Among many other things I remember his having told us, writes Wyatt Eaton, the painter, about Whittier, in the Century, was that he voted for Lincoln four times. At each of two elections he voted as a citizen and as a Presidential Elector. He told about a man from one of the Western States having made a pilgrimage to Amesbury to see him. Not finding him at the house, he went to the grocery store, where he was told that Whittier might be found. Sure enough, there was Whittier, seated upon a barrel, in the midst of a group of village people, telling stories. The man was so disgusted that he turned and went home without making himself known to the poet.

Whittier was much pleased that I had once attempted to make illustrations for his "Maud Muller" and that I had some acquaintance with his poetry. Of the "Maud Muller" he told me he was once driving along a country road with his sister. They came upon a very pretty young girl making hay. They stopped and he asked his sister to speak to her. While standing before them the girl raked a little hay over her bare feet. Brightness reigned supreme at Oak Knoll. Whittier was one day making sport of his cousins' difficulties with their bonnets, to which one of them replied: "A man who has to go to Philadelphia to get his coat cut should not criticize women's bonnets."

Whittier's loyalty and generosity were shown by his concern of the fact that I was not also making a portrait of Oliver Wendell Holmes. He was strong in his praises of all of his contemporaries, but particularly of Holmes. "Why," he would say, "Holmes is in many respects the greatest of us all."

The word "Bible."

The word Bible furnishes a striking instance of the word's rise from very low to high estate. To the bulk of English-speaking folk it now means the book of books. In Chaucer's day it meant any book whatever, or scroll. Tracing the word Bible straight home we find it as bublos, but another name for the papyrus reed of Egypt.

Rheumatism has been cured in a multitude of cases during the past sixty years by PAIN-KILLER. This potent remedy rubbed vigorously in and around the suffering parts, will relieve all stiffness, reduce the swelling, and kill all pain. The most stubborn cases yield to this treatment when persevered in. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis'. 25c. and 50c.
