The official paper of Alexander county and of the city of Cairo, Illinois, published daily in Southern Illinois. It is a reliable journal, and contains the latest news from all parts of the State.

THE DOLLAR WEEKLY BULLETIN.
John H. Oberly & Co. have reduced the subscription price of the Weekly Cairo Bulletin to one dollar per annum, making it the cheapest paper published in Southern Illinois.

Gov. Palmer has been ill with the measles. As he is out of danger, jokes are in order.

A TRAVELER has discovered that European princesses, as a class, are homely and ungraceful.

THE CITIZENS of Jacksonville are starting a movement for a new insane asylum at that place—to be built and sustained independent of the State.

A LATE decision of the secretary of the treasury is that iron barges of foreign build cannot be used on the Mississippi river in the transportation of grain from St. Louis to New Orleans.

THE Washington Patriot says the president is no reformer. True. He is one of the evils to be reformed—the material on which the most skillful reformers may try their skill in vain.

NEW-YORK city ought to tender the "usual acknowledgements" on Thanksgiving day with more than usual heartiness, owing to her late narrow escape from cholera and a radical victory.

GRAND DUKE ALEXIS, in his reply to the welcoming speech of Gen. Dix, declared that Gen. Grant's high character is greatly appreciated in Russia. He should have said, "high old character," which, slanting as the expression is, asserts very truly the estimation in which the president is held by a majority of the American people.

MR. PHELPS, a member of the state legislature from Cook county, has introduced a resolution into the house that no member absent from his seat without leave shall draw pay for the time he is away. The measure certainly seems an honest and a just one both to taxpayers and legislators and does credit to the man who proposed it.

AN ex-army chaplain has been practicing the arts of the klu-klux in the streets of New-York. Waylaid by two negroes, who demanded his money or his life, he defended himself with his cane, crippling one of the would-be robbers. If the affair had only occurred in South Carolina, the negro would get his rights in a jiffy.

THE latest news from Utah is to the effect that the saints are willing and anxious to come to an amicable understanding with the government. They have signified their desire to have the territory of Utah admitted as a state, with a constitution forbidding polygamy from the date of its adoption. This, however, with the agreement that those who now rejoice in the possession of one or a dozen wives shall be allowed to continue such relations until death do them part.

ABSOLUTELY touching is the correspondence between Collector Murphy and President Grant regarding the resignation of the former as collector of the port of New York. The sympathetic tear wells from the eye and blots those affecting sentences of resignation and acceptance. Murphy's letter is pathetic and dignified, Grant's ditto. The friendship of David and Jonathan was cold to that which appears to exist between the ex-collector and the president. Another instance of strong affection between men is furnished by these two, and Grant and Murphy will take their places in history side by side with Damon and Pythias, etc. But the sincerity of this feeling doesn't necessarily make Murphy an honest man, and since the fact of his resignation is accomplished, the people are content that he should bask forever in the soft light of Grant's undiminished confidence and esteem.

THE Missouri Democrat says Gov. Palmer is having a hard time of it. This is true. The radical office-holder in whose breast burns one faint spark of honest devotion to the constitution of his country occupies an anomalous position and a painful one, and, in the nature of things, cannot expect to have other than a hard time of it. If, like Gov. Palmer, he does what he conceives to be his duty, he knows his reward will be the scorn of his constituents. If he struggles his convictions and pursues a course acceptable to his party, he is lashed by the stings and arrows of an outraged conscience. Gov. Palmer took the alternative, and has found his cost that the radical party tolerate no old-fashioned ideas of living up to the constitution. Among Gov. Palmer's former friends such notions are obsolete. By having foolishly clung to a few of them, he has made his way in the radical party a harder road to travel than Jordan.

MEMPHIS is a peculiar city—one whose male citizens say what they please to whom they please, always with the added remark accompanied by a tap on the pistol pocket, "if you don't like it, sir, you know where to find me." This is a distinctive trait of character shared by the regenerate and unregenerate alike, as witness a heated discussion now going on between the spiritualists and orthodox christians of the Bluff city. The Rev. —, a godly minister, a few days ago walked rough shod into a spiritual lecture lately delivered in the opera house in Memphis, prefacing his pulpit strictures with the customary remark, worded to suit the occasion, "if the opera house lecturer don't like my remarks he knows where to find me." Precisely. If the opera house lecturer is a Memphis man, "to the manner born," we have no advice to offer. If not he will be more likely to die in his bed if he doesn't find his reverend opponent.

THE New-York Evening Post professes to believe that Gen. Grant has forsaken the error of his ways and has deserted dishonesty and eschewed San Domingo. "Therefore," says the Post, "the prospect now is that the republican nomination for president will be settled inside the republican party, as it was in 1864 and 1868, and that it will take another overwhelming defeat in 1872, finally, to break up and set aside the old democratic organization." The Post indicates very truly the "prospects," as seen from the standpoint of the present time; but the probabilities are that the republican dissensions will work the downfall of radicalism in 1872, and that the democracy will stand at its grave as it has stood at the grave of the other parties into collision with which it came in the past. The defeats of 1871 may, and we believe will, result in the triumph of the party in 1872. Victory this year would have made the party indiscreet; defeat has made it wise. Victorious, it would have chosen a standard-bearer around whom the conservative republicans would not have rallied; defeated, it will select a candidate under whose banner all the haters of despotism and all the lovers of republican government can rally and fight with enthusiasm. All that is necessary is that democrats should be courageous. It will not do to despond. We are battling for the right, and to fight for that in a minority is far more glorious than to go over to the strong side battling in the cause of error. No surrender. Close the lines again. Once more into the breach, good democrats!

A Washington telegram informs the public that the programme for the solution of the Mormon difficulties has been partially agreed upon, and it is believed that it will finally be adopted by the Mormon leaders. As soon as congress meets a bill will be introduced to enable the people of Utah to form a state constitution and apply for admission into the United States. The territory has already the required population. If a new state government is formed, polygamy can be abolished in the local constitution by statute after a day to be named, provided that the present wives and children of the Mormons are recognized as legal, so that bastardy and adultery shall not be assumed to exist, and the line of inheritance in real and personal property be stricken down. This policy it is declared will virtually do away with polygamy, and at the same time protect the rights of innocent persons.

Let us do the fair thing with C. C. P. of the Holden family. During the prevalence of the excitement created by the late canvass for city officers in Chicago, it was charged that Mr. C. C. P. Holden, the bumper candidate for mayor, had used the relief funds which had been confided to his care in his efforts to make his calling and election sure. He is not guilty. A Chicago telegram is in the words following: "The investigation of the management of Mr. C. C. P. Holden of the relief funds, has developed that that gentleman turned over to the treasurer all money in his hands when received. This fully exonerates him from the charge of misappropriation, which was freely made during Mr. Holden's candidacy for mayor. It is due to him to say that he stands acquitted of this and other charges in the eyes of his constituency."

Sir William Jenner writes to the British Medical Journal: "A statement having been widely circulated to the effect that the Queen's recent illness was the result of re Vaccination, I trust you will, by inserting this letter, permit me to give the most unqualified contradiction to the report. There is not a shadow of foundation for it in fact. Her majesty's recent illness did not commence till many months after the re Vaccination. There was no connection, direct or indirect, between the two. I should not have contradicted so foundationless a statement had I not heard that, in consequence of the positive terms in which the assertion is made, it has received a certain amount of credence, and is so causing harm to the public health."

Louis Kosuth is living in a retired manner at Turin, Italy. He keeps himself thoroughly acquainted with the news of the day, does not believe in the International society, but regards it as indicating a tendency toward a republican form of government in Europe; thinks that the troubles in Austria will result in the downfall of the house of Hapsburg; fears that Hungary will oppose German unity, will miss her opportunity of becoming an independent state and will be subjected to a fate like that of Poland, and says that "Count Andrassy is as much an Austrian to-day as Von Beust." Kosuth's health is still good.

A telegram dated at Rome, November 21st, says: "King Victor Emanuel made his entry into Rome to-day. He was met at the gates by the heir apparent, Prince Humbert, the ministers of the crown, and a large body of the national guard of the city. The populace thronged the streets in immense numbers, and greeted the king with earnest enthusiasm during his progress to the Quirinal, where he has taken up his residence."

The elections in Newfoundland to decide whether the island should be confederated with the New Dominion have resulted unfavorably to the Union party. St. Johns, which is represented in the local legislature by six members, has returned that number unanimously opposed to the wishes of the crown. In many parts of the island there was no opposition to the anti-confederate candidates.

A letter to the St. Louis Democrat from Northwestern Missouri mentions a singular physical phenomenon occurring there. It says a continual rain has descended for two weeks from a cloudless sky, and is confined to a space of only twenty feet in diameter. The phenomenon has been observed by many persons, and the writer asks for a scientific explanation.

A San Francisco letter says: "The Rev. Horatio Stebbins, the successor of Starr King in the pulpit of the Unitarian church, has recently received a call to fill an eastern pulpit, with the promise of a salary of $10,000. The society will endeavor to offset it. Stebbins is our Beecher, and yet he does not equal the late lamented Starr King."

General O. O. Howard, Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau, in his forthcoming annual report, will recommend the total abolition of what there is left of that institution, and the transfer of its functions to other departments. Little remains to be done save the adjustment of the claims of colored soldiers for back pay.

At a caucus of the colored members of the South Carolina state legislature, held last week, it was resolved to make no appropriation during the coming session for the payment of the interest on the state debt. They also declared themselves in favor of repudiating both the old and the new debt of the state.

A special dispatch from Versailles, France, to the London Standard, says the commission for arbitration of the Alabama claims will assemble in Geneva on the 12th of December, and that the sittings will continue all winter. About five hundred cases will be presented to the consideration of the commission.

The Emperor William has caused his grand-son, Frederick William, son of the hereditary Prince, to be enrolled in the regiment of the Guard of St. Petersburg, now in garrison at Warsaw. The Empress Augusta, attended by a numerous suite, has just taken up her winter residence at Coblenz.

A temperance fanatic in England lately charged the queen with the crime of drunkenness, and was arrested. The magistrate before whom he was taken accused the indiscreet gentleman's application for bail.

A Virginia lady has just taken from her side a needle which she swallowed when three years of age, nearly eighteen years ago. She has felt it in various parts of her body since.

M. D. Lesseppe, in spite of the ill reports concerning the Suez canal, declares that he will never permit it to fall into English hands.

It is estimated that three hundred thousand bushels of potatoes have been raised in the vicinity of Houlton, Me., this season.

An enterprising Detroit man is taking orders for the delivery of buckwheat cakes to families for breakfast.

Sewing machines are soon to be introduced in the public schools of the state of North Carolina.

Notwithstanding his alleged poverty, the Emperor Napoleon has sent a million francs to the Pope.
