REDUCED HER NOSE.

An Actress Whose Proboscis Was Too Large Had It Shaved Down.
Miss Crystal Thornton, an actress, submitted to a peculiar surgical operation at Roosevelt hospital Nov. 22. Miss Thornton, whose home is in California, is a handsome young woman, but in her opinion her appearance suffered through what she thought was a deformed nose, but which others regarded as nothing more than a pronounced Roman nose. She determined, however, to have the nose reduced to a normal size and consulted Dr. Charles McBurney with the view of having him perform the operation.
The surgeon, it is said, advised her that if the operation was performed a scar might remain, which would perhaps be more objectionable to her than her prominent nose. Miss Thornton declared that she preferred the scar to having so much nose and renewed her request that the operation be performed. The patient was placed under the influence of ether, incisions were made, the skin laid away on either side and part of the bone removed.
The wound was treated with antiseptics, the skin replaced, and in due time the patient went home. She visited the hospital again two days later, when the wound was found to be healing nicely. Miss Thornton has since that time remained at home, and unless some unforeseen accident occurs will in time make her appearance in public with a symmetrical nose, in harmony with the rest of her features.—New York Letter.

Somebody Lost a Hand.

A false left hand which Roundman Charlie Wendel found at the exit of Manhattan field after the football game on Thanksgiving day awaits a claimant at the Washington Heights police station.
It is incased in a dark tan kid glove and looks at first glance like a keenly severed real hand.
The theory is advanced by several members of the police force that the dummy was the property of some ingenious member of the light fingered gentry, whose perfect hand was under his clothing during the football gambols, but plying its chosen calling all the more effectively. It is the general impression that the hand was wrested from its fastenings on the wrist of the owner in the crowd as he passed out of the field.—New York Herald.

TILL JANUARY 1.

Is Continued the Low Rates for Skilled Special Treatment.

This is the Season to Thoroughly Eradicate Old Catarrh Troubles.

Testimony of a Prominent Young Hotel Man—His Hearing Defective since Childhood now entirely Restored.

"My general health has been impaired by chronic catarrh since my early childhood," writes Mr. Frank Viance, a prominent young hotel man of the Lahr House, Lafayette, Indiana: "This troubles affected my eyesight and almost resulted in total deafness.

MR. FRANK VIANCE.

The sense of hearing was entirely destroyed in one ear, and the severe headaches became every year more violent and frequent. My memory failed; I became despondent and was unable to secure necessary sleep. I nearly always had a troublesome cold and experienced great annoyance from chronic sore throat.

"After a brief course of the Stackhouse treatment I was gratified to notice an entire change for the better. The unpleasant symptoms were gradually but surely dispelled until today I am glad to say that I feel better than I have in years. The treatment of Dr. Stackhouse and his associates is truly wonderful. It gives me pleasure to recommend these physicians and their special methods to every person out of health."

$5 a Month.

To all who apply for treatment for catarrh and kindred diseases before the first day of January, 1894, no fee in excess of $5 a month will be charged. Those whose names are enrolled during this period will be entitled to treatment at this special low rate until entirely well.
