CHAFEE'S AUTOMATIC ROTATING HARROW. Patented May 25th, 1858.

The attention of manufacturers of agricultural implements, and the raisers of small grain, is invited to a recent and most valuable improvement in the construction of the Harrow, invented by V. M. CHAFEE, of Grayville, Illinois. In this new implement the teeth are inserted in two self revolving horizontal wheels, by which the furrow of the teeth are made to cross the line of the direction of the harrow, and as the teeth go round the circuit of the wheel every time the harrow moves forward the length of the diameter of the wheel, each tooth has just three times the effect of a tooth in a straight harrow, consequently it does its work far better, and with less draft. On passing over the ground with this harrow, leaves it better harrowed than by two passages with the ordinary harrow. It is much lighter draft upon the team, and what must be a great consideration with every practical farmer, in passing over corn or stubble ground, it keeps itself entirely free of stalks, as by its action it scatters them on each side of it.

The inventor proposes to sell the right to manufacture these Harrows, for any given Territory, either Counties or States, at moderate prices. He will also sell single Harrows, and on the receipt of $15 he will ship a good six feet Harrow to any part of the country, the purchaser paying freight. Address, V. M. CHAFEE,

THE EYE!

THE EYE!!—OF ALL THE ORGANS which beneficent nature has endowed man with, the EYE is the most important, most complex, and most delicate in organization. From its exposed situation, it is constantly liable to disease which assumes varied forms, and which, when neglected or maltreated, too frequently terminate in blindness. It becomes, therefore, necessary the life practitioner shall be thoroughly versed in not only with the structure of the eye ball and it appendages, but that he shall have a most accurat and perfect knowledge of all diseases to which that organ is liable.

In presenting this card for public consideration, I would observe that after an experience of over ten years in the principal opthalmic hospitals of Europe, together with the advantage of a large private practice, I am prepared to treat all diseases of the Eye with that certainty of success which can only be accomplished by years of experience.
