everything.
