

Russell fanned ten of the National Leaguers, but wilted in the last frame.

Yesterday the suits of the players attracted much more attention than did the ball game. The Sox wore suits with an American flag on each sleeve. The Giants wore gray suits with a blue stripe in them, shields of the national colors being on each sleeve. White stockings with a stripe of blue and one of red, blue caps with red visors and white stripes, and red coats trimmed in blue and white finished off the Sox costumes.

Instead of coats the Giants wore sweaters with a shield on the front, and their stockings were of purple and white, as during the regular season.

Each team has two sets of uniforms, and they will alternate in wearing the white and gray.

Honeymoons are featuring the trip. Reb Russell and wife will go as far as Texas, but Larry Doyle, Hans Lobert, Jim Thorpe and Chief Meyers will take their wives clear around the world.

Milwaukee of the American Ass'n won the minor league championship of the country by trimming Denver, champions of the Western League, yesterday, making four games won out of six played. Score, 9 to 8. Cold weather and snow made the fielding mediocre.

St. Marys of Evanston won a place in the finals of the National Catholic Baseball League by defeating St. Jarlath's in ten innings. They will play the Paulists next Sunday for the title. St. Marys tied the score with a three-run rally in the ninth and put the winning marker over in the next frame. Pitcher Ochsner of St. Marys, besides doing good work in the box, punched five hits, his double in the ninth tying the score.

Saturday's football results, both East and West, resulted in some big surprises, and upsets occurred which threaten to entirely change the face of the gridiron map.

In the Conference Purdue's feat of holding Wisconsin to a 7-to-7 tie was the most notable performance. The Badgers gained the most ground on rushing, but Purdue was able to present a strong defense when its goal was threatened. Oliphant scored the Charley White, whose fight with Wolgast for Friday night has been canceled because of an injury to the former champion.

Boilermakers' touchdown on a 70-yard run from a mass formation through the entire Badger team. The Purdue offense is built around the smashing halfback, but he has some able assistants behind the line, who will be heard from in future games.

Chicago put it over Iowa in a fast