OTHERS' OPINIONS.

Many Thanks.

The male portion of the population of Bonner's Ferry are a nervy lot of men. Not the least disheartened over the recent fire which wiped the business portion of the town out of existence, they are making preparations to rebuild and place the town on a solid basis by incorporating and securing a government patent to the townsite. Last week they held a public meeting and decided to apply to the board of county commissioners for a municipal charter to the territory embraced in Fryetown, under the name of Bonnerport. A committee was appointed to prepare the necessary papers and apply to the government for a townsite patent. A board of trustees was appointed and steps were taken to have the townsite surveyed at once. It takes just such men as Bonner's Ferry possesses to build up and maintain a prosperous town and they will succeed in spite of misfortune. — Cœur d'Alene Press.

Our Senators.

Judge Goodwin of the Salt Lake Tribune, having spent several months in Washington sizing up the senators, delivered an interesting lecture and sketched a few senatorial characters. Concerning our two senators he said:

"Shoup doesn't make much noise, but is one of the truest men I ever took by the hand. Idaho doesn't appreciate him as she should.

"Dubois is making fame fast, and is a great fighter. He jumps into the ring like a gladiator and is dangerous to fool with.

"Senator Hoar is a pleasant-faced old fellow, who looks as if he would have taken the whole world into his arms if he wasn't afraid of soiling his coat, but Fred Dubois knocked him out in the first round."

Refreshing Coolness.

Comptroller Eckells' speech, published in the Chronicle today, is certainly one of the most remarkable utterances of that remarkable man. If the public were not aware of the awful introspective solemnity which characterizes all of this pedantic official's pedagogic deliverances, some of his statements might be taken for refined if somewhat labored ironical humor. The assertion that the New York banks have scrupulously held aloof from all efforts to obtain the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law is only equaled in refreshing coolness by the statement that the banking interest of the country should receive greater consideration from the government than the miner, the farmer and the tradesman.—Chronicle.

End Will Come.

It is pretty difficult to unravel the tangle of contradictory reports from Washington on the subject of the prospects of the repeal bill. One day we are told that Mr. Cleveland has declared his determination to sign no bill which is not for unconditional repeal. Before it closes we have the announcement that he has reconsidered this determination; has consented to a compromise. Then this is again contradicted, and he is pictured as maintaining without the slightest disposition to waive his original attitude of unbending opposition to compromise; and we are told this morning that the repeal senators feel that way. Then comes simultaneously the report from another quarter that that the democratic senators are saturated with the spirit of compromise, and that compromise is the order of the day and the eventuality of the struggle. One thing is pretty certain: An end of some sort will come to the contest some time.—Pioneer Press.

Ready for Business.

A new building 24x60 feet, with an addition 12x60, on Main street in the town of Bonnerport will on next Monday contain a complete stock of general merchandise under the ownership of Messrs. A. L. Jameson and G. R. Gray, formerly of the Holley Hardware Co.

Messrs. Jameson & Gray have been constantly on the rustle since the fire of Sept. 26, and are now ready to serve the people of this section of the country to anything from a ship's anchor to a needle. In addition to a complete line of hardware which they will carry, Messrs. Jamieson & Gray will add a full line of groceries, furnishing goods, boots shoes and dry goods. In fact it will be a general merchandise stock in the fullest sense of the term.

Messrs. Jameson & Gray deserve their share of the patronage of the people in this section and we have no doubt that they will get it.

A Prize Poem.

The following poem won for its author, the editor of the Rocky Mountain Celt, the prize of $1,000 offered for the best appeal poem to newspaper readers to pay up their subscription:

Lives of poor men oft remind us
Honest men don't stand no chance;
The more we work there grow behind us
Bigger patches on our pants.

On our pants, once new and glossy,
Now are stripes of various hue,
All because subscribers linger
And won't pay us what is due.

Let us then be up and doing;
Bring your mite, however small,
Or when snows of winter strike us
We shall have no pants at all.

A New Discovery.

While John Masson, Sill Falom and Ed Evans were out deer hunting in the neghborhood of Crossport last week they discovered a galena cropping, which upon further investigation proved to be part of a nine-foot ledge. They brought specimens of the find back to town and experts pronounce the ore to be of very good grade. The boys returned with equipments for further work on the prospect. This is the nearest find of any importance to the town so far reported, and if future researches do not fail it will prove to be one of the richest.

In this connection it is remarkable that a thorough prospect of the hills around Bonner's Ferry has never been made. On the theory that distance lends enchantment to the eye the remote regions of British Columbia have been tramped over a thousrnd times while our home facilities are left alone. It is still more remarkoble when it is remembered that the ore of this region is so much easier mined and conveyed so much sheaper to the smelter than Canadian ores.
