STORIES OF CONVICTS

PATHETIC BIOGRAPHIES
BY WARDEN HENRY

W. C. T. U. Holds Monthly Meeting
-- Accepts Invitation to Join
Anti-Saloon League Movement--Mrs. Whitney.

It is probable the mass meeting to be held under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League will be postponed from next Thursday evening, as Pastor Kincaid may continue special services at the Central Union church through the week. Warden Henry of Oahu prison, besides giving prison statistics on the drink question, will present the life stories of some of the prisoners now in his charge. There is much pathetic interest in the narratives.

Mr. Westervelt, chairman of committee, yesterday in person extended an invitation to the W. C. T. U. to participate in the meeting. Mrs. J. M. Whitney, president, strongly commended the movement to the aid and sympathy of the members. This was at the monthly meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The president read a story by Mrs. J. K. Harnay, superintendent of the international association's prison work.

Miss Mary Green reported on her visitations to occupants of police station cells, for which the authorities tendered her all facilities.

Miss Newcomb succeeded Mrs. Austin as secretary of the flower mission, which makes weekly visits to the hospital.

The president read a letter from Susanna M. D. Frye, vice president of the International W. C. T. U., in response to a letter from Mrs. Whitney, wherein the latter had expressed indignation that in the vice president's annual report she had mentioned that the only places not contributing to the Frances Willard Memorial Fund for organizing, were Alaska and Hawaii. Mrs. Whitney explained that Hawaii had certainly done its part in temperance work, and as for the Memorial Fund that matter had never been brought to the attention of the local body. Mrs. Frye stated there had been no intent to belittle the work of the Honolulu W. C. T. U., and Hawaii was only mentioned with Alaska as not having given to the fund in an official way. Mrs. Whitney set forth in her letter that there were about 12,000 white people in a community of 150,000 people, and that the 12,000 were doing missionary work among the other 138,000. Next meeting of the local association will be devoted to the memory of Miss Willard.

Several members spoke of various phases of work which had fallen under notice. Mrs. Rider spoke briefly of the work of the Murphy Club, and said her husband had now given up all his time to temperance work, and was subject to the call of the W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Hana, a Mainland visitor, commented on a lack of white ribbons in Honolulu, saying that in the States members of the W. C. T. U. generally wore the badge of the union. Mrs. Whitney said the reproof was natural, and the ladies should in future wear their small white ribbons.

WHAT IS MAN?

Man is a two-legged animal that chews tobacco and walks on the forked end.

Most men were born. We never heard of but one who wasn't, and he was made out of mud--just for sample. Man is found in most parts of the world. He roams at will, feeds in the day time and sleeps at night--some nights.

He is very tame. You can go up to and put your hand on him anywhere so you don't put it on his pocketbook; he has under such conditions been known to kick.

Man's life is full of disappointments, patent medicines and cob pipes.

He goeth forth like a lion in the morning and leaves the wood for his wife to chop. In the evening sneaks home with his pants ripped and raises Cain about "hard times."

Man is like a dog--howls a great deal and runs around at night.

Like the elephant, he has a trunk but he don't always take it with him--the elephant does.

Men are like nails in one respect; in nine cases out of ten where either of them are crooked, they have been driven to it by women.

Men are like chickens--they always want to get on the highest roost.

No man will swear before a lady; he always lets her swear first.

Little things sometimes worry a man most--twins, for instance.

Man may enjoy taking his sweetheart upon his knee, but after marriage he doesn't like to be "sat upon."

Man flourishes like a ragweed today and tomorrow the undertaker has him salted away in his box.

Now, as to what man is really good for, anthropology is still in the dark. Being strong he is used to draw pictures, carry news and pull revolvers. Properly trained, man can jump higher than any known animal. He has even been known to jump mountain resort hotels.

Although in many ways man is like other animals, in this respect he differs from all: He lies while standing up.

Too good an artist--Cholly--Why did you--aw--send your man off? Algy--He took me for a hand--so smooth it looked like one of those weedy-made ones.--Ex.

MAYOR GIVES OATH ON NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS

McKeesport, Pa., Jan. 1.--Mayor Robert J. Black has again written his name high up on the wall of the temple of fame. He has set an example for Mayors of cities all over the country in administering the oath of persons desirous of turning over a new leaf on New Year's Day. Sixty-seven repentant citizens of McKeesport made an effort to start a new life this morning by accepting the offer of the Mayor to administer the oath free of charge. At least two of these makers of good resolutions have already fallen by the wayside and are back behind the bars at the Central police station tonight, too much overcome with their good intentions to stick to the oath.

The Mayor was at his office early this morning to help the citizens of McKeesport make an early start on the right road. Nine of the unfortunates who had celebrated the arrival of 1902 too much were ready for him and took the oath in place of a fine for drunkenness. Within two hours the first man who took the oath was back again in the patrol wagon.

"What did you mean by taking the oath and then breaking it?" inquired the Mayor.

"Couldn't (this) help it, yer Honor. Couldn't (this) help it. First vasus--shew didn't (they) take."

He will be a victim of the Mayor's resolution to drive it into delinquents at the hearing tomorrow morning.

The second man who fell from the state of grace into which he had been sworn this morning had a really good excuse. He was comparatively sober when discharged this morning. This evening he was hopelessly drunk again.

"Easy to see why I did it," he explained. "Just felt so good to think I had thrown off that demon of drink I got drunk to celebrate."

He will be another victim of the Mayor's resolution to be severe in police court tomorrow.

The number of good resolutions sworn to did not meet with the expectations of the Mayor. He rather thought that out of a city of 46,000 there should be at least several hundred who would be willing to make a good resolution on New Year's morning.

The resolutions sworn to this morning were of all grades, from quitting the use of cigarettes and profanity to a total abstinence of "Fussfungle," a drink found nowhere else in the world except on McKeesport's "Bowery."

One man swore that he would never lend money for a year, and one victim of the night before agreed not to abuse his wife and family during 1902.

The innovation is considered a success and the Mayor says that it will be an annual feature of his administration in the future.

PROGRESS AT PIONEER

Lahaina, Jan. 11.--The Pioneer Mill at Lahaina is grinding on some fine looking cane and from the appearance of the various fields will continue to do so for some time to come.

With the contemplated changes and addition to their water supply, the company will be in a position to materially reduce the cost of operating their pumping plants. It is likewise the intention of the company through its energetic manager, Mr. Earkhausen, to introduce electricity as a motive power, to be developed by water from the mountains. Altogether the future of the property is exceedingly bright.

SIMPLICITY OF SCIENCE.

Science is always simple. It's only quackery that juggles with jargon. Medical treatment of the past dealt with "simples," the pure vegetable remedies provided by nature. Sagwa is compounded of simples. It is purely vegetable. It is scientific, because it is based on the known curative properties of the herbs, roots, barks and gums which it contains. It is the most efficient blood purifier and blood builder known. Ninety per cent of diseases are curable by the prompt and proper use of Sagwa. It expels from the blood all corrupting and corroding elements and builds up a new body with new blood. There is no substitute for Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. Hobron Drug Co., agents for the Kickapoo Indian Remedies.

Medeiros, France, has probably the distinction of having the first motor car savings bank. It consists of an electric motor carriage containing four seats, one for the driver, two for the clerks, and one for a cashier. This vehicle carries a small safe and folding shelves make a desk for persons standing outside the vehicle who are depositing. It travels about the country, making short stops at the village on stated days, and receives such sums as the inhabitants of the neighborhood desire to deposit.

The Grippe. This can be avoided by taking teaspoonful doses of PAIN-KILLER in hot water sweetened, as well as by external application, full directions are on each bottle. A bottle of Pain-Killer kept in the house will prove valuable not only for the Grippe, but for ordinary coughs and colds. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis'. Price 25c, and 50c.

ROBBERS OUT OF JOB

BURGLAR ALARMS HAVE INJURED THE PROFESSION

Big Steals of Years Ago Now Practically Impossible--Noted Burglars Become Petty Thieves.

The modern burglar alarm renders it impossible for one to disturb a vault protected with it without detection. It has driven the old style bank burglar out of business. The few living experts of that class of crooks are found either in abject poverty or devoting their genius, which brought them millions twenty years ago, to the practice of crime of the most petty character.

The electrical burglar alarm of today and the great modern safes are the result of a series of bank robberies extending over a period of twenty or thirty years which were conceived and successfully carried out by a band of criminals, many of whom are alive today. Strange as it may seem these men have driven themselves out of business.

The wealth which they stole made the invention of mechanical devices which would foil their skill necessary, and they came in the course of time, until today a robbery like that of the Manhattan Bank, or that of the Ocean Bank in New York city, in which more than a million dollars in money and securities were carried away, is wholly impossible.

One of the best living illustrations of the old school of crooks is Maximilian Schindler, better known to the police of the world as Count Max Schindler. After delving the vaults and safe makers of the world and looting banks in this country and abroad for an aggregate gain of $5,000,000 this great criminal fell a victim to modern science. He was released not long ago from the Clinton Prison after a five years term for robbing the Midwayburg bank, penniless, gray with age, broken in health and spirit.

Some of the big jobs that Schindler engaged in were the robbery of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company a mine at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., of $2,299,000 in cash by tunneling his way to the vault from an adjoining building; the robbery of the Vaipou, N. H., bank of $200,000; the robbery of the St. Albans, Vt., bank of $2,500,000; the robbery of the Ocean Bank in New York city, of $1,000,000 in money and securities; and the robbery of the West Maryland bank of $250,000.

Convey Johnson, a man who stole over $2,000,000 in his time, and penitentiary for long ago while serving a term in prison for stealing a pocketbook from a woman in a New York city book store. He took the pocketbook because he was in genuine need. In his time he was one of the most skilled and successful thieves in the country, but the hold for his peculiar talents had disappeared.

An almost similar case is that of Edward Rice, better known to the police as Big Ed Rice. He was last arrested for stealing a pocketbook from a woman in a Twenty-third street car in New York City. Once or twice before that he had been accused of picking pockets, but the crimes could not be fastened on him.

When convicted of the street car robbery Rice broke down and confessed that he had turned pocketpick because there was nothing else for him to do. "The only money he had for over a year was what he could raise by pawing the scrippins, watches and articles of jewelry he had stolen from men and women in street crowds. This confession from a man who, with his associates, had stolen millions in his time, was interesting. Next to Schindler he was regarded as the most dangerous bank robber in the country.

Around the country today there are probably a score of other crooks who turned and made fortunes by their nerve and skill in the palmy days of the craftsmen. But their day has passed and every year two or three of them are picked up for some trifling crime that fifteen or twenty years ago they would have scorned to think of committing.

Electricity and the modern safe has driven them to the wall. Gradually they are dying off.

James Dunlap, the great bank burglar, and partner of Bob Scott, who was pardoned by Governor Russell of Massachusetts in 1876 was recently arrested in Chicago while polishing a set of the portable burglar's tools that Max Schindler invented. Bent with age and his eighteen years of prison life, combating his life away with consumption, this one-time brilliant thief worked away, over his tools, which as he afterward confessed, he was going to use to break into a candy store.

Lueker, far luckier than these men, who have lived to taste the bitterest experience of life, are the score or more men who used to be associated with them years ago, but either died in prison or with their boots on which generally means by the bullet or the knife. Truly, the old-time bank breaker is passing away.--New York Sun.

She--Poor fellow! So you loved and lost, did you?

He--No, I can't say that I lost anything. She returned all my presents.--Chicago News.

"What was it that the Englishman saw in his nightmare that made him yell so fearfully?"

"It was either a Boer or a Fenian."--Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Man's self-esteem will now and then make honest judgment fall; For sometimes he's a Jonah when He thinks he is a whale.
