

INDIAN GIRLS ROOT FOR CARLISLE HEROES

Don't accept the statement that the American Indian is a stoic until you have looked upon the above picture—a photograph showing a group of Carlisle Indian school girls, cheering the school's famous football eleven. The girls are intensely interested in the playing of the team and many attend the games and cheer their representatives on to victory.

Beans, just plain beans, grown without irrigation, paid California growers about $100 an acre this year. Those fellows "know beans," all right.

They say the followers of Mahomet are gaining on the Christians by leaps and bounds all over the eastern world. What are all those missionaries doing?