Convention Hall, Baltimore, July 3.—In the dying hours of the democratic national convention it seemed for a time there would be another deadlock over the nomination of a vice president. Governor Burke of North Dakota, for whom Bryan expressed a preference, had polled enough votes on the first two ballots to block the nomination of Governor Marshall of Indiana.

GAVEL FALLS AT 1:56 A. M.

Immediately a wild scramble for the doors followed, few waiting to hear the motion put. Several seconds later Chairman James' gavel fell at 1:56 a. m. on the final adjournment of one of the most notable conventions in the history of the democratic party.

ENDS IN LOVE FEAST.

The democratic national convention became a love feast last night when it met to select a running mate for Governor Woodrow Wilson. The intense bitterness of the past week had disappeared.

DELEGATES TIRED.

Despite the fact that the main business of the convention—the nomination of a presidential candidate—had been disposed of, floor and galleries were filled last night for the final session of the democratic national con-

THREE KILLED IN AN AUTO WRECK

Duluth, Minn., July 3.—Mrs. William White, Duluth, Miss Gladys Richardson, Bridgeport, Conn., and Leonard Maddigan, a chauffeur, Duluth, were killed about midnight on a country pike near Duluth when a touring car in which they were riding slipped from the road and overturned, pinning the occupants beneath.

William White, Jr., seriously injured, is at a local hospital. Miss Nannie Turrah, daughter of Henry C. Turrah, a lumberman, was severely shocked, and was unconscious several hours.

Charles W. Fitzgerald, the sixth member of the party, was thrown clear of the wreckage and escaped without injury.

vention. The nomination of a vice presidential candidate and the adoption of the platform framed by the subcommittee, of which William J. Bryan is chairman, were the duties remaining to be performed by the convention, which had been in session since last Tuesday. But a resolution framed by Bryan to allow the candidate to name his own campaign committee proved trouble.

The choice of a vice presidential candidate was the first problem confronting the convention. The delegates were tired. All the aggressiveness that marked the previous sessions was gone, and the delegates were in a mood to finish things with a rush.

As the convention met, vice presidential gossip was given an impetus by the circulation of a report that Champ Clark would be willing to accept second place on the ticket.

Despite the crowd that filled the hall, the police regulations were greatly relaxed. On the floor there were almost as many women as there were delegates.

FEDERALS BEGIN A REBEL ATTACK

Federal Headquarters, near Bachimba, Mexico, July 3.—Federals at 5 this morning began an attack on rebels near Orozco. Government artillery dislodged the rebels from an important position during the night.

Explanation of a reported catastrophe of two days ago, when a big explosion was heard in the rebel camp, was made today in a report to headquarters. A rebel mine destroyed a big water tank, seriously injuring a civilian and slightly wounding another. Many mines were discovered nearby, and the detonation was caused by an explosion after being removed by government engineers.

Rebel Front, Bachimba, July 3.—Rebels directed by Orozco today prepared for a federal attack. Troops at Colonia, Morelos, and Fronteras, south or here, are taking positions on the west bank of the Yaqui river. Rebels are advancing in three columns from Chihuahua.

Rebel Front, Bachimba, July 3.—Shells from the federal artillery are falling near the hills where the rebels are entrenched and the federal cavalry, in three columns, is moving up. Shortly before noon the engagement became general, the artillery duel being especially heavy. The rebels still held their position.

A Verbal Heart Throb From a Wilson Speech

"THE GREAT VOICE OF AMERICA DOES NOT COME FROM SEATS OF LEARNING. IT COMES IN A MURMUR FROM THE HILLS AND WOODS AND THE FARMS AND FACTORIES AND THE MILLS, ROLLING ON AND GAINING VOLUME UNTIL IT COMES TO US FROM THE HOMES OF COMMON MEN. DO THESE MURMURS ECHO IN THE CORRIDORS OF UNIVERSITIES? I HAVE NOT HEARD THEM. UNIVERSITIES WOULD MAKE MEN FORGET THEIR COMMON ORIGIN, FORGET THEIR UNIVERSAL SYMPATHIES AND JOIN A CLASS—AND NO CLASS CAN SERVE AMERICA."—WOODROW WILSON.

WILSON MAY BE DIRECTOR OF CAMPAIGN

McCombs, Right Hand Man, Favored for Head of Committee.

NOMINEE IS KEPT BUSY

Flooded With Messages of Congratulations and Promises of Support at Polls.

Sen. N. J., July 3.—"I haven't had time to think of all these things," Governor Wilson thus replied today to a bombardment of questions hurled at him by reporters. He looked rather careworn and tired.

"I don't know yet whether I shall appoint McCombs my campaign manager or suggest him for the chairmanship of the national committee," he said. "I haven't decided whether I shall resign as governor of New Jersey. I haven't had time to read the platform, and I have made no campaign plans. These and other details I shall take up in due time with my friends."

GRATEFUL TO FRIENDS.
To all thoughtful and generous friends who have sent me messages of congratulations, I want to express my hearty thanks. I shall not be able to answer them individually, I'm afraid.

He expressed gratification over the harmonious ending of the convention and gratitude for the work of his supporters.

SAYS HE'LL NOT RESIGN.
Wilson's friends are positive he will not resign as governor until after the first of next year, as under the New Jersey law the president of the senate automatically takes the governor's seat upon the latter's resignation. John D. Price, president of the senate, is a republican. The governor, his friends say, would rather wait until a democrat is elected president of the senate.

Wilson this morning sent a congratulatory message to Marshall. Wilson in a later statement paid a high tribute to Marshall both as an executive and as a democrat.

MANY WILSON VISITORS.
Sen. N. J., July 3.—Wilson slept late this morning after an arduous day preceding his nomination. Visitors began gathering on the lawn in front of the "Little White House" early, and nearly a dozen tents, erected for telephone booths and other accommodations sprang upon the ground. Besides the usual run of enthusiasts, many delegates returning from Baltimore are expected at the cottage today.

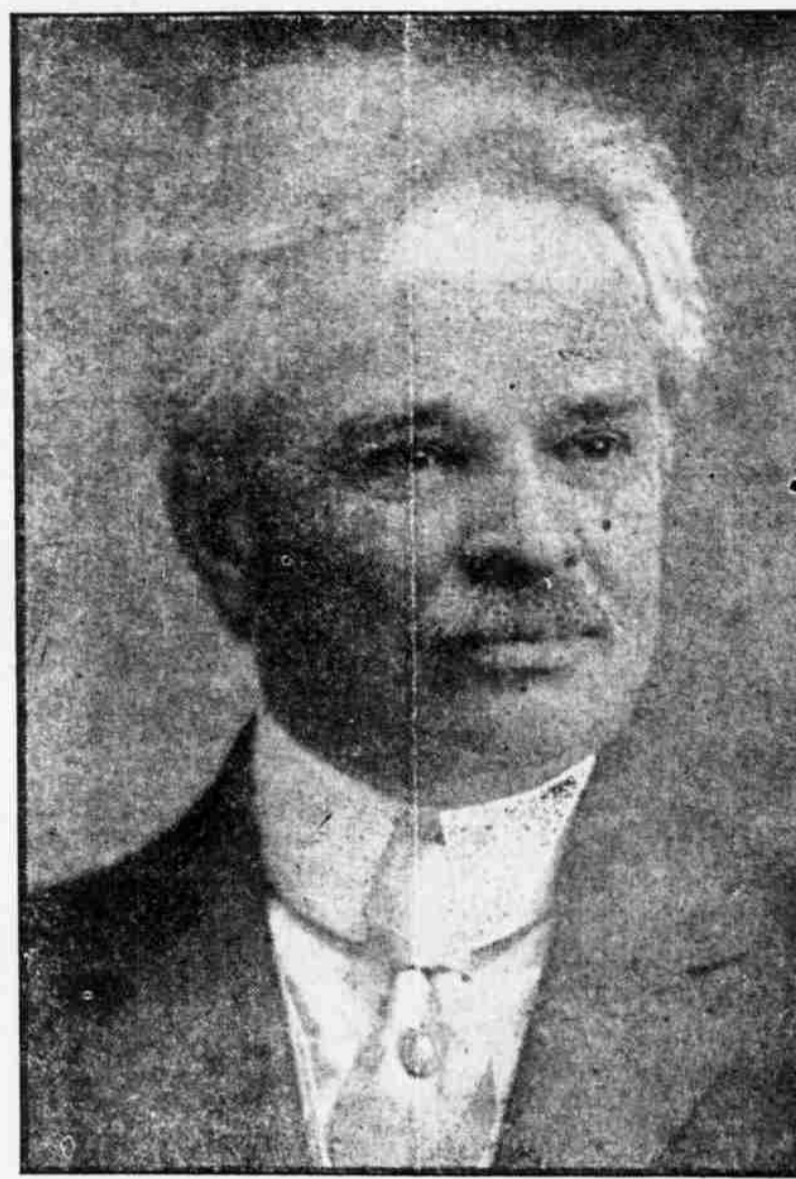

FLOOD OF TELEGRAMS.
Nearly a thousand messages of congratulations to Wilson were received early this morning. Among the first was one from Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany. "Your nomination means a great democratic victory," Murphy said.

Perry Belmont predicted victory.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE MEETS.
Baltimore, July 3.—Wilson will in the main determine direction of his own campaign for president, pass upon the desirability of appointing a campaign committee and confer with a subcommittee of the national committee on naming officers of the new democratic national committee.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE.
This was the sense of members of the new national committee which met today and, after continuing the officers of the old committee in power until the

Receives High Honor

Illinois presented for the vice presidential nomination in the democratic national convention at Baltimore last night Hon. Elmore W. Hurst of Rock Island. In view of the fact that the choice of a running mate for Wilson had been practically agreed upon in caucus, the action in presenting Mr. Hurst's name was taken not so much in expectation that he would win as for the purpose of showing the convention that the democrats of the state had a man regarded as vice presidential timber. Roger Sullivan had attended a conference of the leaders and discussed with them the question of who should have the second place on the ticket, so that he knew that Mr. Hurst had no chance. Nevertheless, he suggested that the honor of being nominated be given to Mr. Hurst, and Samuel Alschuler, twice democratic candidate for governor, delivered the speech.

permanent organization is effected, designated a subcommittee of five to confer with Wilson on the permanent organization of the new committee and then report back to the full committee.

McCOMBS FAVORED.
W. F. McCombs of New York, campaign manager for Wilson, was teased about this afternoon as the likely choice for either the new national chairman or head of the campaign committee.

Missing Child Found.
Coudery, Wis., July 3.—Ray Argetsinger, 3, nearly dead of hunger, thirst and exhaustion, was found this morning near Devil's like, four miles from the place he disappeared from Sunday. Bloodhounds were ordered from Decatur, Ill., but before they arrived Chippewa Indian trailers found the child.

Oyster Bay, July 3.—Roosevelt said today he would have no comment to make at this time on Wilson's nomination.

Sacramento, Cal., July 3.—The Sacramento Union, since its birth in 1851 until recently, considered one of the staunchest republican newspapers in the state, today declared its advocacy of the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson.

St. Paul, Minn., July 3.—The progressive party being organized under the leadership of Roosevelt has no legal standing here and cannot take part in the primaries in Minnesota this fall, according to an opinion issued by Attorney General Smith today.

Money for Maneuvers.
Washington, July 3.—The senate today agreed to a joint resolution appropriating $1,350,000 for encampment and maneuvers of the organized militia of the states. The appropriation was originally in the army bill, which was vetoed. The resolution now goes to the president.

Washington, July 3.—The house chemical tariff revision bill amended to place dyes used in coloring cheaper cotton goods on the free list, was defeated in the senate, 32 to 79.

MACVEAGH IS SCORED BY AN AID IN OFFICE

Andrew, Assistant to Secretary of Treasury, Offers Resignation.

BUSINESS NEGLECTED

Charges Head of Department Has Demoralized Affairs by Procrastinating Attitude.

Washington, July 3.—A. Platt Andrew today tendered his resignation to the president as assistant secretary of the treasury. In a spirited letter to the president, Andrew writes of conditions in the treasury department, which are alleged to be due to the attitude of Secretary MacVeagh toward many of his subordinates. The letter charges subordinates have "been hampered and discouraged at every turn by MacVeagh's idiosyncrasies and his incapacity for decision." It contains a scathing arraignment of MacVeagh's administration of "government affairs" and created a profound sensation in official circles.

BUSINESS AT STANDSTILL.
Andrew tells the president that for a long time much treasury business has been at a standstill because of delays for which the secretary alone is responsible, but for which the people outside harshly criticized his subordinates. The secretary himself was even more harsh whenever he discovered his subordinates had ventured to act upon matters of minor importance without waiting for his decision, Andrew says.

DECISIONS HELD UP.
They have been unable to carry on business entrusted to them, he continues, and were often on the point of resigning. Decisions of MacVeagh, he declares, upon urgent questions, have been held up for months. Andrew also charges MacVeagh with being distrustful and suspicious of many of the higher treasury officials, and for months at a time persistently refused even to speak to these officials of his department with whom he should naturally have been in constant personal communication.

LONG ON PROCRASTINATION.
In this connection he mentions the names of Mr. Hillis, formerly in the treasury department, but now secretary to the president; Treasurer McClung, Director of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, and says there are others besides himself.

Andrew refers to MacVeagh's "aggrandizing capacity for procrastination," and cites instances in which he says matters submitted to the secretary for decision were held up so long they settled themselves before a decision was made.

LABORS UNDER DELUSION.
"There has never been a time," Andrew goes on, "since I have been in the treasury when he has not labored under the delusion that some of those working loyally and conscientiously for him were in a cabal conspiring against him. This has led him to treat some of his most efficient aides with harsh ingratitude and with a lack of consideration that was little short of brutal."

ON VERGE OF QUITTING.
Andrew's letter to MayVeagh, advising him of his resignation discloses the hitherto unpublished fact that MacVeagh was on the verge of leaving the cabinet in December, 1910. This, Andrew says, was when the White House, "Without consulting with you, and entirely without your knowledge," entered into negotiations for the issue of Panama bonds.

TAFT IN STATEMENT.
He reminds the secretary that in order to save him the humiliation of being offered to him the service if the secretary's resignation became necessary. The White house made public the statement written by President Taft:

"Andrew's resignation as assistant secretary of the treasury was requested, submitted and accepted in view of his failure to obey orders given him by the secretary." This was the only comment the president had to make.

ROBERTS MAY SUCCEED.
Andrew's resignation becomes effective at once. George E. Roberts, director of the mint, is prominently mentioned as his successor.

Prior to Andrew's appointment as
