Northampton's Mayor Not Bald.

Some time ago a boy came to Mayor Theobald Connor of Northampton, Mass., with a note. When the boy saw Mr. Connor he put the message back into his pocket, saying "It's another Mr. Connor the note is for."

"Let me see the name on the envelope," said Mr. Connor, curiously. "That is my name. The note is for me."

"But I was told," replied the boy, "to give it to the bald Mr. Connor."

"Oh, you got turned around a little; that's all," said the mayor reaching for the note, which was addressed "Mr. Theobald Connor." But it took considerable argument to convince the boy he was the right man.

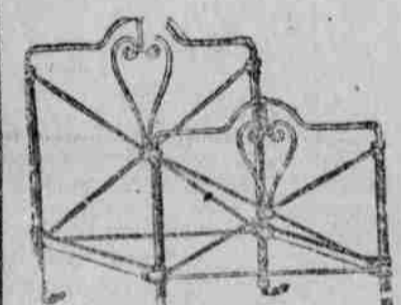

"Shoddy."

"Shoddy" is a term that may mean several things. A piece of goods has shoddy in it when the material used is scrap material from the best (tailor shop, pulled to pieces, twisted anew into a new yarn, and woven into a new cloth. Also a piece of goods is shoddy when it is made from the poorest of old woolsens plucked to bits and made over into a cloth that will hardly hold together.

The Howling Mob.

Jones is the father of thirteen children, and lives at Widnes. Last week he took them all to one of the theaters at Liverpool. On the way to the station he headed the small procession, and his wife brought up the rear with the youngest boy.

Upon entering the station one of the porters rushed upon Jones and asked him what he had been doing.

For Jones, amazed, stared vacantly, and answered:

"Nothing. Why?"

"Then what's the blooming crowd following yer for?"—Liverpool (Eng.) Mercury.

Care for Pauper Children.

The plans of maintaining the children of the poor—or such as may be in the poor-houses or "unions"—in cottages and homes of that character, is finding a very general adoption in England, no less than 128 "unions" now maintaining the children away from the pauperizing effects of poor-house association. The county of London paid out 72 cents a head of its population for the half-year on poor account.

England's First Brick Building.
The oldest brick building in England, except those built by the Romans, is said to be Hurstmonceaux castle, in Sussex, which was erected by Jettaines, treasurer to Henry VI. It was dismantled about a century ago.

Keep Out of Ruts.

Don't get into a rut. Look to the right and the left, and always upward. Grow upward to the light, like the plants and flowers. You stand a plant in a dark corner, and what does it do? It stretches out its leaves and tendrils to God's beautiful light. The flowers turn their faces to the sun; all ways looking upward! It is progress, don't sit in darkness. Come up and out, and join the children of light.

American Accent in English.
Not only the nasal sounds, but many American phrases are quite common in Suffolk, England, among the farmers and the peasantry, and a stranger passing an afternoon in Woodbridge market might fancy himself in Massachusetts.

Chirography Was Puzzle.

Harvey Walters, an expert on patent cases, had occasion to write Rufus Choate on some important question and when he received the reply was unable to read a word of it, so took the message to Mr. Choate and asked him what he had written. Mr. Choate replied: "I never can read my writing after the ink is dry, but if you will tell me what it is about I will tell you what I have written." And he did.

Vain Remorse.

A man is better employed in giving thanks that power to resist was vouchsafed to him than in fretting over wicked impulses which come unsought and exert an unwelcome hostility from the weakness of our nature.—Anthony Horne
