NO LOCAL MONEY FOR BOND ISSUE

NO DEMAND HERE FOR BIG BOND ISSUE

Local Banks and Capitalists Hardly Likely to Make Any Bids.

FOUR PER CENT NOT HIGH ENOUGH RATE

Purchasers Expected to Be National Banks on Mainland—Attractive Feature There.

There will not be a local bidder for the $1,500,000 issue of Territorial bonds when sealed proposals are opened on July 27 in the office of the Territorial treasurer here and at the office of the United States Mortgage & Trust Company in New York City, according to present indications.

Bankers, brokers and business men generally unite in saying that just now these Territorial bonds do not look like the most attractive investments for local capital, and that local investors have so far indicated no desire whatsoever to take any of the public securities.

The fact that the bonds bear only a 4 per cent interest is the explanation, and money can be placed for far better advantage here than in these 4 per cent, according to the consensus of opinion from well-informed business men. Local bankers and capitalists can readily get 6 per cent interest for their money on high-class loans, and 7 per cent, and even higher on real estate loans.

This is no argument against the gilt-edged character of the bonds, which are admitted to be first-class in every way. The objection to them for local investment is that money is at a higher premium here than in Eastern money centers.

The bonds have one feature that makes them desirable to national banks on the mainland and would (Continued on Page 4)

AUTO ACCIDENT; BORGES INJURED

Rodgers J. Borges, an employe of E. W. Quinn, the plumber, was struck by an automobile and seriously if not fatally hurt shortly after noon today. The accident happened in a collision between a motor cycle, on which Borges was riding, and an automobile driven by Charles B. Cottrell, engineer of the Kahili pumping station.

While endeavoring to turn into the Kahili pumping station avenue in his machine, Cottrell struck the motor cycle. The two machines collided so violently that Borges and his motor cycle were dashed to the road, the rider receiving two deep cuts in the forehead, another on his right leg and several bruises in the chest and face. Cottrell stopped his machine instantly and went to the assistance of Borges. In the meantime the neighbors rushed out of their houses to the scene of the accident. The unfortunate young man was sent to the Queen's Hospital in the police ambulance. Sergeant Nawahi was present.

According to those who witnessed the accident, Cottrell was running his machine directly at the rear of the Kahili-bound car, when, in turning into the pumping station avenue, he struck Borges, who was coming into town. He was coming in at full speed, according to witnesses.

The police are investigating the accident. Cottrell declares he is not to blame for the accident.

The case of Y. Takakawa versus Ichiro Yamamoto, in which Lorrin Andrews was attorney for the plaintiff has been discontinued.

Frank Pabis, administrator of the estate of Manu (W), deceased, filed the receipt for his claim in full against the estate today.

Claim Fraud In Signing Pay-Roll

Latest Development In Clean-Up Day Confusion Is Startling

Alleged forgery of names on the pay-rolls of the City and County of Honolulu is the latest and most serious development resulting from the controversy over County employes turned over to the citizens' committee on Clean-Up Day.

The apparent forgery was discovered yesterday afternoon when Supervisor Eben Low and E. A. Berndt, chairman of the Clean-up Day executive committee, found out that the name of "Nunu," one of the men employed in the clean-up work, is written on County pay-roll in a signature that is not his own. The discovery at once gave rise to the suspicion that a large part of the County pay-roll may be falsified, and that laborers' names may be signed to it by other persons.

Since the story was first made public Low has been working on the case and has enlisted the help of Sheriff Jarrett. Men have been chased up from the country to explain the reason why their names appeared on the two pay rolls. Some of these admitted having drawn the double money.

The man named Nunu, who has been working down the country since that time, according to his own statement, was rounded up by Low and sent to get his pay from the County officials. Low became suspicious, however and rang up Emil A. Berndt, Chairman of the Clean-up Day executive committee.

Signatures Differ.

"When Low rang me up," said Mr.

Berndt this morning, "I sent my bookkeeper over with the list for comparison. Low looked over this and found out that Nunu had already signed our list. He asked him what the number of his ticket was and he replied '393.' Finally he admitted having signed our payroll.

"Low then made him sign his name on a separate slip of paper as he had a hunch that everything was not alright. Nunu signed it readily enough and Low found that it corresponded with the signature on our list. He then compared it to the signature on the county payroll but they were entirely different. Nunu denied having signed any roll but the Clean-up one. As far as Low can ascertain the signature on the county roll is a forgery and someone has drawn the two dollars that were coming along to Nunu's name.

For investigation.

"I have not heard anything further in connection with it except that a thorough investigation will be made. Low is determined to straighten out everything in connection with the matter and there is no doubt that he will be able to find out who signed the county roll."

Eben Low was not in town today having gone around the island with the Mayor and Sam Dwight on a tour of inspection and therefore no further details could be obtained as to what his subsequent investigations into the case have brought to light.

HAWAIIAN PEDAGOGUES INSURGE

Thirty-one Hawaiian teachers, all insurgents and all insuring enthusiastically, made up one of the biggest features of the convention of the National Education Association at San Francisco, according to news from the Coast.

The Hawaiian delegates joined forces with Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, the Chicago educator and leader of the insurgents, and all fought to down what was termed an "oligarchy" in control of the association. That they succeeded in part is evident from the fact that Superintendent Pope was made one of the directors.

"We have been so impatient to get here," explained Miss A. Z. Hadley, who, a native of Philadelphia, has had more than twenty years of experience as a teacher in the islands, until she now refers to sunny Hawaii as "home."

"We thought we would arrive yesterday, but we had not taken the weather into consideration. It was rough and nasty most of the time and most of us have had the expected "experiences." That is all over, however, and now that we are here, we are ready to get in and assist Mrs. Young, and if necessary fight to the bitter end.

"We feel that the West ought to be well represented in the coming struggle, and Hawaii is going to do the best it can to bring to an end the oligarchy that has been in control of the association for so many years."

The insurgents were Miss Alice Brown, Miss D. Barnes, Mrs. Fred Carter, Mrs. D. Chalmers, Mrs. Champerlain, Miss F. Collins, Miss L. Day, Miss P. Dyke, Mrs. L. Frain, Miss Heuser, Miss A. Z. Hadley, Miss Loe, Miss M. Ladd, W. C. Merritt, Miss M. Mossman, Mrs. L. G. Marshall, Mrs. A. Q. Marcellino, Miss O'Rourke, Mrs. L. Rosenberg, Mrs. L. A. Sabey, Mrs. A. Self, Mrs. Mary L. Simpson, Miss Spalding, Mrs. U. Storm, C. R. Weatherbe, Miss Wrincek, Miss N. C. Wong, George Duncan, Mrs. D. C. Lindsay, Mrs. J. McKay.

HOW "OPIUM RING" IS OPERATING

That opium has been landed in Hawaii in large quantities during the last few months and then sent on to San Francisco by coasting steamers and sailing vessels is the conclusion reached by Federal authorities on the Coast. Interesting details of the workings of the "opium ring," which is believed to be under probe now by the Federal grand jury here, are given in the Coast newspapers. One of the San Francisco papers says:

"That certain vessels plying between Chinese ports and San Francisco have been used for months by certain members of the crews as vehicles for the transportation to this port of opium (Continued on Page 6)

"MACOMB IDEA"

Brig. Gen. Macomb's plans for an army post on the waterfront here and for sanitation work in connection with its construction, have been forwarded to Washington. The "Macomb idea" as it has come to be known, will not be given out in detail at this end, but will be examined by the Hon. Leonard Wood, and a decision reached. This may take several months, it is believed by army men here.

The local army men, the territorial and the city and county authorities are all hoping for speedy action on the plans. The sanitation campaign of the territory will be largely influenced by the plans for the army post.

SUICIDE ON ZEALANDIA

James Collins, a British subject, and supposedly temporarily insane, committed suicide by jumping from the deck of the Canadian-Australian liner Zealandia a few days after that vessel had sailed from Sydney, N. S. W., en route to Suva and Honolulu.

Such was the report made by Captain Phillips and his officers to the newspaper men who boarded his vessel as she lay at the Alakea wharf upon arrival last evening.

Collins had been under police surveillance at the New South Wales metropolis pending the departure of the Zealandia. On the day of sailing he was placed on board that vessel and was under lock and key until the liner had passed well outside the Heads.

Collins was then given his liberty, it being claimed that he was a deportee and was to be delivered to the authorities at Victoria immediately upon arrival at the British Columbian port.

His actions, while somewhat peculiar, did not cause an unusual vigilance to be used. One evening he was seen to pace the deck displaying extreme agitation. Before the few steamship officers who were on the lower deck of the vessel really comprehended his intentions, Collins had leaped to the rail and, swinging well out from the ship, propeller, dropped into the seething seas and was lost to view. Although the ship was just about, all efforts to find the man were unsuccessful.

The case of K. Kamani, K. Yamamoto, K. Oki and B. Kobayashi, trustees against William Henry, High Sheriff of Hawaii, was discontinued this morning by Lorrin Andrews, attorney for plaintiffs.

FOUR ORDINANCES MAY BE DRAFTED TO COVER FOOD PROTECTION REQUIREMENTS

A "blanket ordinance," designed to serve in a general way for the protection of all kinds of food, is believed by the members of the city and county health and sanitation committee to be impracticable. Such was the sentiment expressed by Supervisor McClellan at a meeting of the board last evening.

McClellan claimed that the drafting of a comprehensive measure had resulted in failure when attempted by a former board. According to present plans, it is the intention to draw up a series of perhaps four different ordinances, one to apply to the protection

DUTY BUILT UP PLANTERS, HE DECLARES

John D. Spreckels Tells Investigating Committee of Situation Here.

SAYS NO BENEFIT TO CITIZENS AT LARGE

Testifies That Hawaiian Holdings of Himself and Adolph Amount to Less Than One Million Dollars.

BY C. S. ALBERT.
(Special Bulletin Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—The sugar investigation being conducted by the House special committee, of which Representative Hardwick is chairman, resumes operations July 10. A point is expected to be reached within a few days when matters of interests to Hawaii will develop.

Judge S. M. Ballou, of Hawaii, is a regular attendant at all sessions of the committee, but has taken no part in the examination of witnesses.

John D. Spreckels when appearing before the committee made some statements regarding his interests in Hawaii. He said the planters of the Hawaiian islands own the California-Hawaiian sugar refinery at Crockett, California, 28 miles from San Francisco. It is known as the Factor Company. He was not a member of the company, he said. Its capacity runs about 800 tons a day. Its president is R. P. Rithet. He testified that (Continued on Page 6)

DEAL BY HAWAIIAN SUGAR MEN IS LARGE

BY C. S. ALBERT.
(Special Bulletin Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—Much interest is manifested here in the announcement received through consular advice that Hawaiian capitalists are prepared to erect a million-dollar sugar refinery at San Carlos, Occidental Negros, in the Philippine Islands. It will be the first establishment of that kind in the archipelago. The annual capacity will be 20,000 tons.

In addition to the refinery, large sums will be expended for equipping a 20-mile tramway and in building ocean wharves.

The plantations in the San Carlos district now furnish from 12,000 to 14,000 tons of raw sugar a year.

SUICIDAL ATTEMPT IS UNSUCCESSFUL

Ellis McCandless, an American living on King street a little below Liliha, attempted to commit suicide this morning by jumping from a second-story window. He was not badly hurt and is being held at the police station, where his mental condition will be examined into. It was first reported that he was badly hurt, but this proved to be incorrect. He is a middle-aged man and said to be a sign-painter.
