To the Public—The City Treasurer.

Mr. Enright: In a free government good faith and fair dealing are the only sure foundations on which public transactions can safely be placed.

These remarks are particularly applicable to the nomination of the city treasurer. It was agreed by the several candidates for that office that the names of all persons voting at that poll should be fairly registered, and that the result of the vote should determine the result.

It is high time that such proceedings were denounced, and stopped. Good men of all parties must unite to put an end to them, or the city will soon become a prey to the worst men in it.

I have written this card in no spirit of disappointment over the result of that contest; but because I have left the pride of character which was my own, and my own honor, to be cherished for himself and his fellow citizens; and I would not see it lost by such reckless rivalry.

The damage resulting from the storm on Thursday was not so great as was apprehended. It had rained all night, and the water had been rising for some time.

The damage sustained by the several railroads centering in the city was comparatively trivial, and resulted only in the suspension of a few trains.

TRANSFERS OF REAL ESTATE—On yesterday the following transfers were made in real estate at the office of the county auditor:

The Atlantic Restaurant.

This magnificent new restaurant, 173 South Illinois street, opposite the Union Depot, is one of the most popular institutions in the city.

The proprietors, Messrs. O'Leary & Stahl, spare no expense or effort to supply their larder and their bar with the very best articles that the market affords.

On Monday night Mrs. More takes a benefit. The "old lady" is a deservedly popular, and on this occasion was particularly so.

A rich growth of hair produced, the natural color restored, (not dyed), and all diseases of the scalp, falling out, etc., cured by using "Garnet," the infallible hair restorer. Price $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

—A man well known in Detroit, who a short time since was unfortunate enough to have his wife taken away from him by the return from the city of her first husband, has succeeded in reconciling the matter and bringing his wife back again. Rumor says he paid $500 for her.

—It appears from an official return that there are at present 2,352 religious houses in Italy, which 1,206 are for men, and 876 for women.

—The telegraph lines were, as a general thing, down, and consequently there was received no reports at the various offices, which makes our information necessarily meagre.

—The discharge of the St. Albans raiders has created a bad feeling, and though the government is inclined to reciprocate the friendly sentiment of many of our soldiers.

—The Richmond Equivocal of the 27th says the situation in North Carolina becomes more and more interesting.

—The market for beef cattle has again been very quiet this week.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Information from the advance of the Army of the Potomac, dated Hatcher's Run, Thursday morning, shows that the locality of our army under Grant at that time was a parallel road, east of Boydston plank road, and west of Hatcher's Run.

Richmond papers of Wednesday report that Gen. Sheridan passed Diviside Court House on Wednesday morning, and they think his destination is South Side road.

AGUSTA, Ga., March 30.—A force reported to be under Grierison one day last week made a demonstration on Tupelo, Miss., but were driven off.

Gen. Washburn offers from $500 to $1,000 for the capture and conviction of guerrillas within 50 miles of Memphis.

REBEL DESERTERS in the vicinity of Meridian, Miss., defy the authorities, and threaten to annihilate the militia and burn their houses if they attempt to oppose them.

The World's Army of the Potomac special has the following:

The grand movement of this army is not yet fully developed. It had its origin this morning. Several days of unusual activity have prevailed in the service of the army.

Orders were issued yesterday to the troops expecting to participate in the movement to hold themselves in readiness to move to-day at 6 o'clock precisely.

As fresh troops arrived they were placed in the works vacated by the 2d corps, and threw up the 5th corps met with more stubborn opposition.

Gen. McNeill, first brigade, 2d division, sent out a small party toward Danvers Mills to reconnoitre. One shot was fired at the party, causing the only casualty to the regiment for the day.
