NEW TEACHERS OF MID-PACIFIC ARE ANNOUNCED

Miss Mattie Paine of Long Beach, Cal., to Be Principal of Kawaihāo; H. Milnor Blowers to Temporarily Head Mills School

Dr. Robert Day Williams, president of Mid-Pacific Institute, today announced the list of new teachers for Kawaihāo seminary and Mills school for the coming year.

Both of these departments of Mid-Pacific Institute will be under new heads. Miss Mattie Paine of Long Beach, California, will be the new principal of Kawaihāo, taking the place of Miss Katherine N. Adams, who returned to the states. At Mills school, H. Milnor Blowers is to serve as acting principal in place of John F. Nelson, who is spending his sabbatical year at his former home in Loveland, Colorado.

Miss Paine has been an instructor in the Long Beach high school for a number of years, and has been active as well in church and Y. W. C. A. work. Other changes at Kawaihāo seminary are as follows:

Miss Ruth Myrolo, a teacher at the Korean girls' school of this city during the last year, will fill the place left by Miss Mary F. Kinney, who has been granted a year's leave of absence for rest and study in the states.

Miss Mary F. Varley of Oxnard, California, comes to take the place of Miss Edith V. Currier, who has been granted a half-year's leave of absence.

After Miss Currier's return it is the intention of Miss Varley to introduce some new courses in hand work. Miss Ferné Haynes has resigned to return to her home in the states and her place will be filled by Miss Hazel M. Abell of Berkeley, California. Miss Abell's specialty is lower grade and industrial work.

Miss Roselle F. Faast, who has been absent for two years in California, will return this fall to resume her work.

Even more changes than at Kawaihāo are to be made this year in the staff of Mills school, the boys' department of Mid-Pacific Institute.

Besides the change in principalship already announced, there will be one in the farm management. H. H. Yost, farm manager for two years, has returned to California to accept an important position under the state university agricultural department. His place is already taken by Harry Stone, a Berkeley man, and a brother of Robert Stone of the school faculty.

Miss Edith Cold has been appointed for a year to take the place of Miss Elizabeth Jones of the primary department, who is spending her sabbatical year on the mainland.

Miss Cold was a missionary and educator in Turkey until the outbreak of the war, having spent six years in that country. She is a sister of Mrs. Clyde Manley of Honolulu.

Miss Rue H. Beaty of Lead, South Dakota, a teacher of seven years' experience, will take the third and fourth grade work in place of Miss Austa McKittrick, who has returned to her home in Ohio.

Leslie Abell, former instructor in the Oakland Technical High School, will be in charge of the manual training department in place of Jerome L. Mears, returned to the mainland.

Merrit A. Major of Glenwood, Minnesota, succeeds Roy I. Ganfield in the commercial department, and Norman T. Booth takes the place of George Bettin in the seventh and eighth grades. Mr. Bettin is one of the successful candidates for the training camp at Schofield Barracks.

William C. Ross, coach and physical instructor during the past year, is also to enter the camp. His successor is not yet announced.

NIPPON EDITORS ARRANGE PLANS FOR WAGE MEET

Under the guidance of the editors of the Japanese daily newspapers, the Hawaii Shippo, Nippu Jiji, Hawaii Hochi and Hawaii Choho, the mass-meeting for higher wages for Japanese plantation laborers will be held tonight in the Japanese school on Nuuanu street commencing at 7 o'clock.

One hundred leaders and delegates from the Japanese circle, it is reported, will be in attendance. Besides this number, merchants, bankers, physicians, hackdrivers and automobile drivers and others have been invited.

R. Murakami, of the Hawaii Choho, reported this morning that a resolution of special importance will be presented to the meeting for discussion. He did not state, however, what it is.

According to reports current in Japanese circles, the merchants, physicians, bankers, hackdrivers and automobile drivers, saloon keepers and others are expected to turn out at night's meeting.

Should they refuse to respond to the call of the four dailies, their business, it is said, will be boycotted. On this account it is certain that the meeting tonight will be one of the biggest that has been witnessed in Honolulu.

F. B. SMITH LANDS 52 POUND KAKU

Although Francis B. Smith has been known as an amateur fisherman, the real anglers will have to take off their hat to him, as yesterday he landed the record kaku for Hawaii. Fishing off Kaena Point, he landed a kaku which weighed 52 pounds.

Accompanied by Commodore Macfarlane, Honolulu's well known yachtsman, and Ed Paris, another well known yachtsman and angler, Smith started out. Paris and Smith started on Saturday at 1 o'clock on the Crete, owned by Commodore Macfarlane. They trolled along Kaena Point until dark and then joined Smith, who had come over in the Mollifou. The party spent the night on the Mollifou, and the next morning about 6:30 started trolling. There the party met a number of anglers in the Sea Scout.

Smith, with the assistance of Paris and Macfarlane, landed the kaku after a hard fight. The fish was carried about three miles before landing. Many times it jumped out of the water in an effort to shake the hook off.

Paris is an old hand at landing a fish, and the party are now receiving the congratulations of their friends. Commodore Macfarlane gave an example of his ability to handle a yacht on the return trip. According to information received the kaku measured five feet and four inches from tip to tip. This is considered to be a record for Hawaii. After the record catch, it is doubtful if Smith will still be called an amateur.

BOY SCOUT WHO DIED RESCUING FLAG HONORED

Old Glory Draped Over Grave of "Jimmy" Dias, Fatally Hurt in Taking Stars and Stripes From Burning House

In honor of "Jimmy" Dias, a small Spanish boy of Waiailua, whose death followed an accident which occurred after he had attempted to rescue an American flag from the roof of a burning house on July 4, the boy scouts of this island attended special services at the grave of the dead boy yesterday at the Waiailua cemetery.

Dressed in their full equipment which they wear at their encampment at Waiailua, several hundred boys filed into the cemetery and took their places near the grave of the boy. "Jimmy" Dias had been a boy scout himself and a leading member of the Waiailua troop.

Scout Commissioner Roger N. Burnham opened the service with an appropriate explanation of the thought to which the service had been dedicated. Chaplain Ignatius Pealy, U. S. A., delivered an address. Sgt. Sanderson, U. S. A., and scoutmaster of Troop XV, of which Jimmy was a member, told about his experience with the boy.

"Jimmy" Dias had been a member of Troop XV in Waiailua for some time. By his acts of bravery and diligence he advanced rapidly in rank in the scout troop. Not long ago he was given special awards for saving some children from drowning, near Waiailua. His last act of bravery came on July 4, when the mill engineer's house caught fire. "Jimmy" was there. He saw the American flag

Following a word from Addison Kinney, patrol leader, and friend of the dead boy, a large American flag was laid on the grave. The scouts then assembled and stood at attention, while "taps" were sounded over the grave. Then they repeated the scout oath in unison and ended the ceremony by repeating the Lord's prayer.
