There was a jolly crowd of west side kids down at Chautauqua park Saturday afternoon. Wallace Riff, of the local postoffice force conceived the idea of giving the little folks a good time, so he loaded all he could gather up into a hay rack and took them to the park. And there was no more joyous kid in the lot than Wallace himself. Games and other amusements made the afternoon pass all too swiftly for both host and guests.

Isle of Pines.

The Isle of Pines is situated off the south coast of western Cuba its nearest point to Cuba being about 37 miles distant. It is 770 miles northeast of the British island of Jamaica. The area of the Isle of Pines is 613 1-3 square marine miles, or about 392,381 acres. It belongs to the republic of Cuba and is officially attached to the province of Havana. The chief place on the island is Nueva Gerona. The island was discovered by Columbus in 1494, and was long notorious as a resort of pirates, but that of course, was long ago. Its population is about 3,000. The climate is similar to that of Cuba, that is, tropical.

Lalla Rookh.

The story of Lalla Rookh in short is this: She was the supposed daughter of Aurungzebe, emperor of India. She was betrothed to Alifis, sultan of Lesser Bucharia. On her journey from Delhi to Cashmere she was entertained by Feramorz, a young Persian poet, with whom she fell in love, and unbounded was her delight when she discovered that the young poet was the sultan to whom she was betrothed. The story is beautifully told by the Irish poet, Tom Moore. The title of the poem is "Lalla Rookh."

Considered Holy Spot.

The biggest bathing parade in the world takes place at Allahabad, India, according to a writer in the London Daily Mail. Here in Allahabad nearly a million people have herded, he says. And it is not even as if some cooling sea wives attract this multitude. The nearest sea is nearly a thousand miles away to the east. Allahabad's attraction is due to the fact that here the two holy rivers of India meet. This is the sacred spot where Mother Ganges meets her chief tributary, the holy Jumna.

Love and Machinery.

The man who does not love his farm machinery never ought to have any. He ought to be compelled to do his plowing with a crooked stick and hoe his grain with the top of a tree because he will let his tools rot and rust out in the tool corner and laugh at you when you tell him there is a better way. Love takes care of the plows and binders and the threshing machines. Nothing else will.—Farm Life.

America's Gift to the World.

Highway to Peace.

Let's take a lot of smile now, and provide each other that, come what may, we shall not lose the blues, nor allow the one who does not see things just as we do. Right here is the highway to peace—a power of mind that nothing can take away from us.—Farm Life.

Tiles of Pearls.

Mother-of-pearl tiles, for bathrooms or other decorative use, are the new invention of Albert and Oscar Vuilleumier, of Philadelphia. The shells of pearly mussels are crushed to powder and mixed with just enough cement to render the material plastic. It is then molded into tiles or slabs, and the surface is ground and polished for a pearly finish.

Alone in the Jungle.

Mrs Clement an English woman who has achieved a reputation as a traveler and explorer says: "To be alone even for a minute in the jungle is alarming, for such is the profound silence all around that one has a terrifying sense of being minutely watched by unseen things." Of the forest noises one of the most unearthly is the howling of baboons. "When they are close at hand the whole air is alive with the din, so that you cannot tell from which direction it proceeds. Every nerve in your body tingles, and there is a curious fascination in the great volume of sound."

But That's Habit.

Because a commuter rushes from the train in a hurry, giving the impression that his time is worth about $100 an hour, it does not follow that he will not spend fifteen minutes on his way to the office watching a gang of men laying pavement.—Boston Transcript.

Our Writings.

Our writings are like so many dishes, our readers, our guests, our books, like beauty—that which one admires another rejects; so we are approved as men's fancies are inclined.—Burton.

CARP OF ILLINOIS RIVER ORIGINALLY CAME FROM CHINA

UNIVERSITY EXPERTS TRACE ANCESTRY OF FISH TO LAND OF DRAGON, SWEET PEAS AND LAUNDRY TUBS.

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—More Chinese food than is served in all the Chinese restaurants heretofore is drawn annually from the Illinois river in the shape of its carp, according to the latest publication of the state division of natural history survey. It is written by Prof. Forbes and Robinson of the University of Illinois.

This fish, commonly called the "European carp," is not European, but is a direct descendant of Chinese ancestors. Its history from the time it left Asia until it became in 1893 the most popular fish of Illinois, is contained in the new publication on "The Fishes of Illinois."

"The carp," says the book, "which is native of China, was introduced into Europe as early as 1227, and was first brought to England at the beginning of the sixteenth century. The first successful introduction of carp into the United States was made in 1877, when R. Hessel for the United States fish commission brought 345 carp to this country.

"Introduction of carp into waters of Illinois began with the first distribution two years later, and in 1880 scaled carp to the number of 300 were received from the United States fish commission. In 1881 and 1882 a total of 2,500 more carp were received and distributed by the Illinois fish commission, the distribution being mostly made in lots of only ten to a single person.

"In 1885 the first large carp was caught in the Illinois river, a specimen thirty inches long being taken at Meredosia. In 1887 about 16,000 more carp were planted in the public waters of the state. Between 1888 and 1890 reports of the capture of carp of considerable size increased in number, particularly from points along the Illinois river, and by 1892 this fish had multiplied to such an extent in the waters about Havana that more than 7,000 pounds were taken from Clear lake in a single haul.

"By 1898 the multiplication and utilization of carp had increased to such an extent in this state that Capt. John A. Schulte of Havana wrote: 'From the information I can get as an official of the Illinois Fisherman's association, from all points along the Illinois river, the carp have brought more money than the catch of all other fish combined. Long live the carp.'

"The carp catch of the Illinois river alone reaches 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 pounds a year, valued at more than $200,000."

The Significance of Maintained Quality

OF highest significance to the motorist is the fact that during those times when the demands for gasoline have been so great as to threaten positive famines, Red Crown, the high grade motor gasoline manufactured by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), maintained its standard of quality in the face of every difficulty.

Impartial tests made on authority of the Government proved Red Crown surpassed the specifications set by the Government for its requirements of motor gasoline. These facts indicate the ideals of service which animate the activities of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) in every department of its business.

To maintain the quality of a product when the demand is normal is a general practice. It is when demand is pressing and the supply is low that insistence upon maintained quality is a true measure of a manufacturer's integrity.

To maintain the quality of each product at the point set by the technical staff is an outstanding characteristic of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). Red Crown is a good example.

Another is Fortnite long-time burner oil. This product is used in railway signal lamps. These signals are often located at points remote from human habitation. For public safety their uninterrupted service is of the utmost importance. It is essential that the oil shall burn with a clear, bright flame for days at a time without attention.

During the blizzard of January, 1918, lamps filled with Fortnite, located high up in the Rocky Mountains, burned night and day during the ten days that traffic was tied up, and at the end of that period they were giving perfect service.

It is only by multiplying such records of quality and integrity of manufacture over a long period of years that the reader can grasp the degree of public confidence enjoyed by Standard Oil Company (Indiana).
