EULOGIES OF THE PRESS ON MR. GREELEY.

REMARKS OF THE TRIBUNE UPON THE DEATH OF ITS EDITOR AND FOUNDER.

WM. M. EVARTS WILL PRESIDE AT THE BANQUET TO MINISTER WASHBURNE.

ETC., ETC., ETC.

[Reported Especially for the Bulletin.]

MR. GREELEY GROWING WORSE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Mr. Greeley's death is expected momentarily, both by his relatives and attending physician. He is at the residence of Dr. Choate in Tarrytown, who makes mental derangement a special study. His place is a private lunatic asylum, where patients are left and cared for by Dr. Choate and his attendants. Dr. Hammond, one of his physicians said: I doubt if he will live forty-eight hours, and I should not be surprised to hear of his death to-night. While I was at the bedside" added the doctor, Mr. Weed, an old friend of Mr. Greeley's, came up, and wishing to test Mr. Greeley, I said: Mr. Greeley, do you know Mr. Weed? Mr. Greeley stared vacantly, and answered, 'I never met him before in my life,' and then said 'I never heard the name of Weed before.' The doctor described Mr. Greeley as talking incoherently all the time, and being quite obstinate.

HE DOES NOT KNOW HIS DAUGHTER.

He does not know his own daughter.

LATER.

The latest advices received at the Tribune office regarding Mr. Greeley's condition this morning, state that he failed very much during the night, and is apparently sinking rapidly. He is sleeping quietly.

MR. GREELEY SINKING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29, 3:30 p.m.—Mr. Greeley has been in a state of almost entire unconsciousness since 8 o'clock this morning. His pulse at the wrist is imperceptible, and his strength steadily failing. He appears to suffer very little.

HE BREATHES HIS LAST.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29, 7:30 p.m.—Horace Greeley died conscious and peacefully at 5:50 p. m.

SYMPATHY FOR GREELEY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Frequent inquiries were made to-day by all classes in regard to Horace Greeley's health, and much sympathy was expressed in his behalf. A report of his death being in circulation early this evening, and having reached the president, he and his family, as a token of respect, did not attend the reception of the diplomatic corps given by the secretary of state, and to which he was invited, but sent a note explaining the cause of their absence.

THE HERALD'S EULOGY.

The Herald in its editorial to-morrow, speaking of Horace Greeley, says: "From day to day for a week the news of Mr. Greeley's severe mental and physical prostration have left this community and the country not wholly unprepared for his dissolution, and yet we may say of him as the expiring chief Red Jacket said of himself, that the news of his death will come upon the people like the sound of the fall of a giant pine in the stillness of the woods. He has in a mistaken aspiration for a higher field of usefulness and power and glory fallen a sacrifice to his political ambition. He failed to appreciate the commanding position which he had secured as a leading American journalist, and in leaving it to pursue the ignis fatius of the presidency, he dropped the substance for a shadow of great distinction, otherwise the history and enduring rewards. Greeley's industrious and useful career is full of encouragements to young men, who, without capital, influence or powerful friends, have the battle of life before them. He leaves an honored name behind, and a high reward of an encouraging example as an American journalist and self-made man.

THE TRIBUNE ON THE DEATH OF HORACE GREELEY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The Tribune of to-morrow says: "The melancholy announcement of the death of the editor and founder of the Tribune, though for a few days it has been expected by his family and intimate friends, falls upon us with all the shock of a sudden calamity. He had reached indeed, a ripe, old age, but time had not laid its withering touch upon him. His splendid constitution easily bore the strain of enormous labor; his mind was as fresh, strong, and suggestive as in the prime of life; his generous impulses were unchilled by disheartening experience through the trying campaign which has just closed; his physical vigor, his tact, his intellectual activity surprised even those who knew him best, and seemed to promise many years of usefulness. It is certain that no history of the most critical period in our national life can ever be written in which Horace Greeley shall not be a conspicuous figure, but the noblest career in his eyes was that which is given up to others' wants. The successful life was that which is work, and in conflict with wrong and woe. The only ambition worth following was the ambition to alleviate human misery, and leave the world a little better than he found it. That he had done this was the consolation which brightened his last days and assured him he had not lived in vain. It is not for us in our first hour of loss to paint his character or catalogue his virtues. Although for several months we have missed the inspiration of his presence and the guidance of his wise counsel, his spirit has never ceased to animate those chosen to continue his works, and the close bond of sympathy between the chief and his assistants has never been broken. We leave his praises to the poor who he succored; to the lowly whom he lifted up; to the slave whose back he saved from the lash; to the oppressed whose wrongs he made his own."
