MIXTURE. —The operetta of the Fairy Queen, to witness which last night the Athenaeum was packed and jammed, will be repeated this evening.

—Persons who wish to have hair and other kind of jewelry manufactured for holiday gifts, are requested to hand in their orders as soon as possible to Buder Brothers, corner of Washington avenue and Eighth street.

—Where are you going? To the place number 53, Ohio levee, where they keep the best fresh oysters, fish and game, and the finest wines, liquors and cigars to be found in the city. Open at all hours, day or night. J. E. PARKS

—During all of Sunday the day was "balmy" and closed with a magnificent sunset. After the display of the sunset the wind got up—out of bed, we suppose—and made things howl and people shiver. We want no more of the same kind in our tea, as the slangy boys say.

—Holiday goods for the million. The best assortment of Fancy Goods, Toys and Notions in the city can be found at the Wheeler and Wilson and Piano Agency of C. C. Carson, Commercial avenue, between Ninth and Tenth streets, Cairo, Ill.

—Our city directory, now being compiled, is receiving liberal patronage from the citizens. Every business man who has a high appreciation of the importance of a good thing when he has it thrust under his nose, is advertising in it—taking from a third to a whole page.

—The river editor of THE BULLETIN was not on duty yesterday, and we are consequently without our usual river report. He was sick, laid up in bed and being doctored by doctor's stuff. If marriage afflicts him thus how unfortunate it is that he ever left the Benedictine ways of bachelorhood!

—Great inducements to any one wishing to buy a first-class piano or organ. E. & W. Buder offer their entire stock in the piano and organ line at the actual cost of the instruments. They are desirous of closing out the stock so that they may use the room for jewelry manufacturing purposes.

—The little boy whose name we didn't know, who broke his arm in the country, is the son of James Reeves, who lives on the Dickey place. The little boy fell from the door step and broke the arm in such a manner that it can only be mended to be passably good. Dr. Wardner dressed it.

—A very sudden death was that of Jno. Fall, at the house of Wm. Quinn yesterday. He had just finished eating a hearty dinner and was yet at table, when suddenly he gasped once or twice, fell from his chair and died. Heart disease probably. The deceased leaves behind him neither friends nor money.

—Twenty-two rats were caught in a basement on the levee last Sunday. They were long-tailed fellows, bright-eyed and saucy—all, save one, who looked sleepy and mean, a perfect picture of good-for-nothingness, and was branded "Paducah." Any person could have told at a glance that that rat was from Paducah and had been born and bred there.

All kinds of Jewelry Manufactured by the Buder Brothers. The manufacture of Hair Jewelry for Holiday Gifts made a specialty.

—All persons desiring to become members of a class to be instructed in piano and vocal music by Signor Farini, who proposes to establish in this city a conservatory of music, will please give notice of the fact at Herman Meyers cigar store, Ohio levee, to Paul Schuh, druggist, Commercial avenue, or J. Schlesinger, artist corner Eighth street and the levee. dlw

—If Gov. Palmer does not commute the sentence of the negro convicted of murder at Mound City last week, he will be hanged about Christmas time. The Pullaski people like amusements during the holidays, but the ghastliness of the fun of hanging, even at Christmas time, cannot be appreciated by any person well versed in the art of joviality.

—A considerable number of citizens met at the court house last night to perfect the organization of a fourth ward fire company; but in the hope of obtaining a fuller meeting a motion to adjourn until Wednesday night was made and carried. The adjourned meeting will be held at the tin shop of F. & M. Warren, corner of 18th and Commercial. Let there be a full attendance.

—The Paducah paper says: "A Cairo paper says that Miss Hannah Virtue, a spinster of correct deportment, residing in that place, has received and declined no less than thirty-three offers of marriage." This is a falsehood. Hannah has never refused any offer of marriage, and that's what the matter with Hannah. Our girls are not of the foolish kind who go back on an offer of marriage, except when made by a Paducah man.

—The Buder Brothers, corner Eighth street and Washington avenue, have received a brand-new lot of the latest-styled breast-pins, ear-rings, finger rings, bracelets, watches, clocks, etc., and invite the public to call and inspect the stock. They are also agents for the Davis sewing machine, Burdett organs and St. Louis pianos, and offer to the public the best bargains to be obtained at any place in Southern Illinois.

—It is true that Blankenberg's Excelsior saloon is now one of the institutions of the city. All drinkers who like really excellent liquors—whiskies, wines, beer, etc.—go to the Excelsior saloon, which is fitted up in splendid style. Blankenberg, who knows how to keep a saloon, spends a fine free inch every morning and evening, and as he forcibly expresses it, "Sweetens the lunch with music." He has employed the services of a first-rate pianist. This makes the grand piano which stands in one end of the saloon speak out in musical tones. Everybody is invited. The best order is maintained, and all improper characters suppressed with neatness, cheapness and dispatch. Everybody knows that the Excelsior saloon is at the corner of Washington avenue and Fourth street.

—We have no hesitation in recommending William Ehlers, boot and shoe maker, as worthy of most liberal patronage. We know whereof we speak when we say his work is done in a masterly manner at the lowest prices. He uses nothing but the best of stock, and he cannot be excelled in the delicate task of making an exact fit. Give him a call at his shop on Twentieth street, between Washington avenue and Poplar street, nearly opposite the court house, and we will guarantee satisfaction.

—The merchant tailoring shop of Messrs Lehning & Kobler, on the south side of Eighth street between Washington and Commercial avenues, opposite Hannys' dry-goods store, has been open only a few weeks and already these gentlemen are obtaining a fair share of the patronage of the public. They are both practical men—first-class mechanics—and are willing to guarantee satisfactory work. They keep on hand always a full line of piece goods, to which they direct the attention of all who wish to have made clothes that are worth the money paid for them. Cleaning and repairing done neatly at low prices.

RELIGIOUS. —Mr. Friend, the late pastor of the Christian church in this city, is now at Leavenworth, Kansas.

—Every religious business man in the city, as well as every sinner, will advertise in our city directory. Refusal to do so will be regarded as conclusive proof of the truth of the doctrine of total depravity.

—The Rev. D. B. Turney, the eccentric Methodist preacher, continues to sling about him poetry and prose in a manner which is fearful to behold. His poetry is worse than Tupper's and his prose would do no credit to the columns of the Jonesboro Advertiser.

—The most religious person in the city is THE BULLETIN. We beg that the Sun will not report that THE BULLETIN is not a person but a "thing." A cruel remark of this kind would wound our sensitive spirits beyond the ability of even Time to heal it, and we doubt if Ehler, with all his shoe-mending ability, could heal it.

—It is very important that every person who attends church should do so promptly at the appointed hour, so that fellow-workers may not be disturbed at their devotions. Any one who is the owner of one of Buder Brothers' watches, warranted to keep correct time, will have the means of informing himself to a certainty concerning the hour of the day, and can have no excuse for being "behind time" at any place or on any occasion.

—We were instructed to inform the public that Rev. Mr. Mulkey would preach in the Christian church Sunday before last, and he did not; that he would assuredly preach there last Sunday, morning and evening, and he did not. We desire to be very precise in the religious information we give to the public, so that our reputation as a religious journal may be maintained, but we fear that mistakes of this kind will lead the public to believe we are not to be believed. This would be sad. But the Mulkey information was drawn from a Christian source, and we must not be held responsible for its incorrectness.

—On Sunday night the friends of Mr. Friend held prayer meeting at the Christian church, the anti-Friend portion of the congregation remaining absent. They held their prayer meeting on Wednesday night. If there is any efficacy in prayer, a joint prayer meeting, held after the manner of joint meetings of the city council, might do a "power of good." The burden of the prayers of each of these belligerent parties should be: "Lord, enable us, miserable sinners, to forgive as we would be forgiven and to forget as we should be forgotten by Thee if we don't quit using our little hands to tear out each others' eyes."

—Rev. H. B. Thayer preached twice on Sunday in the Presbyterian church, a.m. and p.m. After the p.m. discourse, which was able but not up to the ability of the sermon, the reverend gentleman retired and the question was put: "Shall Mr. Thayer be called?" Eighty-eight of the congregation voted "aye," and two voted "no." Two other persons, one a Baptist, who had no right to vote either way, and a sinner voted "no." Also the vote was substantially unanimous. So, we presume, this settles the matter. We shall now have Mr. Thayer as one of our regular clergy, called in the regular manner to the ministrations in our midst of the duties of the Christian shepherd. He will find here a community which is not bound up in the straight-jacket of puritanical belief and practice, but somewhat given to the habit of courting the bright side of life with its smiles and laughter and jovialities; a little loose, maybe, in its religious practices; too busy to be very devout, but orderly, sober, (now let Paducah howl), and liberal with their means as any people on the face of the earth. He will also find in his own congregation some of the best men and women of Cairo, and out of it how many wandering sheep! but all good fellows. There in one sheep—is this metaphorical, of course—which or who has wandered many miles from the Presbyterian fold and who is making a terrible add in the religious pastures hereabouts. The expostulations of this journal, powerful though they have been, have had no effect upon him. He is wayward in his perversity, and we shall be willing to accept Mr. Thayer's aid in the work of tearing the scales from his eyes. We are sure Mr. Thayer and THE BULLETIN can "fetch" him. If they can't, may the Lord have mercy on his soul!

MARRIAGE GUIDE.—Interesting work, numerous engravings, 224 pages. Price 50 cents. Address Dr. Butts Dispensary No. 12 North Eighth Street, St. Louis

REWARD.—LOST. —Lost about noon on Saturday, November 25th, within two blocks of the post office, a LADY'S FUR MUFF. The finder will be well rewarded by leaving the same with Loflin, at the post office, or at Dr. Wardner's.

DR. J. WHITE.—We are glad to learn that Dr. J. White is receiving calls for his advice and remedies which bid fair to retain him in Cairo all winter. Dr. White's skill in so promptly detecting, as he does, every ailment and the true condition of the entire body of the sufferer is often the wonder of the sufferer himself, and every one who witnesses the cures.

Persons careless or indifferent to this opportunity for restoration to health may regret their neglect for the balance of their lives! We advise the early call of diseased on Dr. White, with confident expectation of permanent relief.

His rooms are at the Southern hotel, Ohio levee. nov-1m —On Saturday, the 30th day of December, I will sell at public auction the following property, left on my wharfboat unclaimed for:

AMUSEMENTS. TO BE AND HAVE BEEN—FUN FOR THE MILLION, MORE OR LESS. —Low Warren is all the go at Scott's hall to night.

—Go and see M. Jordan, the people's favorite, at Scott's hall, to-night. 2t

—Why don't you go and see Brown and Johnson ten minutes in their double song and dance, at Scott's hall to-night? 2t

—Before 9 o'clock yesterday every reserved seat in the Athenaeum was taken, and last night the hall was crowded—packed—jammed. The operetta of the "Fairy Queen" was presented in fine style, and fairly glittered with female and scenic beauty. The music, too, was all we expected it would be. The audience were pleased with themselves and the operetta people, and seemed to enjoy the occasion hugely. The Fairy Queen will be presented again to-night, and there will, no doubt, be another overflowing house present to testify to their appreciation of the efforts made by Mr. Robbins to furnish to the public an entertainment of the most interesting and at the same time most unobjectionable kind.

—It is true that the best whisky, wine, and such liquids, in the city are to be obtained at Fitzgerald's sample room, corner of Commercial avenue and Fourteenth street. Lawyers who drink Pat's whisky always obtain a retainer within five minutes after each drink, and become virtuous; ministers who drink his wine and whisky, grow in grace and become happy; doctors who sample his liquors "all round," are certain to procure a patient who has money and the disposition to pay for prescriptions, and become good citizens; and editors who take a drop or two procure patrons who pay cash, and become drunk—editors and patrons. Temperance men are especially urged to patronize Pat. He has a peculiar kind of whisky that makes a man feel good, drunk and all that, but it leaves no odor on the breath, and the man who drinks it can get out of the saloon without being visible to mortal vision.

—While on our way to church on Sunday night, a sudden impulse seized us. We would here remark that such impulses often seize us. The one that captured us on Sunday evening took us up into Philharmonic hall and held us there—miserable sinner that we are—until we had witnessed the Thalios play the "roaring farrer" entitled "English." A large company of other sinners were also present, and seemed to enjoy the acting as much as we would have enjoyed it if we had understood a word that the actors said. The hall is cozy, the stage not very commodious but well arranged, the music of the orchestra most excellent, and the acting, a good judge has assured us, is fully up to the standard of most of the regular theatrical companies of the larger cities. We know that Jaekel, who did the Jew, acted his part excellently; that Captain Decker dished up the valet in splendid style; that Prof. Baumeister was a fine young English gentleman in pursuit of a good-looking young German widow, who was personated to the life by Mrs. Mehnert; that Mr. Preuss was "mine most" to the life, and Mrs. Preuss all that could be desired as the Jew's wife. A good-looking young lady, whose name we do not know, personated the widow's maid finely, and, in fact, every one in the cast was up in his or her part, and had the words of the play trippingly on the tongue. We are betting high on the Thalios.

A CAIRO "BOY" IN TROUBLE. JOHN CORCORAN KILLS A MAN.—THREE BULLETS DO THE WORK.—SELF-DEFENSE.

Every person in Cairo knows John Corcoran, now a citizen of Friar's Point, Mississippi. He was born in this city, and is the son of the late Judge Corcoran. Some years ago, he started out into the world in search of a fortune and settled at Friar's Point, where he soon ingratiated himself with the negro population and became a prominent and active radical politician. He became an office-seeker, and at the radical convention held in Coahoma county, just previous to the late election in Mississippi, he and a Major Thomas Meaney were both candidates for the office of sheriff. Both gentlemen ran well, and it was found necessary to take up a third man, Mr. Fred Alcorn, who received the nomination. Mr. Corcoran then offered his name for the legislature, and, receiving the nomination, was elected to that body. This action engendered ill feeling between Corcoran and Major Meaney, the latter asserting that a compromise had been effected between Corcoran and Alcorn by which the former had been elected.

Saturday night, 18th inst., the two gentlemen, Corcoran and Meaney, met at Friar's Point, and in a fight which ensued Mr. Corcoran, the Memphis Avalanche says, was severely whipped. The next morning Major Meaney hunted up Mr. Corcoran for the avowed purpose of again whipping him. This time Mr. Corcoran was prepared, and upon the Major making a beligerent demonstration he drew a navy-six and fired three times, every ball striking the Major. After being shot the Major walked a short distance when he fell to the ground. He was carried to a neighboring point and surgeons summoned. The wounds proved mortal, as he died the following morning. Mr. Corcoran immediately after the shooting went before a magistrate and gave bonds for his appearance the next morning. Upon a preliminary examination, after the death of Major Meaney, he was discharged, the evidence showing that the shooting was done in self defense.

BACON. —The Rev. Mr. Jackson on the evils of stealing it.—A HIGH OLD PUFF FOR LINCOLN AND MUNN.

The Rev. M. Jackson, of the African Methodist church, last Sunday, preached a very impressive sermon on the "Evils of Stealing Bacon." The eloquent discourse was called out by the publication in THE BULLETIN of the fact that Henry Boyd, a member of Jackson's golly flock, had attempted to steal from the steamer Jasper a canoe full of bacon. The eloquent divine took for his text "Thou shalt not steal." He said this was the command of the Lord, and should be obeyed. If an ordinary human being had said "thou shalt steal," he was of the opinion it would not be out of order in a member of his church to lay his hand on another man's property, but no good Methodist would steal after being told by the Lord to let things be. If a member of the church should get into an office he might steal, because it was a question in serious dispute whether it was better to be a Christian or a republican, and since a person could not be the latter without going for things while in office robbing, when discreetly done and carefully concealed, might be tolerated in an office-holding church member. But, he added, there could be no excuse for a hungry nigger who steals bacon and is caught in the act. He ought to suffer the consequences and should not be allowed to remain in good standing in the church. "Do the angels steal?" queried the minister. "No. They are too smart. Do the seraphim and cherubim and seraphs and other celestial beings—do they steal? No. And if they did, do you think, beloved hearers, they would steal bacon! Ah, no; they would go for something else, something finer and worth more—something not made with hands eternally in the heavens." And then he prayed that, if Boyd was guilty of taking the bacon, the law should deal with him relentlessly; but, he added, "Blessed Father, if Hen. Boyd ain't guilty—if, good Master, Henry didn't take that bacon—the Lord be with him, and get him out of jail as He did Peter of old, as He got Daniel out of the den of lions and the three children out of the fiery furnace. Hire him a lawyer, oh, kind Father, and let me add, that all the black men say Linegar is as good a one as can be employed to keep a nigger out of the penitentiary. If, however, You have heard anything against Dave take Munn. One of the two is necessary to Henry's good, and both are well posted on bacon, and Thine be the glory, and we shall wear a golden crown and walk on the golden pavement of the New Jerusalem, where people or angels don't eat and there is no bacon to steal, and no jails and no penitentiaries, and glory hallelujah. Amen."

—The Commerce (Mo.) Dispatch says that Cairo has "the babies" worse than it ever had the seven-year locusts, and then adds:

"A fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind; so says somebody—and although we feel for our Cairo neighbors, we can't, in our present condition, reach them. We have alarming prospects ahead,
