

of five from Cincinnati, Alexander blanking the Reds with four hits.

Ever since the Reds and Quakers pulled their big trade two years ago the Rhinemen have been soft for Dooin's gang.

Suggs pitched the first four innings for Cincinnati and was burned for four runs and eight hits. Davis, a youngster, went to his rescue and stopped the march of the Phils.

Detroit took its fourth beating in five games from the Boston Red Sox.

Collins stopped the slugging Tigers with six hits and whiffed three.

Moran, a young southpaw, pitched for Detroit. His teammates gave him some leaky backing.

Cobb outhit Speaker, getting a triple and single to a single by the Boston man. Cobb also swiped a base.

Steen started the game for Cleveland against the Athletics, but was replaced by Gregg in the seventh. The Mackmen won the game off the Nap southpaw.

Houck, one of Mack's young pitchers, kept Cleveland's nine hits scattered, and they scored in but one inning, the seventh.

Joe Jackson injured his hip sliding to second in ninth and was carried from field. He will be out of the game several days.

Harry Davis was chased for disputing decision on play in which Jackson was injured.

Prosperity was too much for Yankees. They lost a pair of games to St. Louis and slipped back to last place.

Derrill Pratt, with a double and triple, did a lot toward beating the Yanks in the first game. Kutina assisted with a homer.

Baumgardner and Hamilton, who pitched for the Browns, were far superior to Warhop and Davis, New York heavers.

Hughie Fullerton, pinch hitting for "Hek" on the Trib sport page, is about as effective as old Jack Pfeister swatting for Heinie Zimmerman.

Al Kaufman, once regarded as the coming "white hope," is dangerously ill with pneumonia in San Francisco. Death is expected at any moment. Even should the heavyweight boxer recover it will be a long time before he is fit to re-enter the ring.

Everett Scott, shortstop of Youngstown O. and P. League team, is a popular gent. New York and St. Louis Nationals and Boston Americans have made offers for him.

Red Dooin is making desperate efforts to strengthen his pitching staff. His latest addition is Marshall of Portsmouth, leading the O. and P. League.

Little hope is held out for a Wolgast-Rivers match in the near future. Coast promoters are now trying to land a mill between Wolgast and Willie Ritchie. The fight should be a corker.

Hughie Jennings has intimated he will not sign to manage the Tigers after this year, when his contract is up. Boston may secure the red-top leader in place of