THE BALTIMORE & OHIO R. R.

In these times of railroad disasters, when the coming home with corporal fragments in a box, is the rule, it is well for the traveling public to select roads whereon is exercised that careful management that ensures safety to life.

We have spent half of our life in traversing the country on railroads, and have yet to get mixed up in the first smash-up, or to be tumbled out of a berth by collisions or accidents.

A WOMAN left a happy home in Omaha some weeks ago, and came to live in Davenport with another man. A few days ago the husband arrived and the 'other man' dodged out of the back door and left the woman to face the music alone.
